Arctic Cold Rolls Southward; Snow Covers Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A snow storm and cold wave, whistling in 10 days in advance of spring, nearly paralyzed highway travel in parts of the Midwest Saturday.

Stores closed and bus schedules were suspended in the hardest hit areas of the Northern Plains.

The full-blown storm buried South Dakota, southwestern Minnesota and northwestern Iowa under as much as one to two feet of snow and fanned eastward toward Wisconsin and southern Michigan.

A surge of arctic cold rolled southward from the snow belt.

Northerly winds reaching 35 to 45 miles an hour caused moderate to heavy snow drifting.

Stores closed at midmorning in Mitchell, S.D., where new snow piled up to a depth of 24 inches. Stores also shut down in Sioux Falls, S.D., which wallowed in 13 inches of new snow. Bus travel between the two cities was canceled, planes by-passed Sioux Falls.

Northerly winds picked up during the day bringing road travel almost to a standstill in South Dakota, southwestern Minnesota, which got up to 12 inches of new snow, and northeastern Iowa which had 12 to 13 inches. Northwest Nebraska had 5 inches.

Cold wave warnings went up for all or parts of Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Iowa. Heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and upper and lower Michigan.

The heavy snow and strong winds were expected to create blizzard conditions in northeast and north-central Nebraska and central and southeast South Dakota.

Lower Michigan and Wisconsin expected from 4 to 8 inches of snow.

Wind gusts were 20 to 25 miles an hour in the Dakotas, causing some drifting, and up to 40 miles an hour in Iowa.

Much colder weather was forecast for eastern section of the Midwest, where springlike conditions had prevailed. The mercury was expected to dip to —15 degrees in northwest Minnesota with

Need For Greater Business Skills Is Described Here

"The small businessman needs to draw on the experience of others in a layman's language that he can understand," stated C. Ray Martin, deputy regional director, Small Business Administration of Dallas, at Louisiana's third annual small business clinic Saturday morning at the Frances Hotel.

The small business clinic was started and the Small Business Act of 1953 was passed to meet that need, Martin pointed out. "The beginner now requires a level of business skill and competence unknown a few years ago and in conflict with such competition as was then undreamed," he said.

The clinic was co-sponsored by the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women and the State Department of Commerce and Industry.

Local area temperatures Saturday ranged from a high of 72 to a low of 44.

M'Clellan Named Chairman Of Gas Bill Probe Group

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The Senate's special lobby investigating committee got ready for business today after more than two weeks of bickering over who was going to run the show and how.

Yielding to pleas by both Republican and Democratic leaders, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), a veteran investigator, agreed to serve as chairman of the new bipartisan group.

"Out of a sense of duty to the United States Senate," McClellan said he would undertake "this most disagreeable and difficult task" in the hope that it will result in some constructive legislation.

In effect, McClellan will share the direction of the committee's broad inquiry into lobbying and campaign donations with the Republican vice chairman, Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire.

This resolved a dispute that arose from the Senate's decision to make it an evenly balanced committee, with four Republican and four Democratic members.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) seemed a cinch to head the group when it was created on Feb. 23 but it soon became apparent that he and the Republicans, Bridges especially, had different ideas about who was going to head the committee and how it should be run.

After some tugging and hauling, Gore decided nobody was getting anywhere so he stepped aside and the chairmanship went swiftly to McClellan, a familiar television figure during the Army-McCarthy hearings.

Bridges commented that the only member to "resist" McClel-

Rigid Support Advocates See Final Victory

Farm Bill Action Resumes Monday On Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)— Congressional advocates of rigid mandatory farm price supports said today they still expect to win out despite two major setbacks in the Senate last week.

"I believe there is an excellent chance for at least a one-year extension of mandatory 90 per cent supports, particularly on wheat," Sen. Young (R-ND) said in an interview.

"The questioned tie vote last night in which Vice President Nixon rescued a major section of the administration's flexible and lower price support program. Nixon cast the deciding tally after a 45-45 tie vote on knocking out special mandatory supports on wheat, but the procedure was challenged by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn).

The battle over the controversial farm measure was suspended until Monday with indications that the Senate can complete action sometime next week.

Then the measure must go back to the House which last May 5 voted a two-year extension of rigid supports on basic crops by a narrow 206-201 margin.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said:

"The House will stand by the House vote until the last minute. I don't have any idea of doing anything other than standing pat."

House refusal to accept the Senate version in its entirety, which is highly unlikely, will send the measure to a conference committee.

Cooley, who will head the House conferees, pointed out that the top five members of his committee, both Republicans and Democrats, "all have been staunch supporters of the 90 per cent program."

The other House conferees will be Reps. Poage (D-Tex), Grant (D-Ala), Hope (R-Kan) and Andersen (R-Minn).

Cooley said a deadlock would throw the whole farm bill fight "back on the House floor and I

Long Sees Threat Of Hike In Taxes; Backs Road Plans

BATON ROUGE, March 10—UP—Gov.-elect Earl K. Long has stamped his approval on two of six amendments up for vote in the April 17 general election, but said he was emphatically opposed to a controverial taxing power amendment.

Long, who will take office in May, said he favored amendments four and six which will mean a new approach to Louisiana's highway program by providing $50 to $60 million a year for highways.

Amendment No. 4 would dedicate to the general fund $12.5 million annually from state - owned mineral leases and royalties, while six would establish a long range highway fund. It would consist of all revenues, unless allocated previously, from auto licenses, use fuel taxes, lubricating oil and five cent motor fuel tax.

"I'm for those amendments," Long said. "But I want the people to know if the tidelands money

Drive For Funds By Red Cross Is Nearing Mid-Way

At the end of the first nine days of the 1956 campaign for memberships and funds for the Ouachita Red Cross chapter almost half of the $42,500 goal had been reached, it was reported yesterday by campaign chairmen Richard Hale and W. G. Haynes, Jr.

The present reported total is $16,592.20. This includes a partial report from several of the 10 divisions which are working in the campaign, according to the chairmen.

"This total compares above the reports for the same period during the past two years," Haynes and Hale pointed out.

"We should, everyone of us, feel as much a part of this campaign as those 700 people who have been working the past two weeks to give the people of our parish the assurance that there will be sufficient help in cases of natural emergency.

"Just during the past two weeks there have been families and individuals who have come to Red Cross with real problems that could be met because we made provisions for helping our neighbors last year," the chairmen said.

The next report on the progress of the fund drive will be made Tuesday afternoon, the chairmen said.

Chairmen for the ten divisions of the local campaign are:

Advance gifts, Richard Hale; North Monroe Business, John Collins and D. L. Foreman; South Monroe Business, L. T. Harper, and Robert A. Wunsch; West Monroe Advance, Louis Gruber and Tom Hicks; Employees groups, S. S. Hollan; Special Groups, Gene Demmery; Rural, C. C. Boardman West Monroe Business, Cliff Roberts and Gordie Roy; Negro, David Johnson and Reuben Myles; and Residential, Mrs. Eunice Forman, Mrs. A. S. Angus Cow Gives Birth To Quads

POINT CLEAR, Ala., March 10 (AP)—An Aberdeen Angus cow gave birth today to four fine calves, an event rarer than human quadruplets.

The shinny black calves were born on the nearby ranch of O. H. Delchamps, Mobile, Ala., businessman.

Dr. J. Greely Moore, Mobile veterinarian, said quadruplet calves occur once in every several million births.

Ranch Manager L. H. Harris said the babies were doing nicely.

New Oil Discovery Reported At Houma

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP)— The Sun Oil Co. and the Pure Oil Co. told today of a new oil discovery in Pelto Bay, Terrebonne Parish, La., about 30 miles south of Houma.

The jointly owned well, drilled from a barge in seven feet of water is on a 3,350-acre state-owned tract. It tested 326 barrels of oil a day. The owners are preparing to start a second well 750 feet south of the producer.

Arabs, Israel In New Clashes Along Frontier

Egyptians Claim Air Forays Over Gaza Strip Area

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, March 10—UP—Egypt charged that Israeli jet fighter planes made repeated forays over the Gaza border strip Saturday.

Both Egypt and Israel also complained of new shooting incidents along the explosive Arab - Israeli frontiers.

An Egyptian military spokesman at Gaza said Israeli aircraft in two and three-plane formations, made seven sorties over the strip which separates the two countries. He said the aerial invasions were made in a three-hour period Saturday afternoon.

The Israeli planes were driven off by heavy fire from Egyptian anti-aircraft batteries, the spokesman said. He did not say whether any of the planes were hit.

Two persons were reported killed in the incidents, latest in the series involving Israeli forces and Syrian, Jordanian and Egyptian troops in recent weeks.

An Israeli army spokesman announced that a police patrol drove off a band of Jordanian infiltrators that slipped across the border to attack the village of Naham in the Jerusalem corridor Friday night. Israeli police trapped the Arabs in ambush and killed one, the spokesman said. A settler was wounded fatally by automatic rifle fire in the brief fight.

An Egyptian military spokesman at Gaza charged that Israeli forces opened fire with automatic weapons on a Egyptian position in the region of Deir el Balah, south of Gaza, Saturday morning.

He said the Egyptians did not return the fire and there were no casualties. A protest is being made to the United Nations mixed armistice commission, he added.

In Cairo, meantime, the Arab "big three" prepared to wind up their conference to coordinate political and military policies in the event of war against Israel.

But dispatches from the Jordan capital, of Amman said that Egyp-

Olin's Hardwood Flooring Mill At Shreveport Burns

SHREVEPORT, La., March 10 —UP—A fire caused several hundred thousand dollars worth of damage to the Olin Mathison Hardwood company here today.

Eight fire companies responded to the call and all off-duty firemen were called back into service.

The flames demolished 10,000 square feet of the flooring plant, which also housed a drying kiln and a power center. However, several other portions of the sprawling plant were saved.

W. H. Brown, a vice president of the company's forest products division, said the loss will total several hundred thousand dollars, but no exact estimate was available.

The firm had just finished installing more than $100,000 worth of new equipment in the destroyed structure.

Shreveport Fire Chief J. W. Cook suffered a burn on his hand. Gas service was shut off to the factory and the action affected a number of small commercial establishments nearby.

CLIMBS TREE AT AGE 90—Mrs. Eugenia Frazier, of Springfield, Vt., was 90 yesterday, and celebrated her birthday by climbing a Maple tree near her home, before taking a trip to Canada to visit the home where she was born in 1866. U. S. Officialdom Shocked By Britain's Deportation Of Greek Church Leader

WASHINGTON, March 10—UP—U. S. officials were shocked and dismayed Saturday by Britain's deportation of Archbishop Makarios from Cyprus.

Senate leaders of both parties deplored the move. They said it will cause a worsening of an already-serious situation in the Middle East.

Administration officials revealed that the U. S. government had no advance knowledge of the action. "We were in complete ignorance of what the British were doing," one official said.

It was learned that Britain has informally apologized for the failure to advise the State Department in advance. British diplomats were said to have explained that a "breakdown of communications" between London and Cyprus caused a delay in notifying Washington until after the arrest had been carried out.

This did not greatly mollify American officials who have a vivid memory of the loud protests which have gone up in London in the past when the British foreign office felt the United States had

Four Perish As Seminary Burns In Massachusetts

LENOX, Mass., March 10 —UP —Four Catholic clergymen perished and 127 others climbed and leaped to safety Saturday as a $1 million fire swept the castle - like Shadowbrook Jesuit Seminary, once the summer estate of steel magnate Andrew Carnegie.

Some of those who escaped knotted together sheets and blankets and used them as escape ladder. A total of 16 priests, 100 seminarians, and 11 lay brothers fled the flames. One, brother Richard Wolf 20, of Rockville Center, N. Y., fell two and one half stories when his gope of blankets tore. Fellow Jesuits caught him safely in a blanket.

Some of them escaped by jumping from windows, climbing down ladders and by fire escapes.

Authorities believed the fire was started by an oil explosion in the boiler room. Flames mushroomed up through elevator shafts of the three-floor 75-room mansion after the fire started shortly after midnight. By dawn only ruins were left.

The dead:

The Rev. Stephen A. Mulcahy, 58, a native of Boston and former dean of the Boston College arts and sciences department. He was teaching Latin to students at the seminary, where Jesuit priests are trained.

Cypriots Call General Strike; Tension Mounts

Flood Of Criticism Hurled At Eden's 'Mistake' In Exile

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 10 (AP)—A general strike paralyzed Cyprus today. The island's protest to the exile of Archbishop Makarios was further underscored by outbursts of violence at nightfall.

British paratroopers searched the residence and garden of Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement, and reported they found a small arsenal.

They came away from the archbishop's residence with a gasoline bomb, 10 unfilled bombs and 18 rounds of pistol ammunition, British officials said.

Paratroopers hurling tear gas smashed small demonstrations at Limassol, Polis, Kyrenia and Famagusta. Bombs were thrown at two British houses at Limassol but there were no casualties.

All air freight shipments out of Nicosia were being held at the airport for 24 hours as a precaution against time bombs.

Workers, clerks, shopkeepers, and printers stopped work in protest of the sudden British action in exiling Makarios.

British authorities warned that the general strike was a violation of emergency regulations.

But Greeks stayed away from their jobs in droves. Only Turkish-run shops were open.

The Archbishop, official sources in London disclosed, was aboard a British warship on his way to the remote Seychelle Islands, 800 miles northeast of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean. There a small bungalow, 1,800 feet above the sea, was reported being readied for his enforced residence.

"It is a delightful place — sunny, peaceful and beautiful" but a bit lonely, said Lady Addis, wife of Gov. Sir William Addis.

The repercussions were violent in Greece, the mother country. Thousands of Greek students and demonstrators shouting "Death to the British," set fire to a British

Virginia Woman Gives Birth To Identical Quads

RICHMOND, Va., March 10 (AP) Mrs. Richard Shaia, 32-year-old Richmond housewife, today gave birth to identical quadruplet girls in a "normal" delivery at St. Luke's Hospital.

"The babies are in as good a shape as could be hoped for at this time," attending physicians said. The quads weighed a total of 16 pounds, 3½ ounces and were born over a period of 14 minutes

Mrs. Shaia and her husband, 32, who operates a Richmond restaurant in partnership with his brother, have five other children, ranging in age from 2 to 9.

An AB blood incompatibility, similar to an Rh factor, turned up in two of the five previous Shaia children. Doctors said they were watching the quads, placed in two incubators, for any signs of this incompatibility.

The AB blood factor may cause a jaundice or other complications after birth.

Two pediatricians, two obstetricians and four nurses participated in the deliveries.

Shaia said he and his wife had been "expecting" the birth of quadruplets.

House Bloc Demands Action At Once

President Expected To Present Views On Federal Civil Rights Legislation

WASHINGTON, March 10—UP—The administration's long-delayed stand on civil rights legislation may be spelled out next week under prodding of the House Civil Rights bloc, it was learned Saturday.

President Eisenhower is expected to advocate stricter voting safeguards for Negroes and undoubtedly will recommend setting up a bipartisan, bi-racial commission to try and solve kindred problems. He feels a commission study is the best approach to current tension in the South.

Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) told the United Press that leaders of the House group pressing for civil rights legislation will make a new bid for action next week. He said a six-member informal committee has an appointment to see Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers Tuesday morning to discuss the type of proposed legislation being prepared by Attorney General Hebert Brownell Jr.

Scott said this will be followed Tuesday afternoon by a meeting of all House members who are pushing civil rights legislation.

The unanswered question is whether the administration proposals will go as far as the House bloc wants.

Brownell has told some congressmen that present laws are not adequate to protect the voting rights of Negroes as intended in the constitution. He promised the administration would submit corrective recommendations.

Almost the entire Southern bloc in Congress also has been active. Members are circulating for signature a group pledge to support school segregation by "any lawful measure." The move originated in the Senate. Sponsors hope for as many as 100 signatures. Informed sources said House members from seven Southern states already had signed up 100 per cent. Contents of the resolution were kept secret pending final agreement on its wording.

Arabs, Israel In New Clashes Along Frontier

Egyptians Claim Air Forays Over Gaza Strip Area

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, March 10—UP—Egypt charged that Israeli jet fighter planes made repeated forays over the Gaza border strip Saturday.

Both Egypt and Israel also complained of new shooting incidents along the explosive Arab - Israeli frontiers.

An Egyptian military spokesman at Gaza said Israeli aircraft in two and three-plane formations, made seven sorties over the strip which separates the two countries. He said the aerial invasions were made in a three-hour period Saturday afternoon.

The Israeli planes were driven off by heavy fire from Egyptian anti-aircraft batteries, the spokesman said. He did not say whether any of the planes were hit.

Two persons were reported killed in the incidents, latest in the series involving Israeli forces and Syrian, Jordanian and Egyptian troops in recent weeks.

An Israeli army spokesman announced that a police patrol drove off a band of Jordanian infiltrators that slipped across the border to attack the village of Naham in the Jerusalem corridor Friday night. Israeli police trapped the Arabs in ambush and killed one, the spokesman said. A settler was wounded fatally by automatic rifle fire in the brief fight.

An Egyptian military spokesman at Gaza charged that Israeli forces opened fire with automatic weapons on a Egyptian position in the region of Deir el Balah, south of Gaza, Saturday morning.

He said the Egyptians did not return the fire and there were no casualties. A protest is being made to the United Nations mixed armistice commission, he added.

In Cairo, meantime, the Arab "big three" prepared to wind up their conference to coordinate political and military policies in the event of war against Israel.

But dispatches from the Jordan capital, of Amman said that Egyp-

Olin's Hardwood Flooring Mill At Shreveport Burns

SHREVEPORT, La., March 10—UP—A fire caused several hundred thousand dollars worth of damage to the Olin Mathison Hardwood company here today.

Eight fire companies responded to the call and all off-duty firemen were called back into service.

The flames demolished 10,000 square feet of the flooring plant, which also housed a drying kiln and a power center. However, several other portions of the sprawling plant were saved.

W. H. Brown, a vice president of the company's forest products division, said the loss will total several hundred thousand dollars, but no exact estimate was available.

The firm had just finished installing more than $100,000 worth of new equipment in the destroyed structure.

Shreveport Fire Chief J. W. Cook suffered a burn on his hand. Gas service was shut off to the factory and the action affected a number of small commercial establishments nearby.

CLIMBS TREE AT AGE 90—Mrs. Eugenia Frazier, of Springfield, Vt., was 90 yesterday, and celebrated her birthday by climbing a Maple tree near her home, before taking a trip to Canada to visit the home where she was born in 1866. She said, "I misspent my youth, and now I'm making up for lost time." Her husband doesn't approve of her annual birthday stunts, she said. They have included roller skating, rope skipping and bicycle riding in recent years. (AP Wirephoto)

U. S. Officialdom Shocked By Britain's Deportation Of Greek Church Leader

WASHINGTON, March 10—UP—U. S. officials were shocked and dismayed Saturday by Britain's deportation of Archbishop Makarios from Cyprus.

Senate leaders of both parties deplored the move. They said it will cause a worsening of an already-serious situation in the Middle East.

Administration officials revealed that the U. S. government had no advance knowledge of the action. "We were in complete ignorance of what the British were doing," one official said.

It was learned that Britain has informally apologized for the failure to advise the State Department in advance. British diplomats were said to have explained that a "breakdown of communications" between London and Cyprus caused a delay in notifying Washington until after the arrest had been carried out.

This did not greatly mollify American officials who have a vivid memory of the loud protests which have gone up in London in the past when the British foreign office felt the United States had

Four Perish As Seminary Burns In Massachusetts

LENOX, Mass., March 10 —UP—Four Catholic clergymen perished and 127 others climbed and leaped to safety Saturday as a $1 million fire swept the castle - like Shadowbrook Jesuit Seminary, once the summer estate of steel magnate Andrew Carnegie.

Some of those who escaped knotted together sheets and blankets and used them as escape ladder. A total of 16 priests, 100 seminarians, and 11 lay brothers fled the flames. One, brother Richard Wolf 20, of Rockville Center, N. Y., fell two and one half stories when his gope of blankets tore. Fellow Jesuits caught him safely in a blanket.

Some of them escaped by jumping from windows, climbing down ladders and by fire escapes.

Authorities believed the fire was started by an oil explosion in the boiler room. Flames mushroomed up through elevator shafts of the three-floor 75-room mansion after the fire started shortly after midnight. By dawn only ruins were left.

The dead:

The Rev. Stephen A. Mulcahy, 58, a native of Boston and former dean of the Boston College arts and sciences department. He was teaching Latin to students at the seminary, where Jesuit priests are trained.

The Rev. Henry B. Muollo, 54,

Cypriots Call General Strike; Tension Mounts

Flood Of Criticism Hurled At Eden's 'Mistake' In Exile

NICOSIA, Cyprus, March 10 (AP)—A general strike paralyzed Cyprus today. The island's protest to the exile of Archbishop Makarios was further underscored by outbursts of violence at nightfall.

British paratroopers searched the residence and garden of Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement, and reported they found a small arsenal.

They came away from the archbishop's residence with a gasoline bomb, 10 unfilled bombs and 18 rounds of pistol ammunition, British officials said.

Paratroopers hurling tear gas smashed small demonstrations at Limassol, Polis, Kyrenia and Famagusta. Bombs were thrown at two British houses at Limassol but there were no casualties.

All air freight shipments out of Nicosia were being held at the airport for 24 hours as a precaution against time bombs.

Workers, clerks, shopkeepers, and printers stopped work in protest of the sudden British action in exiling Makarios.

British authorities warned that the general strike was a violation of emergency regulations.

But Greeks stayed away from their jobs in droves. Only Turkish-run shops were open.

The Archbishop, official sources in London disclosed, was aboard a British warship on his way to the remote Seychelle Islands, 800 miles northeast of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean. There a small bungalow, 1,800 feet above the sea, was reported being readied for his enforced residence.

"It is a delightful place — sunny, peaceful and beautiful" but a bit lonely, said Lady Addis, wife of Gov. Sir William Addis.

The repercussions were violent in Greece, the mother country. Thousands of Greek students and demonstrators shouting "Death to the British," set fire to a British

Virginia Woman Gives Birth To Identical Quads

RICHMOND, Va., March 10 (AP) Mrs. Richard Shaia, 32-year-old Richmond housewife, today gave birth to identical quadruplet girls in a "normal" delivery at St. Luke's Hospital.

"The babies are in as good a shape as could be hoped for at this time," attending physicians said. The quads weighed a total of 16 pounds, 3½ ounces and were born over a period of 14 minutes.

Mrs. Shaia and her husband, 32, who operates a Richmond restaurant in partnership with his brother, have five other children, ranging in age from 2 to 9.

An AB blood incompatibility, similar to an Rh factor, turned up in two of the five previous Shaia children. Doctors said they were watching the quads, placed in two incubators, for any signs of this incompatibility.

The AB blood factor may cause a jaundice or other complications after birth.

Two pediatricians, two obstetricians and four nurses participated in the deliveries.

Shaia said he and his wife had been "expecting" the birth of quadruplets.

PEORIA, Ill. March 11 —UP— The mystery of the strange "beasties" which invaded Peoria was solved Saturday, at least to the satisfaction of the zoo keeper.

A motorist killed one of the animals with his car Friday night.

Police took the dead animal to zoo keeper Richard Houlihan who "definitely" identified it as a muskrat.

It was, Houlihan said, a "prime species."

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—Eastern Air Lines today announced it carried a total of 154,320 passengers in the seven-day period ended March 5, a new high weekly record. The previous peak traffic week was for seven days ended April 7, 1955, when Eastern carried a total of 153,034 passengers.

House Bloc Demands Action At Once

President Expected To Present Views On Federal Civil Rights Legislation

WASHINGTON, March 10—UP—The administration's long-delayed stand on civil rights legislation may be spelled out next week under prodding of the House Civil Rights bloc, it was learned Saturday.

President Eisenhower is expected to advocate stricter voting safeguards for Negroes and undoubtedly will recommend setting up a bipartisan, bi-racial commission to try and solve kindred problems. He feels a commission study is the best approach to current tension in the South.

Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) told the United Press that leaders of the House group pressing for civil rights legislation will make a new bid for action next week. He said a six-member informal committee has an appointment to see Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers Tuesday morning to discuss the type of proposed legislation being prepared by Attorney General Hebert Brownell Jr.

Scott said this will be followed Tuesday afternoon by a meeting of all House members who are pushing civil rights legislation.

The unanswered question is whether the administration proposals will go as far as the House bloc wants.

Brownell has told some congressmen that present laws are not adequate to protect the voting rights of Negroes as intended in the constitution. He promised the administration would submit corrective recommendations.

Almost the entire Southern bloc in Congress also has been active. Members are circulating for signature a group pledge to support school segregation by "any lawful measure." The move originated in the Senate. Sponsors hope for as many as 100 signatures. Informed sources said House members from seven Southern states already had signed up 100 per cent. Contents of the resolution were kept secret pending final agreement on its wording.

Conferees Seek Compromise Over Mississippi Law

JACKSON, Miss., March 10 (AP)—A special legislative committee will seek next week to iron out Senate-House differences in a bill permitting Mississippi to regulate public utility rates.

The administration bill received top-heavy votes in both houses after their public utilities committees spent days studying the measure.

But the Senate made 19 changes in the bill. They have to be reconciled by a special conference committee.

Gov. J. P. Coleman has expressed pleasure with the Legisture's work on the bill.

The House changed the original bill to permit nunicipalities to negotiate with utilities before issuing franchises, to permit regulation of industrial sales of natural gas, and to permit co-operative utilities to expand within municipalities.

But the Senate refused to permit co-op expansion in towns with more than 1,500 population, removed municipal water works from the bill, required telephone companies to cities a monthly franchise fee, and permitted manufacturers to negotiate directly with industrial suppliers of natural gas for lower rates.

Any one of the Senate changes could throw the House into heavy debate and delay final passage of the bill for days.

The House has agreed to set March 16 as the final date for introduction of bills. No date for final adjournment has been suggested but some lawmakers believed the Legislature would quit April 8.

The Senate has not acted on the House cut-off date resolution.

Gov. Coleman's adult probation bill and Sen. Frank Turman's bill seeking to eliminate merchants' trading stamps have passed the Senate and are expected to be considered by the House next week.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Walter Sillers of Bolivar County called for representatives to submit to the rules committee a list of the bills they consider non-controversial for inclusion on a special calendar.

This "non-controversial" calendar is the only way the House can pass bills during the final days of the session.

Many controversial measures die on the general calendar because the Legislature hasn't time to consider them.

Red Cross Groups Formed To Help War Casualties Prove Peace Time Worth

BY HELEN FRIEDEL MOSIER

With the world about us coming into feathery green, and with flowering spring bringing beauty back to our everyday surroundings, we might remember for a little while something that happened long ago in another part of the world. A seed was planted in a field, so to speak, and in our time we see the very special blossom of that seed—a red cross, on a white ground.

Once upon a time, not so long ago, this beautiful land in this section was the scene of battle, and there were few who did not bear witness to the deep human suffering that went with it. No matter how much one person wanted to relieve suffering, one alone could do pitifully little. A few years earlier in a different land—sunny Italy—another battle waged. It was 1859, and the towns in that part of Italy knew the heel of the army boot. The Austrians on one side, the Sardinians and French on the other—and when the Battle of Solferino was over, 20,000 on one side and 15,000 on the other were estimated as missing, killed or wounded. There they lay, the human residue of war, beneath the hot sun of June with only a few surgeons moving through the tangled remnants of the armies. One young man, alone, came to the scene.

He was traveling from his own Country, Switzerland, and happened to be near, but when Henri Dunant saw the fields where so much suffering lay helpless he forgot his travels. He began to do what he could alone, bathing wounds, carrying water, administering dressings and comforting the dying. What could any person alone do? A young man not yet thirty could not work miracles. Henri Dunant didn't try.

Instead, he went to the towns and villages where he persuaded the women to come with him and work over the helpless soldiers. "Tutti fratelli!" they cried—"All are brothers!" That thought became a guiding light to them—and to Dunant. At that time countries did not have their armies organized to care for the wounded. That would not come until later when the fighting forces could see plainly that the fields of wounded and dead interfered with the moving of fighting units. They came to understand the effect of that human suffering on the soldier at the front. A few years before, the English Florence Nightingale, with a few nurses, had gone to the Crimean Wars to nurse the soldiers—but there on that spot one such gesture meant nothing for these helpless victims.

It isn't hard to understand how the impact of this experience drove Dunant into writing a booklet describing it—"Un Souvenir de Soferino," published in 1862. What he wanted to do was to call the attention of the world to the need for an organization to care for the wounded "without distinction of nationality," to prevent death and relieve suffering. In the toll of war, neglect resulting in infection and epidemic added to the death lists. Only a short time later the South, in our part of the world, was seeing the heartbreak of needs such as those sending young Dunant into action. His appeals and arguments led to a meeting in 1863 of various countries at Geneva, and next came the real step.

ADD RED CROSS GROUPS 3-2MT

For in the next year, 1864, 14 nations drew up a treaty called the Geneva Convention. It agreed to protect societies organized in time of war to care for the wounded, that they might do their work. The United States had a representative at that Convention, but the delegate did not sign—almost symbolic of the human suffering which was to follow. The emblem of the red cross on a white field was chosen to honor Dunant, reversing the colors of the Swiss flag, and years later he was to receive the first [illegible] for his work. Countries signing the treaty would organize "Red Cross Society" groups, though the Mohammedan lands would not use the cross, and in Turkey a red crescent would take its place, with the society called, "The Red Crescent Society." The heart of the symbolic meaning was the same—"Tutti fratelli."

"All are brothers!" Yet in 1864 Lincoln was putting Clara Barton, who had resigned a clerk's job in a Washington office to help nurse soliders, in charge of hospitals for Union troops. The record shows that the United States did not sign the Red Cross Convention until 18 years later, when the brief presidency of Garfield ushered in Arthur's term. By that time, 1882, Clara Barton had worked in Europe with Red Cross Societies and knew what needed to be done in this country. Decorated there for her work, she came home and began organizing after the same pattern. The next year the president signed the convention—a tardy gesture.

One of the first disasters to show how we needed peace-time Red Cross was when the 75-foot wall of water floorded Johnstown, Pa., when the dam gave away in 1889. There was 1906, when about one third of San Francisco burned — only a year after Teddy Roosevelt, as president, signed the bill when Congress reincorporated the organization as the American National Red Cross. Officially designated by the Government to supplement the work of Army and Navy medical units, functioning under an international treaty—the fact that a permanent staff is always ready — these are the flowerings of that far-away seed in Italy.

The heartbreak of humanity and the throb of human pain. . . . over all, the protecting wings of man's compassion for man's suffering. . . hallowed be the seed of this flower.

Sheriffs Eye Law In Jefferson To Remove Powers

BATON ROUGE, March 10—UP—Louisiana sheriffs eyed a Jefferson parish law today which some feared might set a pattern for restricting law enforcement power of the sheriffs.

The Louisiana Sheriff's Assn. discussed the new law which would divert enforcement power from the Jefferson parish sheriff to the police department.

Sheriff Chester Wooten of Plaquemines parish said the association which met here for a conference seriously discussed the new arrangement.

He said the association believed any move to cut sheriff's enforcement power is contrary to the public interest.

Some sheriffs said the new law, if widely adopted, could become a threat to half the sheriffs of the state.

Under the plan Jefferson's sheriff and deputies will become tax collectors.

Jules G. Mollere, nominee for commissioner-at-large in Jefferson said no one wanted to cut the sheriff's power out of spite, but that parish development "now request a municipal city type government" with enforcement power in the hands of police.

Representing Gov. - elect Earl Long at the association session were Atty. Gen.-Designate Jack Gremillion and Auditor - Designate Bill Dodd.

Raymond Hufft, New Orleans campaign leader for Long, spoke briefly.

He is reported to be in line for state police supterintendent after Long takes office in May.

The sheriffs discussed numerous mutual problems but did not announce any final resolutions adopted.

When a population increases its numbers at the rate of 2.7 per cent every year, it will double in about 26 years.

For in the next year, 1864, 14 nations drew up a treaty called the Geneva Convention. It agreed to protect societies organized in time of war to care for the wounded, that they might do their work. The United States had a representative at that Convention, but the delegate did not sign—almost symbolic of the human suffering which was to follow. The emblem of the red cross on a white field was chosen to honor Dunant, reversing the colors of the Swiss flag, and years later he was to receive the first [illegible] Prize for his work. Countries signing the treaty would organize "Red Cross Society" groups, though the Mohammedan lands would not use the cross, and in Turkey a red crescent would take its place, with the society called, "The Red Crescent Society." The heart of the symbolic meaning was the same—"Tutti fratelli."

"All are brothers!" Yet in 1864 Lincoln was putting Clara Barton, who had resigned a clerk's job in a Washington office to help nurse soliders, in charge of hospitals for Union troops. The record shows that the United States did not sign the Red Cross Convention until 18 years later, when the brief presidency of Garfield ushered in Arthur's term. By that time, 1882, Clara Barton had worked in Europe with Red Cross Societies and knew what needed to be done in this country. Decorated there for her work, she came home and began organizing after the same pattern. The next year the president signed the convention—a tardy gesture.

One of the first disasters to show how we needed peace-time Red Cross was when the 75-foot wall of water floorded Johnstown, Pa., when the dam gave away in 1889. There was 1906, when about one third of San Francisco burned — only a year after Teddy Roosevelt, as president, signed the bill when Congress reincorporated the organization as the American National Red Cross. Officially designated by the Government to supplement the work of Army and Navy medical units, functioning under an international treaty—the fact that a permanent staff is always ready — these are the flowerings of that far-away seed in Italy.

The heartbreak of humanity and the throb of human pain. . . . over all, the protecting wings of man's compassion for man's suffering. . . hallowed be the seed of this flower.

PRE-EASTER REVIVAL

TALLULAH, March 10 (Special) —A Pre-Easter Revival will begin at the Methodist church here Sunday night with the Rev. Jolly B. Harper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in Ruston as the guest minister.

Music for the services will be under the direction of Maurice Ursery with Mrs. J. C. Sherwin as organist.

SPAIN OUTLAWS IT

MADRID, March 10—UP—Spain Saturday outlawed prostitution and ordered "houses of tolerance" abolished. A seven-point decree law banning the age-old profession called for establishment of homes where prostitutes could learn legitimate trades.

Sheriffs Eye Law In Jefferson To Remove Powers

BATON ROUGE, March 10—UP —Louisiana sheriffs eyed a Jefferson parish law today which some feared might set a pattern for restricting law enforcement power of the sheriffs.

The Louisiana Sheriff's Assn. discussed the new law which would divert enforcement power from the Jefferson parish sheriff to the police department.

Sheriff Chester Wooten of Plaquemines parish said the association which met here for a conference seriously discussed the new arrangement.

He said the association believed any move to cut sheriff's enforcement power is contrary to the public interest.

Some sheriffs said the new law, if widely adopted, could become a threat to half the sheriffs of the state.

Under the plan Jefferson's sheriff and deputies will become tax collectors.

Jules G. Mollere, nominee for commissioner-at-large in Jefferson said no one wanted to cut the sheriff's power out of spite, but that parish development "now request a municipal city type government" with enforcement power in the hands of police.

Representing Gov. - elect Earl Long at the association session were Atty. Gen.-Designate Jack Gremillion and Auditor - Designate Bill Dodd.

Raymond Hufft, New Orleans campaign leader for Long, spoke briefly.

He is reported to be in line for state police supterintendent after Long takes office in May.

The sheriffs discussed numerous mutual problems but did not announce any final resolutions adopted.

When a population increases its numbers at the rate of 2.7 per cent every year, it will double in about 26 years.

Dulles Contemplates 'No Change' In Indian Policy Despite 'Differences'

NEW DELHI, India, March 10 —UP—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Saturday he contemplated no change in American policy on India despite a divergence of viewpoints on world problems.

Relations between India and the United States "are on a happy basis and I see no reason to change them," Dulles told a news conference."

Authoritative sources said Dulles and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru exchanged views on a wide range of world issues during their six hours of private talks in the past two days. Informants said the subjects included the recent Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow, the situation in the Middle, Near and Far East with particular emphasis on India-Pakistan relations.

The sources said that Dulles was surprised at the deep concern of possible Pakistan aggression as expressed by Nehru. Nehru, according to the informants, felt that American military aid to Pakistan constituted a direct threat to the security of India.

Nehru was reported to have told Dulles that India is forced to build up militarily because the nited States is arming Pakistan. The sources said Dulles expressed sympathy with the Indian viewpoint but added that American policy is aimed at maintaining the peace.

The sources said Dulles told Nehru that the United States did not want to get involved in any local disputes between India and Pakistan. The main aim of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, to which Nehru is opposed, is to defend free nations against Communist aggression or subversion, Dulles said.

According to the informants, Dulles made it clear that the United States would not stand by idly and allow India to be overrun by aggressive forces, Communist or otherwise.

Saturday's meeting highlighted a budy day for the secretary. He began by laying a wreath at the funeral pyre of Mohandas K. Gandhi, who was murdered by an Indian extremist in 1948. He lunched with President Rajendra Prasad and conferred briefly with Vice President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan.

200 To Attend Newspaper Meet At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP)—More than 200 newspaper men and women are expected here next weekend for the annual Louisiana Press Association convention.

The Louisiana Daily Newspapers Assn. will meet in conjunction with the LPA.

Most of the 125 newspapers published in the state are expected to be represented at the meeting. These include 106 weeklies, 11 metropolitan dailies, and eight non-metropolitan dailies.

Prizes will be awarded at noon Friday for the best front page, best news picture, advertising layout country correspondent, Louisiana government editorial, community service, human interest story, agricultural news coverage, local editor, best regular column, rural news coverage, want ad contest, and special edition.

The jointly-owned Times-Picayune and New Orleans States will sponsor a banquet for the publishers Friday night.

Mayor deLesseps Morrison will conduct a bus tour of modern New Orleans Saturday afternoon. A boat trip and dance are scheduled for Saturday night.

Officers will be elected Saturday morning.

R. W. Wagner of Jena is president of the LPA, and Ralph Bienvenue of Abbeville, is vice president. It is customary for the vice president to move up to the presidency.

Grains Nervous Amid Confusion In Chicago Pits

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP)—In a series of nervous and highly confused markets, grains jumped about erratically on the Board of trade this week.

At the end of the performance soybeans were higher, rye lower and wheat, corn and oats both higher and lower, depending upon which future you looked at. Lard was uniformly lower.

To some extent the market reflected confusion of traders over the new farm bill.

Wheat finished the week 2⅞ lower to ⅝ higher, corn ⅜ lower to 1½ higher, oats ¾ lower to 1½ higher, rye 2¼-4½ lower, soybeans ¼ to 3 cents higher and lard 17 to 25 cents a hundred pounds lower.

VATICAN CITY, March 10 (AP) — Pope Pius XII received 41 American journalists and broadcasters today in a special audience.

The Pontiff shook hands and spoke in English with the group who are touring Europe, Africa and the Middle East.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hooten, El Paso Times; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pfeiffer, Raton (N.M.) Range, and their daughter, Linda.

LENTEN TEACHING

TALLULAH, March 10 (Special) —The Rt. Rev. Iveson B. Noland, the Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Louisiana, will conduct a four day Lenten Teaching Mission at Trinity Episcopal church beginning at 7:30 March 12. The theme of the mission will be "The Seven Sacraments of the Church."

Cash Lacking In Home; Small Son Dies Tragically

The family of Buford Vidrine, 1512 Bennie Breece street, West Monroe has been in dire financial need, and to climax troubles, a seven-year-old son was fatally injured when struck by a wood truck on Jewell street near his home Thursday night. He died on the way to the hospital in Monroe.

Vidrine, head of the family, has had no work for many months and besides the parents there are now three sons and one daughter, and their means of livelihood is a serious matter.

A neighbor is reported to have visited the family when she heard of the death and was amazed to find that there was barely anything to eat in the house.

Today it is reported that neighbors have got up a few dollars, but the great problem is to find a job for the head of the family.

The funeral of the little fellow who was crushed to death under wheels of the big truck, was held at 10 a. m. Saturday, at the United Penticostal Church with Rev. W. T. Hemphill, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Hasley cemetery under direction of the Mulhearn Funeral home.

Chemical Plant Construction Set For Lake Charles

NEW YORK, March 10—UP—Plans for construction of an estimated $12.5 million petrochemical plant at Lake Charles, La., to produce anhydrous ammonia for use primarily as a fertilizer, was announced today.

The announcement was made by F. M. Simpson, vice-president and general manager of Petroleum Chemicals, Inc., which is owned jointly by Continental Oil Co., and Cities Service Co.

The plant will produce 100,000 tons of ammonia annually and will employ approximately 100 men, Simpson said. Construction will start within the next few weeks and is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1957.

By-product hydrogen, the principal raw material for ammonia, will be supplied to the new installation by the continental and cities Service refineries near Lake Charles.

The major portion of the ammonia produced will be sold as fertilizer and will be marketed by Mid - South Chemical Corp., of Memphis, Tenn.

If the ice on Greenland were melted, the level of the world's oceans would rise 24 or more feet.

The 1956 Presidential Campaign

The 1956 presidential election is less than eight months ahead, and never in recent American political history have the issues and personalities been so beclouded, or wrapped in fog and obscurity.

There is a definite reason for this—President Eisenhower's illness and the long uncertainty that ensued, whether he felt able to run for a second term, or would.

The President's illness brought about an enforced and uneasy truce in both major political parties. It was something like the long truce that preceded the end of the Truman-launched Korean war—inspired by stark necessity rather than amity and good will. Dissident Republicans held their fire, knowing that they could not unseat Ike if he decided to run. Top ranking Democrats, skilled political generals, were unable to plan a unified campaign but were forced to plan various alternative campaigns all dependant upon the issue of Ike's choice of intentions. The fate of such ranking Democrats as Former Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois were involved directly and perhaps indelibly in this single issue.

In the meantime, the broad sweep and scope of debate that has usually preceded by many months and more than a year the actual nominating conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties was lacking—choked, muted, hushed.

Out of respect for Ike, and innate decency, the leading Democratic contenders "pulled their punches" and talked soft and low. Such belligerant Republicans as Senator Knowland of California, minority leader of the Senate, felt impelled to soft-pedal their talk. The young popular Vice President, Richard Nixon, placed in a hard spot, perhaps the hardest that any Vice President ever faced, carried on—assuming many executive duties delegated to him by Ike, but by the nature of things unable to open his mouth against the calumnies heaped against him by Communists and lefists generally.

In a way, the country is loser by all of this—since logn and free and frank debate and exchange of opinions are essential to the workings of a Republic in a presidential year. The people elect Presidents and Senators and House Members. They are the sovereigns, their votes are all-powerful. The plausible idea of a "short campaign" is deceitful and hollow, and dangerous to America's future.

Perhaps now that the deadwood has been cleared away from a Republican standpoint, we shall have an open forum and free and full debate concerning issues and personalities in the presidential campaign primaries and general election.

This campaign may furnish some of the most startling surprises and upsets of recent years.

To mention one, the opposition of the South to the racial integration legislation and decrees of the U. S. Supreme Court is solidifying at a rapid rate; and against the big Negro bloc vote of such States as New York, Illinois, Michigan and Pennsylvania there is arising the definite possibility that the South may split off from both major parties and launch, in earnest a third-party ticket.

The mere fact that the Citizens' Councils originated in the South are growing in membership by many thousands every month and now have been organized in 44 States is a tip-off to the tremendous potentialities of the Southern revolt against federal usurpation of rights constiuionally and hisorically guaranteed to the States and the people.

This revolt, of course, is intended to protect the rights of every State; and since the Supreme Court abondoned and disavowded law and precedent in its historic integration decision, no State and no individual knows where the next decree by this politically appointed and judicially inexperienced body will strike; or what other fundamental liberties it will attempt to set aside by force and fiat. The next one may hit the North, like a maul.

The country has confidence in Ike, who has restored integrity to government, and was sweepingly elected on a program pledging reform, peace and prosperity—all of which, in large measure, have been achieved.

Ike, however, cannot be reelected as a "captive" of left-wing elements, or Dewey elements; and the people who by millions supported him in his last race for president, the bulk of the people, irrespective of party, now feel that they need some reassurance. They have been bothered for months by insistent talk aired on the air waves and in the press that he has crossed a line and now leans to the left of the center. They are entitled to know the truth, and make up their minds, as citizens and voters; and the people would be reassured if Ike merely would read and reaffirm the utterances that he delivered in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Complexity Of The 'Farm Problem'

The U. S. Senate's decisive refusal of rigid farm price supports, by a vote of 54 to 11, increases the prospect that a farm bill agreeable to the Eisenhower administration may be enacted at the current session of Congress.

The President, according to such close associates as Secretary of Agriculture Benson, in all probability would have vetoed any farm bill restoring the old rigid 90-per-cent of parity price supports on basic crops.

Secretary Benson is an ardent champion of flexible price supports, ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity, on the theory that these, if properly used, would help to alleviate the growth of government-controlled surpluses—already amounting to well over $8 billion.

Chief emphasis in the administration's new farm proposals, of course, is placed upon the soil bank plan, to retire marginal and poor farm lands from cultivation over a period of years.

President Eisenhower, himself, has acknowledged that the administration plan is no panacea for the ailments now afflicting a portion of American agriculture. But he has argued that the plan definitely will alleviate distress on the farms, and at the same time give federal authorities new and perhaps effective controls over the mounting surpluses.

The so-called "farm problem" exists only in the sense that prosperity on the farms is necessary to prosperity of the people as a whole—a fact amply demonstrated statistically, and capable of clearcut proof. The heavy decline in farm income since World War II, compared to general income, is an undoubted danger signal, a threat to the nation's economy and prosperity.

Beyond that point, the "farm problem" resolves itself, on analysis, into a complex series of problems, springing from many different causes, incapable of a single, over-all solution. As an instance, let us glance at the plight of Southern cotton growers.

The South's cotton acreage allotments have been cut down drastically. Part of this reduction was forced by the opening of new arid lands in the West, Arizona and California, notably; through irrigation projects sponsored by the federal government and financed in part by Southern tax money. The planting of vast cotton acreages in desert regions such as the Rio Grande above and below El Paso, the Gila and Salt Rivers in Arizona, and the Imperial Valley and other areas of California was made possible solely through vast federal expenditures for dams, canals and laterals. The South received no offsetting benefits whatever.

While all this was in progress, our federal government over a period of more than two decades has been subsidizing, encouraging and assisting foreign governments—Mexico, Brazil, India, Egypt and Turkey, to mention a few—in the expansion of their own cotton growing industries—from the clearing of raw virgin land and the building of great irrigation dams to the construction of gins, compresses, storage warehouses, and even mills and factories to produce finished products; all in direct competition to our own cotton growing and processing industries. This effort is being pursued zealously today.

And during the same period, American private industry led by such chemical giants as DuPont, spending billions of dollars for research and experiment, has perfected synthetic fibers—rayon, nylon, spun glass—to supplant both cotton, wool in part, and mohair and deal new blows to the growers of the fleecy staple and sheep and goats.

Cotton interests, from grower to manufacturer, have themselves to blame for the fact that they have done no comparable research and experiment; but have been on the whole phlegmatic and self-satisfied; and even today are by no means exerting themselves to the full extent possible.

The ills of the Southern cotton industry are by no means confined to these vast regional, federal and international developments. The continual progress of labor-saving machinery, mechanically driven, has effected a revolution in the cotton fields. The small farmer finds it increasingly difficult, often impossible, to compete with the big plantation owner. There is a continuous liquidation of small farms. Acreage controls and federal restrictions generally, high taxes, the trend toward specialization, are making it hard on the little fellow. At the same time, improved horticultural practices and soil chemistry are increasing yields year after year, despite enforced cuts drastically applied on an acreage basis.

Thus, even the briefest of surveys reveals the astounding complexity and many-sided nature of the "farm problem" as applied to the basic commodity, cotton.

How can we dispose of the present 11-million bale government surplus, at home or abroad?

Now, an examination of the plight affecting growers of other basic farm crops would reveal equally diverse, often conflicting, and apparently baffling factors, each applying independently in its own field and each tied to a particular set of developments and circumstances.

Even partial solution of the "farm problem" must depend upon a sweeping revision of American policies and actions, which cannot be achieved successfully on a political basis; but must be realistically pursued on many fronts, meeting each individual issue from the standpoint of an over-all objective and hard common sense.

The Independent Vote

WASHINGTON, D. C. — How much of the independent vote has President Eisenhower held since the last election? If the campaign directors of the two major parties knew, they could come fairly close to predicting the outcome of the 1956 presidential contest.

Political polls which now put the president far out in front of any potential Democratic nominee are looked askance by Democratic leaders, first because they contend it is too early for polls to have an accurate bearing on the November outcome; second because the 6,500,000 margin by which Ike was elected, it has been generally agreed, was largely composed of voters who were not adherents of either party, and who might swing to the Democratic side this time.

A further argument is that President Eisenhower, who started as a moderate progressive, must now be regarded as a conservative, so that the presidential race this time will be a liberal vs. conservative contest, of a type in which the Democrats have held the edge for 20 years.

The independent vote, these same Democrats say privately, includes several million voters who said in 1952 that they would like to have supported Adlai Stevenson, but went to Eisenhower instead because they did not like the propagandized "mess in Washington" and the attempt of President Truman to extend his influence over Stevenson. This time Truman will be a back number, they hazard, and the Democratic nominee will make his own campaign.

At the outset, the questions about Eisenhower's health raised by Stevenson and by Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National committee are privately criticized by some veteran Democrats in Congress of considerably more experience than either Stevenson or Butler. The time to raise the health question if at all, they contend will be during the fall campaign. Furthermore, the early test polls of voter's sentiment, if they have any validity are strongly pro-Eisenhower and were taken when most every person polled was well aware of Ike's physical condition.

Each Democratic candidate must determine his own strategy up to the mid - August convention at Chicago, and their tendency is to stick to the obvious targets until the party has taken a stand on a general line of attack. That involves a number of difficulties.

Democrats will find it hard to attack "the Eisenhower record" on which he says he intends to run, even though a large part of it has not been accomplished. Health insurance, aid to schools, improved highways, expanded social security, have all had Democratic support and their origin traces back to New-Deal-Fair Deal days. So the chief criticism must be against the failure of the administration to act, and that is answerable in that the Democrats have control of the present Congress.

Farm Surplus Size Mystery

WASHINGTON — Everyone blames the "farm surplus" for most of the farmer's ills, but the size of the surplus is a mystery.

Although President Eisenhower, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Congressmen and farm organizations agree the surplus is "huge," none has said how huge. When asked for figures on the size of the surplus, the Agriculture Department says "it's anybody's guess."

Meanwhile Senate debate continues on farm legislation designed to solve the farmer's income decline and cut down the surplus.

Officially, the government held $8.7 billion in farm commodities at the end of 1955. Most of the investment was in three commodities—$2.9 billion worth of wheat, $2.3 billion worth of cotton and $1.6 billion worth of corn. The investment was financed and controlled by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), a government corporation which acquires farm products through the price support program.

However, according to the Agriculture Department, "not all the commodities in the CCC inventory can be regarded as surplus."

"Certain proportions" of the government's holdings, says the Department, "may be considered desirable from the standpoint of reserves against national emergencies." Neither Benson nor the Department has yet specified just how much would be "desirable."

Reasons for the Surplus

Even the experts don't agree on the cause of whatever the surplus may be. Take cotton, for instance. Behind CCC's $2.3 billion investment were these facts:

U. S. farmers raised 36.8 per cent more cotton in 1954-1955 than they did in 1950-1951.

In the same period, world production of cotton jumped 31.1 per cent.

In 1954, the per capita civilian consumption of cotton in the U. S. was 25.4 pounds — a shade lower than the 25.5 pound average for the years 1935-1939.

During the same years, per capita consumption of rayon and acetate — both synthetic fabrics produced in a factory instead of on the farm—jumped from 2.6 pounds to 7.1 pounds.

From 1950 to 1954, exports of U.S. cotton dropped 18.2 per cent.

Thus, U. S. farmers were raising more cotton, while people at home and abroad were using less.

Proposals to close the gap between production and consumption generally fall into two categories—get farmers to plant less or induce people to use more. President Eisenhower's farm program emphasizes the first course. His "soil bank" plan would provide financial inducements to farmers to stop planting crops on part of their land.

Another approach is offered in a study directed by Leon Keyserling, former chairman of ex-President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers. The study, under the auspices of the Conference on Economic Progress, urges greatly increased consumption. According to CEP, "underconsumption, resulting from poverty and poor income distribution even in prosperous times," is one of the "general but largely neglected causes of the farm surpluses."

Getting Rid of the Surplus

Despite the lack of agreement on the size or cause of the surplus, the clamor to get rid of it keeps rising. During fiscal 1955, CCC sold, bartered or gave away $2.1 billion worth of government-owned food and fiber. This was almost a $1 billion increase over the $1.4 billion worth of disposals in fiscal 1954.

At the last count, over two million needy persons in the United States were receiving free food from the government's stocks. In addition, $247 million worth of food commodities was given away for overseas use during the last fiscal year. Total overseas disposals, through donations, sales and barter, aounted to $1.1 billion in fiscal 1955.

Although only 26.5 per cent of total disposals during fiscal 1955 actually were given away, CCC lost $799 million on its operations for that year — the highest loss ever recorded.

Editor, Morning World:

Totals on our Heart Fund Drive are not available as yet (still a little money coming in). However, we all feel that we can call it successful. By acquainting the people of this area with the aims and ideals of Louisiana Heart Association, we learned they were very generous. Though I am far afield when it comes to the proper use of newspaper and publicity, I feel that your cooperation on many, many occasions through Heart Month contributed greatly to the success of our campaign.

Thanks very much for your patience and cooperation during this drive.

Editor, Morning World:

Congratulations to you for the courageous editorial you ran last Sunday defending Senator Eastland of Mississippi against the attack being made upon him by left wing senators Lehman (N. Y.) and Morse (Ore.) because of his stand on the segregation issue. We need more men in public life with the courage of Senator Eastland.

It has just recently come to light through the press that both of these honorable (?) Democrat U. S. Senators, Lehman and Morse, have been serving as directors of the NAACP. No wonder they were so anxious to pounce on such an outstanding segregation leader as Mr. Eastland!!!

While on the subject I'd like to clear up one local point of view: Quite a number of our local citizens have taken great delight in spreading a rumor all over town to the effect that the supreme court integration order was a Republican action.

Nothing could be further from the truth and I would like to squelch these rumor mongers by calling their attention to the fact that eight of the nine justices on the high court are New Deal democrats, having been appointed by Roosevelt or Truman. Only one, Earl Warren, who was appointed by Ike, is a Republican. The decision of the court was unanimous, all nine voting to force the NAACP agitators down our throats.

Regardless of our politics, lets keep the facts straight.

Editor, Morning World:

I notice that John Foster Dulles and President Eisenhower now want to extend the foreign aid over a period of ten years. I wonder why Mr. Dulles goes looking for Communists in foreign lands when we are told that the Soviet Embassy, the U.N. and the Tass News Agency operate a spy ring here in the U.S. Why do they not first clean up the Communist Party here? It does not make sense to aid other countries to keep them out and we have them here. For instance, take a look at the Far East and France. If you want the answer to what good Foreign aid has done in these two countries —France is out of a government about as much of the time as she has one. More of the Far East will become neutral because it pays to be neutral. They get promises of aid from Russia which I do not believe the Russians will live up to. But, when the U.S. is committed, we pay off. Therefore, they can get more from us if the Russians make a promise.

Now, they tell us we need more roads and more schools. If we had spent as much on roads and schools without an additional tax burden to the people of the U.S.

It is time we, the American people, get some real statesmen in the government that will adopt a fair but firm foreign policy which it seems we have not had since the Marshall plan went into effect.

I am perfectly willing that the U.S. send the countries hard hit by the hard winter they have had in the other parts of the world surplus food we have, but no more money earned by the sweat of the tax payers.

If you want to help your Senators or Congressmen, stop this give - away plan. Write or wire him: if you don't , then don't howl about too many taxes.

A Good Law Isn't That Bad

(EDITOR'S Note—Paul Harvey has definitely made plans to cover both the 1956 Democratic and Republican conventions. At that time, his column will, of course, carry important information about developments at the conventions.)

A respected national news magazine devoted a feature article to "How To Be Well Paid In Spite of Taxes."

I'm not criticizing the magazine. It happens to be a favorite of mine. It is a powerful publication because it is close to the pulse of the people.

That's what's frightening about the prominence given this "advice to tax dodgers."

I don't care how you phrase it. The law says "tax avoidance" is legal, "tax evasion" is not.

I say the whole system is bad and evil and wrong when there's a law on the books that makes borderline crooks of us all!

This article tells how businesses manage to grant raises that are "taxproof." It recounts all sorts of devices and shenanigans and legal loopholes for capital gain and ways to pad a business expense account with personal extravagance.

And that's not all.

The same law that encourages a man to marginal malfeasance also pays a reward to anyone who snitches on him.

Recently 26 people in Chicago collected more than forty thousand dollars from the government for informing on tax evaders. Mostly, they bore personal grudges against the chiseler.

Wives cannot testify against their husbands, but can tattle on them to the government and collect a reward.

In one case, an employee was promised a piece of the business. The boss didn't come through. So the employee told the revenue agents about certain stock transactions on which the boss had neglected to pay taxes.

You hear of movie magnates quitting fabulous jobs to become "independent producers."

They can make less money and keep more through the Capital Gains provisions in the tax law.

Decent men are led into sucker deals in the oil business by a handful of unscrupulous operators who promise "depletion allowance."

Big name entertainment stars sign "lifetime" contracts.

All that means is that, instead of a big taxable salary now, he'll take less now. Later, when he's "retired" he'll be retained as an "advisor" and his salary goes on as long as he lives.

The law is flagrantly discriminatory against the nine-to-five guy who can't hope for a "big deal."

As it is unjust to the executive who goes to Florida and becomes a part-time beachcomber because he can't afford to work himself into a higher surtax bracket.

The present graduated income tax law is "against" everybody except the hoodlum who does business in case and keeps no records.

Would it not be infinitely more fair to set a maximum income tax of 25 per cent? (It is now 91 per cent).

Before we awaken one morning and discover that the Sixteenth Amendment has cost us all private property.

Destroy the dollar incentive that has spawned our prosperous productivity, continue to punish those who profit, and we're all bound for the beach.

Already, American industry which is taxed more than half its earnings is forced to go to Washington, tin cup in hand, and beg from big government the capital it needs for expansion.

But worse than this is the moral bankruptcy it breeds when decent, ambitious Americans ultimately learn that only crime pays anymore.

The 1956 Presidential Campaign

The 1956 presidential election is less than eight months ahead, and never in recent American political history have the issues and personalities been so beclouded, or wrapped in fog and obscurity.

There is a definite reason for this—President Eisenhower's illness and the long uncertainty that ensued, whether he felt able to run for a second term, or would.

The President's illness brought about an enforced and uneasy truce in both major political parties. It was something like the long truce that preceded the end of the Truman-launched Korean war—inspired by stark necessity rather than amity and good will. Dissident Republicans held their fire, knowing that they could not unseat Ike if he decided to run. Top ranking Democrats, skilled political generals, were unable to plan a unified campaign but were forced to plan various alternative campaigns all dependant upon the issue of Ike's choice of intentions. The fate of such ranking Democrats as Former Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois were involved directly and perhaps indelibly in this single issue.

In the meantime, the broad sweep and scope of debate that has usually preceded by many months and more than a year the actual nominating conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties was lacking—choked, muted, hushed.

Out of respect for Ike, and innate decency, the leading Democratic contenders "pulled their punches" and talked soft and low. Such belligerant Republicans as Senator Knowland of California, minority leader of the Senate, felt impelled to soft-pedal their talk. The young popular Vice President, Richard Nixon, placed in a hard spot, perhaps the hardest that any Vice President ever faced, carried on—assuming many executive duties delegated to him by Ike, but by the nature of things unable to open his mouth against the calumnies heaped against him by Communists and lefists generally.

In a way, the country is loser by all of this—since logn and free and frank debate and exchange of opinions are essential to the workings of a Republic in a presidential year. The people elect Presidents and Senators and House Members. They are the sovereigns, their votes are all-powerful. The plausible idea of a "short campaign" is deceitful and hollow, and dangerous to America's future.

Perhaps now that the deadwood has been cleared away from a Republican standpoint, we shall have an open forum and free and full debate concerning issues and personalities in the presidential campaign primaries and general election.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — How much of the independent vote has President Eisenhower held since the last election? If the campaign directors of the two major parties knew, they could come fairly close to predicting the outcome of the 1956 presidential contest.

Each Democratic candidate must determine his own strategy up to the mid - August convention at Chicago, and their tendency is to stick to the obvious targets until the party has taken a stand on a general line of attack. That involves a number of difficulties.

Democrats will find it hard to attack "the Eisenhower record" on which he says he intends to run, even though a large part of it has not been accomplished. Health insurance, aid to schools, improved highways, expanded social security, have all had Democratic support and their origin traces back to New-Deal-Fair Deal days. So the chief criticism must be against the failure of the administration to act, and that is answerable in that the Democrats have control of the present Congress.

Farm Surplus Size Mystery

WASHINGTON — Everyone blames the "farm surplus" for most of the farmer's ills, but the size of the surplus is a mystery.

Although President Eisenhower, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Congressmen and farm organizations agree the surplus is "huge," none has said how huge. When asked for figures on the size of the surplus, the Agriculture Department says "it's anybody's guess."

Meanwhile Senate debate continues on farm legislation designed to solve the farmer's income decline and cut down the surplus.

Officially, the government held $8.7 billion in farm commodities at the end of 1955. Most of the investment was in three commodities—$2.9 billion worth of wheat, $2.3 billion worth of cotton and $1.6 billion worth of corn. The investment was financed and controlled by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), a government corporation which acquires farm products through the price support program.

However, according to the Agriculture Department, "not all the commodities in the CCC inventory can be regarded as surplus."

"Certain proportions" of the government's holdings, says the Department, "may be considered desirable from the standpoint of reserves against national emergencies." Neither Benson nor the Department has yet specified just how much would be "desirable."

Reasons for the Surplus

Even the experts don't agree on the cause of whatever the surplus may be. Take cotton, for instance. Behind CCC's $2.3 billion investment were these facts:

U. S. farmers raised 36.8 per cent more cotton in 1954-1955 than they did in 1950-1951.

In the same period, world production of cotton jumped 31.1 per cent.

In 1954, the per capita civilian consumption of cotton in the U. S. was 25.4 pounds — a shade lower than the 25.5 pound average for the years 1935-1939.

During the same years, per capita consumption of rayon and acetate — both synthetic fabrics produced in a factory instead of on the farm—jumped from 2.6 pounds to 7.1 pounds.

From 1950 to 1954, exports of U.S. cotton dropped 18.2 per cent.

Thus, U. S. farmers were raising more cotton, while people at home and abroad were using less.

Proposals to close the gap between production and consumption generally fall into two categories—get farmers to plant less or induce people to use more. President Eisenhower's farm program emphasizes the first course. His "soil bank" plan would provide financial inducements to farmers to stop planting crops on part of their land.

Another approach is offered in a study directed by Leon Keyserling, former chairman of ex-President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers. The study, under the auspices of the Conference on Economic Progress, urges greatly increased consumption. According to CEP, "underconsumption, resulting from poverty and poor income distribution even in prosperous times," is one of the "general but largely neglected causes of the farm surpluses."

Getting Rid of the Surplus

Despite the lack of agreement on the size or cause of the surplus, the clamor to get rid of it keeps rising. During fiscal 1955, CCC sold, bartered or gave away $2.1 billion worth of government-owned food and fiber. This was almost a $1 billion increase over the $1.4 billion worth of disposals in fiscal 1954.

At the last count, over two million needy persons in the United States were receiving free food from the government's stocks. In addition, $247 million worth of food commodities was given away for overseas use during the last fiscal year. Total overseas disposals, through donations, sales and barter, aounted to $1.1 billion in fiscal 1955.

Although only 26.5 per cent of total disposals during fiscal 1955 actually were given away, CCC lost $799 million on its operations for that year — the highest loss ever recorded.

Heart Drive Successful

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Totals on our Heart Fund Drive are not available as yet (still a little money coming in). However, we all feel that we can call it successful. By acquainting the people of this area with the aims and ideals of Louisiana Heart Association, we learned they were very generous. Though I am far afield when it comes to the proper use of newspaper and publicity, I feel that your cooperation on many, many occasions through Heart Month contributed greatly to the success of our campaign.

Thanks very much for your patience and cooperation during this drive.

PAUL C. BETTS,
Chairman, Ouachita Parish Heart Fund.

Defends Sen. Eastland

P. O. Box 1296,
Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Congratulations to you for the courageous editorial you ran last Sunday defending Senator Eastland of Mississippi against the attack being made upon him by left wing senators Lehman (N. Y.) and Morse (Ore.) because of his stand on the segregation issue. We need more men in public life with the courage of Senator Eastland.

It has just recently come to light through the press that both of these honorable (?) Democrat U. S. Senators, Lehman and Morse, have been serving as directors of the NAACP. No wonder they were so anxious to pounce on such an outstanding segregation leader as Mr. Eastland!!!

While on the subject I'd like to clear up one local point of view: Quite a number of our local citizens have taken great delight in spreading a rumor all over town to the effect that the supreme court integration order was a Republican action.

Nothing could be further from the truth and I would like to squelch these rumor mongers by calling their attention to the fact that eight of the nine justices on the high court are New Deal democrats, having been appointed by Roosevelt or Truman. Only one, Earl Warren, who was appointed by Ike, is a Republican. The decision of the court was unanimous, all nine voting to force the NAACP agitators down our throats.

Regardless of our politics, lets keep the facts straight.

Editor, Morning World:

I notice that John Foster Dulles and President Eisenhower now want to extend the foreign aid over a period of ten years. I wonder why Mr. Dulles goes looking for Communists in foreign lands when we are told that the Soviet Embassy, the U.N. and the Tass News Agency operate a spy ring here in the U.S. Why do they not first clean up the Communist Party here? It does not make sense to aid other countries to keep them out and we have them here. For instance, take a look at the Far East and France. If you want the answer to what good Foreign aid has done in these two countries—France is out of a government about as much of the time as she has one. More of the Far East will become neutral because it pays to be neutral. They get promises of aid from Russia which I do not believe the Russians will live up to. But, when the U.S. is committed, we pay off. Therefore, they can get more from us if the Russians make a promise.

Now, they tell us we need more roads and more schools. If we had spent as much on roads and schools without an additional tax burden to the people of the U.S.

It is time we, the American people, get some real statesmen in the government that will adopt a fair but firm foreign policy which it seems we have not had since the Marshall plan went into effect.

I am perfectly willing that the U.S. send the countries hard hit by the hard winter they have had in the other parts of the world surplus food we have, but no more money earned by the sweat of the tax payers.

If you want to help your Senators or Congressmen, stop this give - away plan. Write or wire him: if you don't , then don't howl about too many taxes.

A Good Law Isn't That Bad

(EDITOR's Note—Paul Harvey has definitely made plans to cover both the 1956 Democratic and Republican conventions. At that time, his column will, of course, carry important information about developments at the conventions.)

A respected national news magazine devoted a feature article to "How To Be Well Paid In Spite of Taxes."

I'm not criticizing the magazine It happens to be a favorite of mine. It is a powerful publication because it is close to the pulse of the people.

That's what's frightening about the prominence given this "advice to tax dodgers."

I don't care how you phrase it. The law says "tax avoidance" is legal, "tax evasion" is not.

I say the whole system is bad and evil and wrong when there's a law on the books that makes borderline crooks of us all!

This article tells how businesses manage to grant raises that are "taxproof." It recounts all sorts of devices and shenanigans and legal loopholes for capital gain and ways to pad a business expense account with personal extravagance.

And that's not all.

The same law that encourages a man to marginal malfeasance also pays a reward to anyone who snitches on him.

Recently 26 people in Chicago collected more than forty thousand dollars from the government for informing on tax evaders. Mostly, they bore personal grudges against the chiseler.

Wives cannot testify against their husbands, but can tattle on them to the government and collect a reward.

In one case, an employee was promised a piece of the business. The boss didn't come through. So the employee told the revenue agents about certain stock transactions on which the boss had neglected to pay taxes.

You hear of movie magnates quitting fabulous jobs to become "independent producers."

They can make less money and keep more through the Capital Gains provisions in the tax law.

Decent men are led into sucker deals in the oil business by a handful of unscrupulous operators who promise "depletion allowance."

Big name entertainment stars sign "lifetime" contracts.

All that means is that, instead of a big taxable salary now, he'll take less now. Later, when he's "retired" he'll be retained as an "advisor" and his salary goes on as long as he lives.

The law is flagrantly discriminatory against the nine-to-five guy who can't hope for a "big deal."

As it is unjust to the executive who goes to Florida and becomes a part-time beachcomber because he can't afford to work himself into a higher surtax bracket.

The present graduated income tax law is "against" everybody except the hoodlum who does business in case and keeps no records.

Would it not be infinitely more fair to set a maximum income tax of 25 per cent? (It is now 91 per cent).

Before we awaken one morning and discover that the Sixteenth Amendment has cost us all private property.

Destroy the dollar incentive that has spawned our prosperous productivity, continue to punish those who profit, and we're all bound for the beach.

Already, American industry which is taxed more than half its earnings is forced to go to Washington, tin cup in hand, and beg from big government the capital it needs for expansion.

But worse than this is the moral bankruptcy it breeds when decent, ambitious Americans ultimately learn that only crime pays anymore.

Library In Union Parish Is Dedicated By Citizens

FARMERVILLE, March 10 — Union parish citizens Saturday dedicated their first library with ceremonies in the agricultural building on the courthouse square.

Dr. Mary Mims, well known state educatior, was the principal speaker at the dedication which marked the establishment of the 43rd parish library in Louisiana.

Stressing the importance of a library in community life Dr. Mims said that "today there is a demand for knowledge in the economic, social and religious phases of every individuals life." This demand can be met through the facilities of a library, she reported.

The Union parish library was established through the joint efforts of the parish police jury and Louisiana State Library. The demonstration program will be in effect for one year. At the end of the year's demonstration property owners will vote a tax to continue the service as a parish supported and controlled project.

The parish school board furnished housing facilities for the library.

Also taking part in the dedication were Miss Essae Mae Culver, state librarian, William R. Alexander, president of the parish library board; Union parish state representative T. T. Fields; Mrs. Maude Oaklawn Clay, acting libraian; the Farmerville High School band, and others.

Tribute was paid by Dr. Mims to the police jury, P-T.A. groups, Home Demonstration clubs, garden and civic clubs, for their active support in establishment of the library.

Members of the library board are: W. R. Alexander, of Farmerville, president; Mrs. Mary Lee Phillips, of Marion, vice-president Mrs. N. Wick Laurence, Jr., of Bernice, treasurer; John M. Hinton, Downsville; Dennis Long, of Downsville, ex-officio member of the board and president of the police jury.

The staff is composed of Mrs. Clay, acting librarian; Miss Nancy McGinnies, assistant librarian, Mrs. E. J. Albritton, Jr., branch assistant, Mrs. D. L. Barron, headquarters assistant; Mrs. Edna Liggin, part time bookmobile assistant; Minor Lane, bookmobile driver.

Mrs. Clay reported that the library has 8,000 books, current magazines, and educational films.

Griffin Approves Interposition By Georgia's Solons

ATLANTA, March 10 (AP)—The interposition resolution by which the Georgia Legislature declared the Supreme Court decision outyawing public school segregation to be null and void today had official approval of Gov. Marvin Griffin.

It and two other segregation measures passed by the 1956 Legislature to be signed by Griffin and delivered to his office.

The other race measures signed into law were bills designed to circumvent an Interstate Commerce Commission order ending segregation of interstate passengers in waiting rooms of common carriers.

Meeting Of Team Captains Set For Chamber In W. M.

A meeting of team captains in the chamber of commerce membership drive in West Monroe will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the city hall, A. Olin Evans, chairman of the movement, said yesterday.

Evans said that enthusiasm appears to be mounting in favor of the new chamber and that the membership captains he has contacted during their drive have reported near 100 per cent acceptance of membership.

The chamber drive chairman said that he has received a list of potential secretary - managers from the regional office of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Dallas. Applications have been forwarded to those on the list with a request that they fill them out and return them promptly, Evans said. He said this will facilitate almost immediate hiring of a full time manager when the chamber becomes a reality.

Woodland Arson Charges Filed On Pair At Elizabeth

ALEXANDRIA, La., March 10 (AP)—Forestry agent Howard Ryder today filed arson charges against two men in connection with fires on forest lands eight miles north of Elizabeth.

State Forester James E. Mixon identified the two as Jimmy Cloud, 20, and Lester Johnson, 31, both of Glenmora.

Mixon said they were charged on four counts each of deliberately setting fire to forest land on the Elizabeth-Hineston road.

Ryder said the fires were set Feb. 28 by "slow matches" consisting of matches tied around a cigarette. Using this method, he said, arsonists can throw the lighted cigarette into the brush and be far away before the matches ignite.

When porpoises swam near ships, old - time sailors regarded it as an omen of fair winds.

Ex-Labor Racket Boss Critically Wounded In N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., March 10—UP—Louis D. Saperstein, convicted "front man" for a former labor racketeer, was found critically wounded behind a hospital Saturday in Newark's second gangland shooting in four days.

The 49-year-old political and labor figure was shot three times in the head. Police found him unconscious a few minutes after an anonymous telephone caller said he would be found behind St. Barnabas Hospital.

Hours after he was carried into the hospital, doctors said his condition was "still critical."

Saperstein, who lives in South Orange, N. J., works as an insurance broker. He was under a five-year sentence for contempt of a New York county grand jury investigation of welfare fund rackets and labor union insurance.

Hearings On Tax Violations Set

BATON ROUGE, La., March 10—UP—Collector of Revenue Rufus Fontenot today set hearings for retailers accused of violating the alcoholic beverage control law.

Some 97 alcohol retailers have been told to appear at hearings in New Orleans March 14-16. Additional hearings will be held in April in other parts of the state.

Some retailers violated the credit provisions of the law, Fontenot said, by failing to pay for all credit purchases within 15 days after delivery.

A retailer may lose his beverage permit temporarily for a violation.

Stevenson Continues To Attack Ike In Campaign

DETROIT, March 10—UP—Adlai E. Stevenson said Saturday night the conditions which President Eisenhower set down for running for President again sound more like rules for governing "a kingdom or a corporation" than a democracy.

Stevenson, hitting the entire Eisenhower administration record of the past three years, said the American people will have to decide this year "whether we are to permit a fundamental revision of the role of the President of the United States."

Stevenson said at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner that President Eisenhower "has announced that he is going to run for re-election under certain conditions — conditions relating to the limitations of time and energy which he can give to this greatest responsibility on earth, and to how this responsibility can be distributed among his associates.

"But such conditions, as the President stated them last week, sound more like the rules for governing a kingdom or a corporation. They are not the rules for governing a democracy," the Democratic presidential hopeful said.

Stevenson said if the Republicans feel they have an indispensable man in President Eisenhower, "one man who has all the answers, then this is the most important election this democracy has ever faced.

"This is not the question of President Eisenhower's health, but of the nature and stature of the presidency in our system," he said.

Stevenson also struck at the President for saying many things could be handled "equally well by my close associates."

Although the President's admiration for Vice President Nixon "is boundless," Stevenson said, "it is rumored, I hear, that for some reason he is going to dump his beloved vice president who has been captain of the team, at least the offensive team.

"So we may not yet know who the principal associate president is going to be."

Stevenson suggested that President Eisenhower "could assert effective leadership" in the South's racial problems" by direct conference and the use of his great popularity."

He said "we must avoid, even at the risk of misunderstanding and abuse, political expediency (in the racial issue) which will only increase tensions in an already supercharged area."

Stevenson Continues To Attack Ike In Campaign

DETROIT, March 10—UP—Adlai E. Stevenson said Saturday night the conditions which President Eisenhower set down for running for President again sound more like rules for governing "a kingdom or a corporation" than a democracy.

Stevenson, hitting the entire Eisenhower administration record of the past three years, said the American people will have to decide this year "whether we are to permit a fundamental revision of the role of the President of the United States."

Stevenson said at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner that President Eisenhower "has announced that he is going to run for re-election under certain conditions — conditions relating to the limitations of time and energy which he can give to this greatest responsibility on earth, and to how this responsibility can be distributed among his associates.

"But such conditions, as the President stated them last week, sound more like the rules for governing a kingdom or a corporation. They are not the rules for governing a democracy," the Democratic presidential hopeful said.

Stevenson said if the Republicans feel they have an indispensable man in President Eisenhower, "one man who has all the answers, then this is the most important election this democracy has ever faced.

"This is not the question of President Eisenhower's health, but of the nature and stature of the presidency in our system," he said.

Stevenson also struck at the President for saying many things could be handled "equally well by my close associates."

Although the President's admiration for Vice President Nixon "is boundless," Stevenson said, "it is rumored, I hear, that for some reason he is going to dump his beloved vice president who has been captain of the team, at least the offensive team.

"So we may not yet know who the principal associate president is going to be."

Stevenson suggested that President Eisenhower "could assert effective leadership" in the South's racial problems" by direct conference and the use of his great popularity."

He said "we must avoid, even at the risk of misunderstanding and abuse, political expediency (in the racial issue) which will only increase tensions in an already supercharged area."

Far-Reaching Race Bills Before Alabama Solons

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 10 (AP) —Far-reaching new measures have been woven into the widening pattern of legislation designed to preserve racial segregation in Alabama.

With the present special session of the Legislature scarcely more than a week old, bills have been introduced to:

Give college authorities a legal weapon against the enrollment of Negro students.

Allow cities to dispose of public recreational facilities to prevent integration there.

Empower railroads and buses to refuse to haul passengers who won't abide by "reasonable" rules and regulations on seating accomodations.

Resolutions have been adopted in one house or the other urging the Supreme Court to "modify" its anti-segregation decrees in public schools, and asking Congress to appropriate funds to transport Negroes out of the South.

Already enacted into law at previous legislative sessions since the historic school integration decision of 1954 are measures aimed at:

Keeping Negroes out of white schools below the college level.

Allowing school officials in two rural black belt counties to fire teachers who advocate non-segregated classrooms.

Making public the membership lists in two counties of the National Ass'n. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Along with those efforts to maintain the traditional color barriers, a proposed constitutional amendment will be submitted to the voters in a special statewide election Aug. 28 in a separate approach to the school integration problem. It would give parents "freedom of choice" to say whether their children attend integrated or segregated classes.

Most of the efforts toward preserving the color line since the present legislative session started March 1 have been directed at the University of Alabama and other state-supported institutions of higher learning.

They were prompted by the violence at the university following the enrollment of its first Negro Student, Autherine Lucy, who has since been expelled and is seeking re-admission.

One measure, by Rep. Charles McKay of Talladega, would require new students at any tax-supported college to submit written endorsements from three graduates of that school.

Since no Negro has ever graduated from a state-controlled white college, applications for admission to white schools would have to be recommended by white alumni.

An even stronger measure came from Rep. Pat Boyd of Pike County. It would authorize college authorities to investigate the background of all prospective students and turn them down if their presence would endanger the "lives, health or welfare" of students or the school.

Applicants also would be judged on their "morals, conduct, health, and personal standards" and their "home environment."

The Legislature itself could take over the administration of any institution under still another bill sponsored by Rep. Virgis Ashworth of Bibb County.

A constitutional amendment, it would empower the Legislature to convene itself in special session and take over the duties of college trustees any time conditions became "so turbulent" that school authorities couldn't cope with them.

Another proposed change in the state's organic law would give city governing bodies authority to sell or lease parks, swimming pools and golf courses to private operators to keep them segregated. It was introduced by Sen. Gerald Bradford of Clarke County.

One school segregation measure has already become law, enacted by the Legislature last summer.

It would give local school boards almost unlimited police power to tell individual pupils where to attend grade and high school classes.

Although neither race is mentioned by name, the purpose is to let the boards assign white pupils to white schools and Negroes to Negro schools.

In separate acts, the Legislature also authorized boards in Marengo and Macon counties to fire any teacher who advocates race-mixing in the schools. Negroes outnumber white residents in both counties.

Pope Expresses 'Great' Admiration For President

VATICAN CITY, March 10 (AP)—Pope Pius XII expressed "great admiration" for President Eisenhower today on the eve of a colorful ceremony celebrating the 80th birthday and 17th coronation anniversary of the head of the Roman Catholic Church.

The spiritual leader of 450 million Roman Catholics also responded to expressions of respect from the President by giving his blessing to all Americans, when he received John McCone, Los Angeles business man here to represent President Eisenhower at the ceremony.

Tomorrow's highlight will be a pontifical Mass in St. Peter's church, after which the Pope will give his blessing, "urbi et orbi"—to the City of Rome and the world.

Members of more than 40 embassies and legations accredited to the Vatican and special representatives of 45 heads of states will attend the Mass. There also will be about 25 cardinals, many archbishops and bishops and heads of religious orders.

Silver trumpets will herald the pontiff's entrance into St. Peter's biggest church in the world. Stepping from his portable throne, the frail, white-robed Pope will be seated at a throne.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals, has been given special permission to officiate at the papal altar, where normally only the Pope celebrates Mass.

The Pope's blessing to the world will come at the end of the Mass. Later he will give his blessing from the loggia of St. Peter's to thousands massed in the big, open St. Peter's square. If the weather is mild, he also will be carried on his portable throne into the Square for a second blessing.

After his private audience, McCone said he had handed the Pope a letter in which President Eisenhower expressed his respect and praised the Pope for his efforts for world peace and international well-being.

McCone said the Pope opened the letter in his presence and read it. Then, apparently highly pleased, he expressed his admiration for the President and recognition of the work he is doing. The Pope also gave his blessing at that time to the people of the people of the United States.

McCone, who was accompanied to the audience by his wife, was awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Sylvester Pope. This is the fifth highest Vatican decoration.

80 Jurors Named On Panel In Trial

SUMNER, Miss., March 10 (AP)—Eighty prospective jurors have been called to report Monday for the trial of a white man charged with slaying a Negro service station attendant.

The white man, Elmer Kimbell, 34-year-old Glendora cotton gin operator, has been held in the county jail at Charleston since he shot and killed Clinton Melton, 33.

Melton was killed Dec. 3 by a shotgun blast that climaxed an argument over the amount of gasoline he put in Kimball's car.

Kimbell pleaded innocent at arraignment. Previously he told officers he fired in self defense after the Negro shot at him.

However, Lee McGarrh, operator of the filling station where Melton worked, said Melton was not armed.

Kimbell will be tried in the same court room where the famous Emmett Till murder case was tried.

Two white men, Roy Bryant and his half brother, J. W. Milam, were acquitted by a jury of charged that they killed Emmett Till, 14-year-old Chicago Negro, who was visiting an uncle at Money, Miss.

Jack Howard Considering Making Race For Mayor

Jack Howard, Monroe business man and president of the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corp., said Saturday that he has been "greatly encouraged" recently to enter the race for mayor of Monroe.

Howard made the statement in an interview with a Morning World reporter.

Approached with the question, "Are you planning to run for mayor of Monroe?", Howard answered, "Well, in the past few weeks I have been greatly encouraged to make the race.

"It appears that Monroe residents are becoming more and more concerned about the present city administration and are agitating for a decisive change."

Howard appeared confident, but would not commit himself to being a candidate for mayor. He did, however, hint that his decision will be forthcoming in the next few days.

He also indicated that he has given considerable thought to entering the race. He was asked, "If you decide to run will you have a full ticket?"

He answered, "If I decide to make the race for mayor, I will certainly consider having at least one other candidate for the city council on my ticket, and there will possibly be a full ticket. But it is apparent that something must be done about our utilities.

"Anyone filling the office of mayor should have the full cooperation of the other two council members, so that the three, working as a team, can bring about a sound and desirable functioning of all departments in the city government."

Toward the end of the interview, the reporter pointed out, "You mentioned that residents are 'agitating for a decisive change' in the city administration. Do you mean by this that the residents are expressing their general dissatisfaction with the present administration?"

Howard answered, "Yes. I feel that the people who have encouaged me to run are dissatisfied with the lack of progress in all departments during the last four years.

"And I appreciate and welcome the expressions from our citizens, both as to their interests in a change as well as suggested programs whereby our city can make progress in our utilities department, police department, fire department, recreation department and in all others."

The potential candidate stressed Monroe's future possibilities when he said, "Monroe is rapidly becoming a large city. We canno' rest on any laurels of the past nor do we want to stop the rapid growth of our city.

"If we are to share in the bright future of the South, we must supply at least adequate facilities to encourage growth, and we must offer dynamic leadership to the community."

No one has, thus far, announced his candidacy for a post on the Monroe city council, including the present members.

The city Democratic executive committee will meet on Monday, March 19. Dates for qualifying in the municipal election will be from March 20 through March 29, according to George Fink, secretary of the committee.

Motorist Arrested Here On 5 Charges

A Monroe man was arrested yesterday on five charges and bond set at $625, according to City Police.

He was identified as Willie D. Fuller, 33, 1008 Washington street.

Fuller was charged with drunk driving, reckless driving, not having a driver's license and possession of a concealed weapon, a razor.

The man was arrested by Capt. J. E. McMullen and Officer Ocie D. Howard in the 200 block of Ouachita about 4:30 p.m.

JAMES A. NOE

Northeast Queen Will Be Selected Here This Week

Climaxing Friday evening's parade of beauty and talent at Northeast State will be the crowning of the "Miss Northeast," who will be selected by seven judges not affiliated with the college.

James A. Noe will have the signal honor of placing the regal symbol upon the lucky coed, whose loveliness, talent, and intelligence will be considered in bestowing the title for which twelve contestants are vying.

The "Miss Northeast" pageant is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in Brown Auditorium, and cost of admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Noe's interest in the college goes back to its establishment as Ouachita Parish Junior College which opened in the fall of 1931. When he became state senator he sponsored the legislative act which made the institution a branch of Louisiana State University.

With the years has come the change in the institution's name and administrators. Friday night's pageant will be in the nature of a silver anniversary celebration, and the setting for a galaxy of beauty and entertainment is designed to emphasize the twenty-five years which Northeast has experienced.

The Student Council - sponsored event is being directed by Bobby Joe Oden, junior journalism major, and Miss Charlotte Latham, freshman art student.

In the list of features which they have announced are a silver setting and winding stairway, from which the beauty contestants will step on to the stage. Special music is programmed, with the high point being Eloy Fominaya's composition, "Miss Northeast," written especially for the event.

Besides this number, Fominaya, assistant professor of music, will direct the Northeast chorus in several melodies from "Oklahoma," and Jack White will lead his popular Redmen Orchestra in a variety of numbers.

As a prelude to the pageant, President and Mrs. Lewis C. Slater are entertaining at a tea in honor of the entrants: Misses Frances Adams, Mt. Pleasant, Texas; Betty Bandy, West Monroe; Mary Jane Dreasler, West Monroe; Lynda Gaar, Monroe; Annette Hartley, Delhi; Melba Hill, West Monroe; Dot Hudson, Gallion; Doris Kitchens, Vicksburg; Mary Powell West Monroe; Tommy Sue Proctor, Lake Providence; Barbara West, Grayson; and Marie Willaimson, Monroe.

Pearce Reports

Much Of Pakistan Rice Shipment Is Louisiana Grown

BATON ROUGE, March 10—UP — Commissioner of Agriculture Dave Pearce said today nearly a half million tons of rice, much of it Louisiana grown, will be sent to Pakistan and Indonesia by the federal government.

Pearce said this was good news for rice growers who have been faced with huge surpluses, especially in the Lake Charles and Crowley areas.

He also announced that Louisiana dice now is being distributed to needy farm families in the state under the free federal food distribution program.

When the food program began earlier this year, Texas and Arkansas rice was used exclusively.

Most of the rice is presently being held in federally - owned warehouses.

"The foreign shipments and increased use of rice in the free food program puts us in pretty good shape now," he said. "But as long as we have rigid supports for rice we won't be able to compete on world markets."

Pearce called for a two-price system which would permit profitable marketing at home while at the same time subsidize U. S. rice to be sold overseas at low competitive prices.

First shipments of rice to Pakistan and Indonesia will leave the Lake Charles port in the next few weeks.

Part of the rice is being shipped under sponsorship of the International Cooperation Administration, Pearce said. But a portion of the shipments will be paid for in foreign currencies.

However, Lee McGarrh, operator of the filling station where Melton worked, said Melton was not armed.

Kimbell will be tried in the same court room where the famous Emmett Till murder case was tried.

Two white men, Roy Bryant and his half brother, J. W. Milam, were acquitted by a jury of charged that they killed Emmett Till, 14-year-old Chicago Negro, who was visiting an uncle at Money, Miss.

Piles—Get Relief Now

Millions of sufferers in the last 40 years have found a way to fast relief from itching smarting piles. They use a delightful cooling soothing astringent formula—Peterson's Ointment. No wonder one sufferer writes, "The itching and smarting were relieved, and I slept all night. Peterson's Ointment is marvelous." 50c & 75c, all druggists. Be delighted or money back.—Adv.

Another Civil Defense Conference Opens Mon.

The nation's first Civil Defense nurse-dental conferences outside of Civil Defense national headquarters opens in Monroe Monday with a 13-man federal, state and local faculty.

Francis A. Woolfey, state Civil Defense director, said that some 60 nurses and dentists are enrolled in the three-day event which will be held at Northeast State College. A reception for the participants will be held tonight from 7 to 9 in the campus home of President and Mrs. Lewis Slater.

The instructional program Monday will be devoted to an outline of Civil Defense by state aid federal Civil Defense leaders following an opening program at 8:30 a. m. with Slater and district Civil Defense officials participating.

A strategic briefing will be conducted by Dr. Art Ross, Battle Creek, Mich., extention training and training director of FCDA. The Louisiana Civil Defense program will be outlined by Louis J. Fortier, Baton Rouge, deputy directir.

The six-man special faculty which will augment the regular federal Civil Defense administration staff college instructors for the course is announced as follows:

Miss Margaret Schafer, Battle Creek, FCDA chief nurse; Dr. John W. Brough, FCDA dental consultant W. Brough, FCDA dental consultant; Dr. Thurmond D. Boaz, Monroe, associate director, social health department; Dr. Arye Woods, Dallas Civil Defense medical advisor; Col. Warner F. Bowers, Brooks General Hospital, San Antonio; Miss Mercedes Pittman, New Orleans, nursing consultant, state health department.

STARRED AT FOOTBALL —Huey Pong Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hines, Monroe, is now at Camp Chaffee. He enlisted in the Army last month. When in school here he was regarded as a prominent football player when attending Neville High school.

Rural Life To Be Observed By Program May 6

Rural Life Sunday, or Rogation Day, will be observed by most Protestant churches on May 6. "It is a day set apart for emphasizing the meaning of Christianity in rural life; a time for invoking God's blessing upon the seed, the fruits of the soil, the proper care of the earth, justice to agriculture, and the spiritual values in rural life," says Dr. Glenn F. Sanford, rural expert of the Methodist Church.

The theme for Rural Life Sunday is, "The seed, the soil, and the sower." "This has meaning for both the city dweller and the farmer on his broad fertile acres," says Dr. Sanford. "More and more the urban churches are receiving great spiritual value from this special day. The weakness of the rural church has in many instances been the failure of the town church.

"They have often forgotten each other, even as neighbors. Often the town church has been unconscious of the ills of the nearby small church; likewise, the rural church has not been deeply concerned about what happened to its members who moved to the nearby town. The town and country churches must work together — the land produces for all alike."

1956 Statewide Drive Underway

With "Child Safety" as its theme, the 1956 statewide Easter Seal campaign began Saturday with initial mailings of appeal letters which will be sent to more than 400,000 Louisiana families during the month - long drive.

A goal of $192,000 will be sought by the Louisiana chapter for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., and its affiliated parish units in the drive, Walter Godchaux, New Orleans, state president, announced.

He explained that the figure was adopted "as the minimum amount necessary to continue efforts to meet un-met needs of Louisiana's more than 20,000 disabled children. Funds raised will be used primarily in the maintenance and development of badly needed treatment and rehabilitation services for both crippled children and disabled adults, while continuing to provide braces and other orthopedic appliances, and transportation to treatment centers."

Citing statistics showing home and traffic accidents to be childhood's No. 1 killer and crippler, Godchaux stressed the fact that Easter Seal services are available to any crippled child or disabled adult, regardless of what caused his or her condition and regardless of where the individual lives in the state.

"More children are killed and crippled each year by accidents than by the seven deadliest diseases which strike children, including leukemia and polio, combined," Godchaux declared. "This tragic fact, along with the vast need for better rehabilitation services to help those already crippled grow up as useful and self-respecting men and women, is a challenge to all of us."

In addition to providing direct services, Easter Seal contributions also support a statewide scholarship fund to train more Louisiana students as teachers and therapists. Of funds raised, 90 per cent remains in Louisiana, with the remainder allocated to National research and education.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Since becoming a Christian I have wanted and tried to tell others what Christ means to me. Most of the time, though, I cannot come right to the point because I am afraid others will think me peculiar and strange. How can I overcome this? F. F.

ANSWER: Your problem is one many Christians are troubled about but I have good news for you. Christian witnessing is not something we must do in our own strength. God has given us the command: "Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations . . ." He followed these words with the promise, "But ye shall receive power after that the Holy Spirit is come upon you and ye shall be witnesses unto Me." Only by faith can we appropriate this power of God. We must realize it is available and then ask God to supply it to us.

Christian witnessing is a form of salesmanship. We must realize that we have the greatest product in the world. The world needs and is waiting in many cases for the words of eternal life which are in the hand of the Christian. Can a salesman deny his customer that which will do him good? Will a salesman be afraid to tell his customer about the best product manufactured? You see, there is no need nor reason to hold back the glorious good news of the Gospel. Paul says, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto salvation."

Need For Greater

ness and Professional Women's Clubs presided at the morning and afternoon sessions, assisted by Mrs. Inas Harrington, president and Mrs. Mary Gene Lea, Clinic chairman of the Monroe group.

Table displays were arranged for the visitors by small businessmen and women, some of whom came from distant parts of the state. One of the most outstanding of these was the miniature scale model furniture displayed by Mr. and Mrs. H. Sudwischer of their Sud's Ranch Style and Western Furniture. Monroe small businesses were well represented by handmade linens, Christmas decorations and decorative table cloths, doll clothes, the Children's Bookshop, ceramics, hammered aluminum, handmade aprons, antiques and by Jordan and LeJeune's fused battery connector which works on any that has a storage battery and shuts off the source of power in case of a short.

Other displays were a Doll Hospital, Sweet Potato Chips, a display from the General Extension project of the State University, individually decorated cakes, a travel display and a display by the Library of books helpful to the small business.

Other speakers were Miss Monita Goldsby, clinic chairman of Louisiana, who spoke on "What the Clinic Can Do for You." Wilbur Lee Perkins, head and associate professor, Business Administration of Northeast College who spoke on "Management of a Small Enterprise;" Herbert Sudwischer, Build Ranch Furniture of Crowley; Howell B. May, accountant, Louisiana State Parks and Recreation Commission who spoke on "Louisiana's Growing Need—Outboard Marinas," and Mrs. Ruth Cooley of Monroe who spoke on "From Stenographer to Letter Shop Owner."

Joseph S. Horan, assistant executive director, Louisiana Department of Commerce and Industry, presided over the noon luncheon and introduced the principal speaker, Walter Koch, executive vice-president, Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation.

Horan stated that though his department often worked with multi-million dollar projects, it had been very happy the past three years to work with the small business groups which might develop into just such big businesses.

In his speech at the luncheon Walter Koch stressed the fact that we have witnessed a growth during the past decade that has steadily brought a rising income to all area of the nation, but that this is just a beginning. We are to see such an increase in population that we are expected to have 220 million by 1975 "This will mean," said Mr. Koch, "more jobs and more factories and our greatest danger in the decade ahead is a labor shortage rather than a labor surplus."

"The Gulf South area, which includes Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Northwest Florida, has accounted for one-sixth of all the industrial construction in the country during the past ten years," said Mr. Koch. "An expanding economy demands increasing proportions of enterprising and informed people who are not only willing but able to match their craftsmanship with the latest developments in technology," he said. "The important thing to remember is that all progress starts with the individual from a local level."

In the afternoon session Garland Shell of Monroe spoke on "Advertising and Public Relations;" Robert Roland, attorney, Louisiana State Department of Revenue spoke on "Legal Requirements and Taxes" and Mrs. Eunice Stuckey of Monroe on "Plan your Travel for Business or Pleasure."

A panel of speakers answered questions from persons in the audience.

HEREFORD, Tex., March 10 —UP—Robert Hasseloff, a 10-year-old follower of Davy Crockett, was credited Saturday with having saved the family silver from two burglars.

His grandmother, Mrs. Boyd McClendon, said Robert heard the burglars about midnight Friday night and grabbed his BB gun. He stepped to the door, shouted, "I'll shoot," and fired one pellet.

The burglars dropped the valuable silver all over the front yard as they made a hasty escape.

WASHINGTON March 10 AP — The State Department, it was learned today, has started a reluctant reappraisal of United States policy toward the Mideast Arab states. The review may lead to a radical change in American relations with Egypt.

Top department officials were reported to feel that Egypt's increasingly bitter anti-Western attitude had compelled the new policy study. This, informants said, involves serious consideration of whether the United States should not give up efforts to build constantly closer friendship with Egypt and concentrate instead on cooperation with Iraq.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 10 AP — President Pedro Aramburu was annoyed.

As his car turned into the courtyard at Government House yesterday a man tossed a thick envelope into the car. Thinking it was from another jobseeker or complainer, he stuck the envelope in his pocket and temporarily forgot it. When he finally opened it out fell 1,400 one-dollar bills.

With the money was a note explaining that last year the donor's 6-year-old son died from Polio because no iron lung was available. It asked the President to use the money to buy an iron lung to meet Argentina's worst polio epidemic in history. It was signed:

"An Argentine father."

PARIS, March 10—UP— France assured the United States Saturday that steps are being taken to protect American citizens and property in Tunisia against more mob violence.

The government formally apologized for the "unpardonable acts" of a mob of 800 young Frenchmen who ransacked the U. S. consulate and the U. S. Information Service offices in the capital city of Tunis Friday.

The beautiful tudor-style building flashed into a blazing silhouette on its hillcrest in the Berkshire Mountains. Flames belched from every arched window and from the roof.

As the four died, there were acts of heroism in saving others. Some younger priests and brothers risked their lives to help older members to safety.

One priest was supported on an icy ledge by a lay brother until firemen could rescue them over ladders.

Six were injured: Brother Robert E. White, Boston, with lacerations of the hand and fingers; The Rev. John R. Post, 48, Waterbury Conn., with burned hands feet and face; The Rev. William A. Carroll, 42, Millville, Mass., with lacerations of hand and fingers; The Rev. flag at Athens University, surged through Athens streets slashing tires of the British-owned bus company, breaking windows in the British European Airways building and two hotels with British names—the Great Britain and the New England—and attempting to storm the British Embassy.

Greek military guards formed hasty cordons around not only the British but also the American Embassy.

In Crete, too, Greek crowds ransacked the British consulate at Herakleion, tore down the British flag and raised the Greek flag while the consul hid in the basement for safety.

The Greek government called home its ambassador from London and ordered Greek Minister Christian X. Palamas, its representative at the U. N., to raise the question of Cyprus in the General Assembly when that body meets next fall. Greece has failed to get the question on the agenda at the last two sessions.

Greek civil service workers in Athens agreed to quit work Monday. A number of demonstrations were planned.

Archbishop Spyridon, the Greek Orthodox primate, presided in Athens over an emergency meeting of the Holy Synod which appealed to church organizations around the world for support for Makarios.

One appeal went to the Russian Orthodox Church, asking that sister church to "display its traditionally strong protection." Other messages went to the Church of England, and clergymen in Sweden, Norway and other places.

Black-bearded, sharp-eyed Makarios probably was not dismayed by his exile. Persons who know the 42-year-old prelate, who has led an increasingly violent campaign for union of this island's 500,000 people with Greece, said he once remarked:

"I would gladly be exiled. That would bring our struggle out into the open."

Opponents of the government of Prime Minister Eden in London charged the deportation was a big mistake.

Sir John Harding, the British governor, ordered Makarios deported yesterday on the grounds that he was an instigator of the campaign of terrorism which has taken the lives of 17 British servicemen since last April.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said he was "shocked" by the British action.

"It is bound to cause a deterioration in Greek-British relations and to disturb the association of others affiliated with the North Atlantic Alliance," Knowland said.

"This is no longer a domestic problem of Great Britain or Greece. Inevitably, the people of Cyprus will gain the right of determining their future status."

Another member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), told reporters "the situation was already muddled" in Cyprus. "It seems to me the British have muddled it still more."

Manufacturing Firm Scene Of Small Fire

There was a lot of smoke and a small amount of fire. A watchman, failing to locate the source of a billowing smoke stream at Selig Manufacturing Company, at the intersection of Allen and Thomas streets yesterday afternoon called the Monroe Fire Department.

Firemen soon discovered the source. "A hot plate left burning, caught fire to cardboard underneath and was producing a lot of smoke," Fire Captain Hubert O. Hampton said. No major damage was reported.

The fire was quickly extinguished the captain said. Trucks from stations Nos. 2 and 4 answered the call.

Annual Inspection Of Auxiliary Post Made

An annual inspection of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary, Post 1809, was made Thursday night by Mrs. Laurine Bagwell, District Fourteen president.

Accompanying Mrs. Bagwell, who lives at Oak Grove where she also serves as local auxiliary president, were a number of her friends.

Presiding at Thursday night's inspection was Mrs. Ruby Hanson, president of the Monroe auxiliary.

Eighteen local members were present at the event.

Next meeting of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary will be held March 22.

ness and Professional Women's Clubs presided at the morning and afternoon sessions, assisted by Mrs. Inas Harrington, president and Mrs. Mary Gene Lea, Clinic chairman of the Monroe group.

Table displays were arranged for the visitors by small businessmen and women, some of whom came from distant parts of the state. One of the most outstanding of these was the miniature scale model furniture displayed by Mr. and Mrs. H. Sudwischer of their Sud's Ranch Style and Western Furniture. Monroe small businesses were well represented by handmade linens, Christmas decorations and decorative table cloths, doll clothes, the Children's Bookshop, ceramics, hammered aluminum, handmade aprons, antiques and by Jordan and LeJeune's fused battery connector which works on any that has a storage battery and shuts off the source of power in case of a short.

Other displays were a Doll Hospital, Sweet Potato Chips, a display from the General Extension project of the State University, individually decorated cakes, a travel display and a display by the Library of books helpful to the small business.

Other speakers were Miss Monita Goldsby, clinic chairman of Louisiana, who spoke on "What the Clinic Can Do for You." Wilbur Lee Perkins, head and associate professor, Business Administration of Northeast College who spoke on "Management of a Small Enterprise;" Herbert Sudwischer, Build Ranch Furniture of Crowley; Howell B. May, accountant, Louisiana State Parks and Recreation Commission who spoke on "Louisiana's Growing Need—Outboard Marinas," and Mrs. Ruth Cooley of Monroe who spoke on "From Stenographer to Letter Shop Owner."

Joseph S. Horan, assistant executive director, Louisiana Department of Commerce and Industry, presided over the noon luncheon and introduced the principal speaker, Walter Koch, executive vice-president, Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation.

Horan stated that though his department often worked with multi-million dollar projects, it had been very happy the past three years to work with the small business groups which might develop into just such big businesses.

In his speech at the luncheon Walter Koch stressed the fact that we have witnessed a growth during the past decade that has steadily brought a rising income to all area of the nation, but that this is just a beginning. We are to see such an increase in population that we are expected to have 220 million by 1975 "This will mean," said Mr. Koch, "more jobs and more factories and our greatest danger in the decade ahead is a labor shortage rather than a labor surplus."

"The Gulf South area, which includes Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Northwest Florida, has accounted for one-sixth of all the industrial construction in the country during the past ten years," said Mr. Koch. "An expanding economy demands increasing proportions of enterprising and informed people who are not only willing but able to match their craftsmanship with the latest developments in technology," he said, "The important thing to remember is that all progress starts with the individual from a local level."

In the afternoon session Garland Shell of Monroe spoke on "Advertising and Public Relations;" Robert Roland, attorney, Louisiana State Department of Revenue spoke on "Legal Requirements and Taxes" and Mrs. Eunice Stuckey of Monroe on "Plan your Travel for Business or Pleasure."

A panel of speakers answered questions from persons in the audience.

HEREFORD, Tex., March 10 —UP—Robert Hasseloff, a 10-year-old follower of Davy Crockett, was credited Saturday with having saved the family silver from two burglars.

His grandmother, Mrs. Boyd McClendon, said Robert heard the burglars about midnight Friday night and grabbed his BB gun. He stepped to the door, shouted, "I'll shoot," and fired one pellet.

The burglars dropped the valuable silver all over the front yard as they made a hasty escape.

WASHINGTON March 10 (AP) — The State Department, it was learned today, has started a reluctant reappraisal of United States policy toward the Mideast Arab states. The review may lead to a radical change in American relations with Egypt.

Top department officials were reported to feel that Egypt's increasingly bitter anti-Western attitude had compelled the new policy study. This, informants said, involves serious consideration of whether the United States should not give up efforts to build constantly closer friendship with Egypt and concentrate instead on cooperation with Iraq.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 10 (AP) — President Pedro Aramburu was annoyed.

As his car turned into the courtyard at Government House yesterday a man tossed a thick envelope into the car. Thinking it was from another jobseeker or complainer, he stuck the envelope in his pocket and temporarily forgot it. When he finally opened it out fell 1,400 one-dollar bills.

With the money was a note explaining that last year the donor's 6-year-old son died from Polio because no iron lung was available. It asked the President to use the money to buy an iron lung to meet Argentina's worst polio epidemic in history. It was signed:

"An Argentine father."

PARIS, March 10—UP— France assured the United States Saturday that steps are being taken to protect American citizens and property in Tunisia against more mob violence.

The government formally apologized for the "unpardonable acts" of a mob of 800 young Frenchmen who ransacked the U. S. consulate and the U. S. Information Service offices in the capital city of Tunis Friday.

The Rev. Arthur B. Tribble, 53, a native of Malden, administrator of the seminary and second in charge.

Brother Henry A. Perry, 72, who was in charge of maintenance of grounds and buildings. He was born in Benedicta, Maine.

The beautiful tudor-style building flashed into a blazing silhouette on its hillcrest in the Berkshire Mountains. Flames belched from every arched window and from the roof.

As the four died, there were acts of heroism in saving others. Some younger priests and brothers risked their lives to help older members to safety.

One priest was supported on an icy ledge by a lay brother until firemen could rescue them over ladders.

Miss. Oil, Gas Board Hearing To Be Held March 21

JACKSON, Miss., March 10 (AP)—The State Oil and Gas Board will meet in regular session March 21 to consider 15 petitions and to set gas allowables in nine fields.

The petitions include:

Amend the rule on capacity tests of gas and oil wells.

Fix maximum efficient rates of production and allocation of productions in North Freewoods field in Franklin County, Locust Hill field in Adams and Franklin counties, and Poplar Grove field in Adams County.

Adopt special field rules for North Freewoods field, Locust Hill field, Poplar Grove field, and Smackover formation in Loring field in Madison County.

Integrate all separately owned interests in the Wilcox sand gas poll, Wilcox gas poll and in unit SE-23 of Maxie field in Forrest County.

Authorize J. Willis Hughes to operate a saltwater disposal well in Sunnyside field in Jefferson County.

Reformation of Sunnyland Contracting Co.'s USA No. C-1 well in North Freewoods field.

Permit Humble Oil and Refining Co. to produce dual well in Gwinville Field in Jefferson Davis and Simpson counties.

Permit Calto Oil Co. to reform Thad Leak Unit No. 2 in Commencement field in Wilkinson County.

Gas allowables will be set for April in the following fields:

Gwinville, Jefferson Davis and Simpson counties; Soso, Jasper, Jones and Smith counties; Baxterville, Lamar and Marion; Sandy Hook, Marion; Sharon, Jasper and Jones; Fayette, Jefferson; Pistol Ridge, Forrest and Pearl River; Maxie, Forrest; and Muldon, Monroe.

U. S. Producers Turn Out Most Of Middle East Oil

LONDON, March 10 (AP)—American companies produced more than half of last year's 162 million ton oil output in the middle East, the Petroleum Information Bureau said.

Its analysis said American companies accounted for 87 million tons, British and Dutch interests together for 48½ million tons and other companies for the rest.

Production by individual countries (all metric tons): Kuwait 54,800,000, Saudi Arabia 47,600,000, Iraq 33,700,000, Iran 16,000,000, Bahrein 1,500,000, Kuwait - Saudi Arabia neutral zone 1,300,000.

Phillips Petroleum Backs Move To Keep Gas 'Home' In Face Of Gas Bill Veto

HOUSTON, March 10 (AP)—Phillips Petroleum Co. has indicated a willingness to support suggestions that natural gas reserves be kept "at home."

Officials of the Bartlesville, Okla., company has advanced a plan whereby large quantities of their huge gas reserves in Texas could be released to supply a gigantic chemical and petrochemical center near Houston.

Reaction to President Eisenhower's veto of the controversial Harris bill last month included suggestions that natural gas states keep their reserves out of interstate commerce and use them to attract new industrial plants.

Phillips figured prominently in the Washington struggle that led to the Harris bill, but made no direct reference to the controversy while confirming its Houston proposal.

The company has acquired an option for purchase of a 950-acre tract in the Houston ship channel industrial area. Phillips itself does not propose to build the center. Instead, portions of the tract would be sold to other companies. Phillips would supply the plants with raw materials, including natural gas.

The Phillips announcement had been preceded by reports that several chemical companies were checking the ship channel area for possible plant sites.

K. S. Adams, Phillips board chairman, said his company's primary interest is selling natural gas and related products to industries.

"We will have everything to offer chemical and petrochemical companies," he said.

A Federal Power Commission (FPC) ruling affecting Phillips led to the Harris bill being introduced last year in Congress.

FPC in 1951 held that Phillips was not subject to its jurisdiction simply because it sold gas to interstate pipeline companies. Wisconsin and Michigan groups appealed.

In 1953 the circuit of appeals in the District of Columbia reviewed and reversed the FPC ruling.

In June 1954, the Supreme Court refused to review the circuit court's decision that sales of natural gas to interstate pipeline companies are subject to regulation by FPC. The court held that it was the responsibility of FPC to regulate field prices of natural gas.

The Harris bill proposed that natural gas producers and gatherers who sell wholesale to interstate lines for resale be exempt from federal utility regulations. The bill squeezed through the House last year and was approved by the Senate last month.

President Eisenhower said he approved the basic objectives of the bill but that a veto was necessary because of "arrogant efforts" by private individuals who sought to influence the bill's passage.

The head of one company which holds major Texas gas reserves has said oil companies should support state officials in efforts to attract new industries to their states.

Lt. Gen. Ersest O. Thompson, senior member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said the Harris bill veto was a "great blow to state sovereignty." He suggested Texas, which has nearly 50 per cent of the nation's gas reserves, seek industries to use gas "right here at home within our own borders."

"We have the gas to build a great empire," said the veteran oil and gas regulatory official.

'Unmistakable Signs' Point To Spring Upturn In Several Key Business Lines

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—You could see faint but unmistakable signs of a spring upturn this week in several key lines of business.

Spring was in the air at a number of vital points. The chug-chug of the bulldozer and the whine of the electric saw testified to rising activity in the construction field. In Detroit and elsewhere, factories which had been laying off workers started hiring them back again. On the retail front, increasing business was reported by apparel merchants, furniture stores and appliance dealers. Sales perked up on new and used car lots.

More and more it became apparent that consumer buying attitudes this spring would have a lot to do with the health of the economy right through to the end of 1956. It was clear that consumers would have the final say in determining the size of business inventories which have been building up recently at a higher than seasonal pace.

In the auto industry, where the inventory problem had been most acute, there were signs this week of improvement.

Best guess was that new car inventories had fallen to about 750,000 from the Feb. 1 record high of 856,665. At 750,000, stocks of unsold new automobiles would still be about three times as large as they were a year ago. But, industry sources said, the surplus would melt away fast in the expected rush of spring and summer buying.

Latest industry statistics on retail sales gave vivid proof of the firmer tone now prevading the new car market. Sales of Chevrolet cars and trucks set a February record last month at 154,586; Cadillac's retail sales topped those for any other February in the plus automaker's 54-year history. Other makers boasted rising sales. Chrysler's Clare E. Briggs said "The automobile industry is coming to experience a seasonal upturn. Present indications are that we have a healthy auto market."

While production of new cars continued at about 80 per cent of the 1955 rate, many other basic lines were setting records.

Freight carloadings at latest count were the highest for any week since the start of year. Steel output in the week ended March 3 was the second highest in history at 2,459,000 tons, and scheduled production this week — at 98.4 per cent of capacity, or 2,422,000 tons—only a shade lower. An all-time high was set for business loans by New York banks.

On Wall Street, the Associated Press 60-stock average punched repeatedly to historic heights. Shares of some international oil companies displayed softening tendencies as war drums rumbled in the oil-rich Middle East, but the market's over-all drift was upward. At week's end the AP average stood at a record $185.40.

Stock prices weren't the only ones that went up this week.

Steelmakers announced higher prices for tin plate, used in making metal containers for everything from spray-on hair lacquer and body deodorant to applesauce and beer. President William C. Stolk of American Can Co. called the increase "unjustified and unwarranted."

Inflationary winds were blowing from other directions, too. Increases announced by manufacturers this week mean that you'll be paying higher prices for men's hats and suits and men's, women's and children's shoes next fall. Pullman sleeping car rates go up 7½ per cent May 1. Higher minimum wages now in effect are exerting upward pressures on prices of paper bags and Southern pine lumber.

Steel wage boosts expected later this year may add $9 a ton to the basic price of steel. The National Coal Assn. said the new six per cent boost in freight rates will increase coal shippers' costs by about 50 million dollars a year.

Increased production costs were expected to make things particularly tough for manufacturers of so-called "hard" or "durable" goods—autos, appliances, TV and the like—especially now that people who buy these things are accustomed to cut-rate deals and discounts. Hopes were expressed that automation and greater productivity would help hold expenses in line.

Miss. Oil, Gas Board Hearing To Be Held March 21

JACKSON, Miss., March 10 (AP)—The State Oil and Gas Board will meet in regular session March 21 to consider 15 petitions and to set gas allowables in nine fields.

The petitions include:

Amend the rule on capacity tests of gas and oil wells.

Fix maximum efficient rates of production and allocation of productions in North Freewoods field in Franklin County, Locust Hill field in Adams and Franklin counties, and Poplar Grove field in Adams County.

Adopt special field rules for North Freewoods field, Locust Hill field, Poplar Grove field, and Smackover formation in Loring field in Madison County.

Integrate all separately owned interests in the Wilcox sand gas poll, Wilcox gas poll and in unit SE-23 of Maxie field in Forrest County.

Reformation of Sunnyland Contracting Co.'s USA No. C-1 well in North Freewoods field.

Permit Calto Oil Co. to reform Thad Leak Unit No. 2 in Commencement field in Wilkinson County.

Gas allowables will be set for April in the following fields:

Gwinville, Jefferson Davis and Simpson counties; Soso, Jasper, Jones and Smith counties; Baxterville, Lamar and Marion; Sandy Hook, Marion; Sharon, Jasper and Jones; Fayette, Jefferson; Pistol Ridge, Forrest and Pearl River; Maxie, Forrest; and Muldon, Monroe.

U. S. Producers Turn Out Most Of Middle East Oil

LONDON, March 10 (AP)—American companies produced more than half of last year's 162 million ton oil output in the middle East, the Petroleum Information Bureau said.

Its analysis said American companies accounted for 87 million tons, British and Dutch interests together for 48½ million tons and other companies for the rest.

Production by individual countries (all metric tons): Kuwait 54,800,000, Saudi Arabia 47,600,000, Iraq 33,700,000, Iran 16,000,000, Bahrein 1,500,000, Kuwait - Saudi Arabia neutral zone 1,300,000.

Phillips Petroleum Backs Move To Keep Gas 'Home' In Face Of Gas Bill Veto

HOUSTON, March 10 (AP)—Phillips Petroleum Co. has indicated a willingness to support suggestions that natural gas reserves be kept "at home."

Officials of the Bartlesville, Okla., company has advanced a plan whereby large quantities of their huge gas reserves in Texas could be releasel to supply a gigantic chemical and petrochemical center near Houston.

Reaction to President Eisenhower's veto of the controversial Harris bill last month included suggestions that natural gas states keep their reserves out of interstate commerce and use them to attract new industrial plants.

Phillips figured prominently in the Washington struggle that led to the Harris bill, but made no direct reference to the controversy while confirming its Houston proposal.

The company has acquired an option for purchase of a 950-acre tract in the Houston ship channel industrial area. Phillips itself does not propose to build the center. Instead, portions of the tract would be sold to other companies. Phillips would supply the plants with raw materials, including natural gas.

The Phillips announcement had been preceded by reports that several chemical companies were checking the ship channel area for possible plant sites.

K. S. Adams, Phillips board chairman, said his company's primary interest is selling natural gas and related products to industries.

"We will have everything to offer chemical and petrochemical companies," he said.

A Federal Power Commission (FPC) ruling affecting Phillips led to the Harris bill being introduced last year in Congress.

FPC in 1951 held that Phillips was not subject to its jurisdiction simply because it sold gas to interstate pipeline companies. Wisconsin and Michigan groups appealed.

In 1953 the circuit of appeals in the District of Columbia reviewed and reversed the FPC ruling.

In June 1954, the Supreme Court refused to review the circuit court's decision that sales of natural gas to interstate pipeline companies are subject to regulation by FPC. The court held that it was the responsibility of FPC to regulate field prices of natural gas.

The Harris bill proposed that natural gas producers and gatherers who sell wholesale to interstate lines for resale be exempt from federal utility regulations. The bill squeezed through the House last year and was approved by the Senate last month.

President Eisenhower said he approved the basic objectives of the bill but that a veto was necessary because of "arrogant efforts" by private individuals who sought to influence the bill's passage.

The head of one company which holds major Texas gas reserves has said oil companies should support state officials in efforts to attract new industries to their states.

Lt. Gen. Ersest O. Thompson, senior member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said the Harris bill veto was a "great blow to state sovereignty." He suggested Texas, which has nearly 50 per cent of the nation's gas reserves, seek industries to use gas "right here at home within our own borders."

"We have the gas to build a great empire," said the veteran oil and gas regulatory official.

'Unmistakable Signs' Point To Spring Upturn In Several Key Business Lines

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—You could see faint but unmistakable signs of a spring upturn this week in several key lines of business.

Spring was in the air at a number of vital points. The chug-chug of the bulldozer and the whine of the electric saw testified to rising activity in the construction field. In Detroit and elsewhere, factories which had been laying off workers started hiring them back again. On the retail front, increasing business was reported by apparel merchants, furniture stores and appliance dealers. Sales perked up on new and used car lots.

More and more it became apparent that consumer buying attitudes this spring would have a lot to do with the health of the economy right through to the end of 1956. It was clear that consumers would have the final say in determining the size of business inventories which have been building up recently at a higher than seasonal pace.

In the auto industry, where the inventory problem had been most acute, there were signs this week of improvement.

Best guess was that new car inventories had fallen to about 750,000 from the Feb. 1 record high of 856,665. At 750,000, stocks of unsold new automobiles would still be about three times as large as they were a year ago. But, industry sources said, the surplus would melt away fast in the expected rush of spring and summer buying.

Latest industry statistics on retail sales gave vivid proof of the firmer tone now prevading the new car market. Sales of Chevrolet cars and trucks set a February record last month at 154,586; Cadillac's retail sales topped those for any other February in the plus automaker's 54-year history. Other makers boasted rising sales. Chrysler's Clare E. Briggs said "The automobile industry is coming to experience a seasonal upturn. Present indications are that we have a healthy auto market."

While production of new cars continued at about 80 per cent of the 1955 rate, many other basic lines were setting records.

Freight carloadings at latest count were the highest for any week since the start of year. Steel output in the week ended March 3 was the second highest in history at 2,459,000 tons, and scheduled production this week — at 98.4 per cent of capacity, or 2,422,000 tons—only a shade lower. An all-time high was set for business loans by New York banks.

On Wall Street, the Associated Press 60-stock average punched repeatedly to historic heights. Shares of some international oil companies displayed softening tendencies as war drums rumbled in the oil-rich Middle East, but the market's over-all drift was upward. At week's end the AP average stood at a record $185.40.

Stock prices weren't the only ones that went up this week.

Steelmakers announced higher prices for tin plate, used in making metal containers for everything from spray-on hair lacquer and body deodorant to applesauce and beer. President William C. Stolk of American Can Co. called the increase "unjustified and unwarranted."

Inflationary winds were blowing from other directions, too. Increases announced by manufacturers this week mean that you'll be paying higher prices for men's hats and suits and men's, women's and children's shoes next fall. Pullman sleeping car rates go up 7½ per cent May 1. Higher minimum wages now in effect are exerting upward pressures on prices of paper bags and Southern pine lumber.

Steel wage boosts expected later this year may add $9 a ton to the basic price of steel. The National Coal Assn. said the new six per cent boost in freight rates will increase coal shippers' costs by about 50 million dollars a year.

Increased production costs were expected to make things particularly tough for manufacturers of so-called "hard" or "durable" goods—autos, appliances, TV and the like—especially now that people who buy these things are accustomed to cut-rate deals and discounts. Hopes were expressed that automation and greater productivity would help hold expenses in line.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

About a dozen candidates for the Little Rock Travelers baseball club joined Manager Steve Souchock in their first spring workout here yesterday evening at Legion Memorial Stadium. After little over an hour of throwing, running, and some batting practice, Manager Souchock ended the opening drill in the face of threatening weather.

"Most of these boys have come out of a cold climate, and, after warming up in practice, I didn't want to take a chance on their developing colds by keeping them out in a rain," the Travs' pilot explained. It was threatening rain at the time with "sprinkling" already in progress.

The Southern Association Travelers get their second session, beginning at 11 o'clock this morning with more players due in. "I expect the full roster to be on hand by Monday for a full week of hard work," Souchock said.

Tip your hats to the girls, boys! They've really put basketball on the map in the Monroe area with champions and near-champions all over the place.

West Monroe, Ouachita, and Neville have heard the cheers of hometown fans this year as never before. The state triple-A girls championship was being decided last night between Ouachita and West Monroe (unplayed at this writing) after they had brushed aside all other contenders to reach the finals. West Monroe's coach, Mrs. Natalie May (nee Wall), is a former Ouachita all-state player, and Mary Lea George, Ouachita coach, formerly was student manager for the team back when Mrs. Elizabeth Manheim was turning out her titled teams at Ouachita.

Ouachita and West Monroe could well provide the entire all-state triple-A team with the Rebel girls offering John Ann Painich, Shirley Cotton, Patsy Rawls, Ruth Gilbert, Mildred White, and Martha Aulds, and O.P.H.S. nominating Peggy Long, Betty Lee, Virginia Rogers, Shirley Cooper, Mary Welch, and Donna Holdeman. But we must not forget Bastrop's Audrey Cockrell.

Miss Noona Kennard made a big splash in her first year as coach at Neville. Her girls, district champions, toppled two state contenders, Minden and Eunice, in the title race before bowing out in a state semi-final to Jena's torrid Lady Giants here Friday. Coach Jolly Pigett's Jena girls look like they should go all the way.

Neighboring girls have done just as well. Central, Baskin, and Mangham really hauled in the glory for adjoining Franklin parish, and up in Union parish, the Farmerville girls are bidding to keep the Class A title in this section since Winnsboro has bowed out. Central of near Delhi ended as runner-up to Negreet for the Class C championship, and Coach "Bo" Russell's girls still landed five on the 12-player all-state team — Florice Pepper, Clarice Dickson, Shirley Longino, Ester Sutton, and Audrey Goodman.

Coach Janelle Brashier's Mangham girls kept the Class B title in Franklin parish but ended an eight-year reign for "Tiny" Tarbutton's Baskin sextet. Kathleen Arrant, Patsy King, Betty June Ross, Rosalyn Thames, Hazel Templeton, and Carolyn Walters brought Mangham its first team state championship of any kind.

Peggy Bridges, Sharon Holloway, and Laverle Allen led Farmerville's girls past Gonzales to the state "A" finals Friday night, and they get their big test this week. Farmerville has shown strong girls' teams in recent years, stacking up well against such rival powers as Oak Grove and Winnsboro, but the latter two are out of the running now and it's up to Farmerville to carry the colors for the northeast area.

But the boys of this area weren't entirely squeezed out of the title picture. Of course, the triple-A couldn't get past bi-district, but Ruston, with one of the area's most talked about players in Bobby James, and the Jena Giants are matched for the state double-A final; Coach Orville Elkins sends his Winnsboro quintet against Denham Springs at Winnsboro Tuesday night in the Class A final; and Hico has already finished as runner-up to Belmont for the boys' Class C title.

The Louisiana Sports Writers Association is trying to compile a list of leading high school basketball scorers of the state. If you are a high school coach, and one of your players has scored 500 or more points this year, how about jotting down the following information: number of games played, field goals scored, free tries scored, total points made; and mailing to Truman Stacey, sports editor, American Press, Lake Charles, La.

Bastrop Sophs In Star Roles In Bengal Scrap

BATON ROUGE, March 10 (AP) — Sub quarterback Win Turner raced 50 yards with an intercepted pass to set up the winning touchdown tonight as the Purples downed the Golds 21-14 in the annual Louisiana State University intrasquad football game.

Turner, a regular in 1954 but scholastically ineligible last year, sneaked over from the one-yard line for the score with four minutes remaining. Center Durwood Graham kicked his third extra point.

Turner shared the spotlight with a pair of sophomore halfbacks from Bastrop, J. W. Brodnax of the Purple team and Ronnie Johnston of the Gold squad.

Broadnax set up the second Purple score on a 34-yard pass from Turner and was a breakaway threat every time he carried the ball.

Johnston ripped 39 yards off tackle for the second Gold touchdown and converted twice.

The Gold took the lead early in the first quarter when M. C. Reynolds, regular quarterback last fall, tossed a 23-yard scoring pass to end John Wood.

The Purple team drove 74 yards from the kickoff to tie the score on the first play of the second quarter. Sophomore halfback Don Kozan scored on a one-yard plunge.

Johnston put the Gold ahead again with his 39-yard run, and his team led 14-7 at the half.

The Gold tied the score midway in the third quarter with Turner's 34-yard pass to Brodnax moving the ball to the Gold 10, three plays moved it to the three, and on a crucial fourth down Brodnax bucked for a first down on the one foot line. Turner sneaked over on the next play.

West Monroe Whips Ouachita For Crown

Rebel Girls Cop Triple-A Throne In 61-47 Contest

BY LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

The West Monroe High School girls basketball team last night became state AAA champions by dropping the Ouachita Parish High girls, 61-47, in the O.P.H.S. gym. This was the second time that the W.M. sextet crushed the Lionettes in their march to the title. The Rebil six defeated Ouachita to win the north Louisiana triple-A crown.

In the first half of the battle the two teams fought wildly for every point with neither club being able to total a sufficient lead to relieve the hot pursuit of the opposition. In the first quarter the lead changed hands three times and when the horn sounded to end the period, the Lionesses were ahead 9-8.

In the second eight minutes the lead changed to the follower five times with the organizations exchanging point for point. When the half-time curtain fell, West Monroe was on tip, 24-22.

Rebel shooting improved in the final half with John Ann Painich sparkplugging her team on to a 46-33 third quarter lead and a victory for the state throne.

After beating the Parish high girls here some weeks ago, Coach Natalie May carried her Rebel cagers over the Terrebonne Tigers to qualify for the finals. The Lion lasses stepped over both Jennings and Istrouma of Baton Rouge to win the right to play for the championship.

Painich was leading scorer for the W.M.H.S. machine with 22 points. Following closely was Shirley Cotton with 21.

For the Ouachita cagers, Peggy Long lead with 22 nettings and Donna Holdeman dropped in 15 for the record book.

Fortier Crowned Champs Of Boys' Triple-A Cagers

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP) — Fortier won its first Louisiana prep basketball championship tonight, pulling away from De La Salle after an early battle to score a 66-52 victory in the all-New Orleans triple-A playoff finals.

The teams battled on even terms until late in the second period. Fortier broke a 23-23 tie and took a 35-24 halftime lead on the shooting of ace David Corson. Corson got 12 of his team's 22 points in the second period.

De La Salle cut the margin to five points early in the third quarter, but Fortier bounced back and made it 47-35 going into the final period.

Corson took scoring honors with 23 points. High for De La Salle was Jimmy Harwell with 20.

It was Fortier's fifth victory of the season over De La Salle.

Despite Fortier's four earlier victories over De La Salle, 5,000 fans were on hand to see the game at the Tulane gym. It was a hard fight, with three players from De La Salle and Corson fouling out.

Fortier, beaten only by Bolton this season, went to the finals of the playoff last year, losing to Lake Charles.

The victory was the 34th off the season for the new state champions.

Miss Rawls Nabs Two-Stroke Lead In Titleholders

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 10—UP—Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C., twice a runnerup but never a winner, moved into the lead at the three - quarter mark of the Women's Titleholders golf championship Saturday with a par 72 which put her two strokes ahead of Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga.

Miss Rawls, who set a tournament record for nine holes Friday with a four-under-par 32 but blew up on the back nine, had her putting game down pat as she came home with a total of 226 for 54 holes.

Miss Suggs, who led by a stroke Friday, fell back into second place with 228 after a 75 Saturday. She was followed by defending champion Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., with a 73—229, and Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., who had a 77 for 231.

Others still in the running were Peggy Kirk Bell and Mickey Wright at 233; Beverly Hanson at 234; Mary Lena Faulk at 234; Marlene Bauer Hagge, Vonnie Colby, Dorothy Kirby, Betty Dodd and Ann Quast at 237, and Fay Crocker at 238.

Still a major threat was the durable Patty Berg who has steadily lowered her score in this 17th annual Titleholders which she has won a record six times. Patty used only 34 putts and canned a 25-footer on the 10th.

A public showing of the 1955 World Series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees will be shown at the Monroe Recreation Center tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. The film shows the controversial play at home plate when Jackie Robinson stole home. The public is invited to attend this showing at no admission charges, said director Jack Hesketh.

NEW ORLEANS, March 10—UP—The favorite, Reaping Right, opened ground in the stretch here Saturday and fought off a fast-closing challenger to take home the big pot in the $40,000-added Louisiana Derby at Fair Grounds.

The big colt, owned by T. A. Grissom of Detroit, came from fourth in a classy field of 11 three-year-olds, moved up swiftly to a four-length lead in the stretch and finished one and one-quarter lengths in front of Gus Burkhardt's Mr. Bob W.

The big son of Reaping Reward paid $5.00, $3.60, $3.20 for the victory in the mile and one-eighth "run for the orchids" which closes out the season for the historic Fair Grounds in its 82rd meeting.

Mr. Bob W paid $4.40, $3.80, and Frosty Mr., the long shot, finished with $11.60 for show money.

Reaping Right, with the track's leading jockey, Robert Lee Baird, crossed the wire in the slow time of 1:51, far off the track record for the mile and a furlong distance and some two seconds slower than last year's winner, Roman Patrol.

But for less than two minutes of work, the handsome colt, an early betting favorite, takes home $35,525 out of a gross purse of over $50,000.

Mark's Rickey, an import from the fast Florida tracks owned by Angillo Cillo, led the field on a perfect break from the gates. But he soon gave way to Joe W. Brown's I Dare on the back stretch. Reaping Right made his move at the back turn and stepped out fast to take a commanding lead in the stretch.

A record-breaking crowd of 18,252 horse lovers poured $138,115 across the mutuel windows to topple all previous wagering on the Derby, the curtain call for the big track.

Neville Quintet, Transylvania Six Win Junior Meet

TRANSYLVANIA, La., March 10 (Special)—The Neville boys of Monroe and the Transylvania girls marched to championships in the annual Transylvania Junior Basketball Tournament here tonight with the Neville quint stopping Transylvania, 49-45, in their final after Transylvania's girls had clinched their crown at the expense of Pioneer, 60-29.

Haddad and McNabb led Neville with 14 points apiece, while Sanders, Transylvania, was high scorer of the game with 17. Johnson sparked Transylvania's girls with 34 points, while Ross led Pioneer with 15.

A. L. Smith's teams of Sterlington with consolation in both divisions as the Smith girls beat Holly Ridge, 27-16, as Hammons led the way with 16 points, and the Smith quint nipped Linville, 37-35, as Talley set the pace with 15. Fortenberry was high scorer for the Holy Ridge girls with 11, and Haile led Linville's boys with 17.

In the day's semi - finals, the Transylvania girls beat Smith, 60-29; the Pioneer girls stopped Holly Ridge, 35-22; the Transylvania boys beat Linville, 57-32; and the Neville quint stopped Smith, 37-34.

Outstanding tournament players were Janice Clement of the Transylvania girls, and Haile of the Linville boys. Best defense awards went to Toney of the Smith girls and Boyette of the Transylvania boys. Outstanding offense awards went to Stone of the Transylvania girls, and McNabb of the Neville boys.

Swartz Girls, St. Matthew's Quint Tourney Winners

The St Matthew's boys and the Swartz girls won esamplonships in the elementary basketball tournament conducted yesterday at St. Matthew's gymnasium here.

The St. Matthew's quintet whipped Logtown in the final, 32-28, after trailing 12 points in the third quarter. The win kept Coach Jay Broussard's elementary boys unbeaten for the season. The Swartz girls passed St. Paschal's of West Monroe in their final, 27-23.

Logtown's girls and the Swartz boys were consolation winners, Logtown beating Okaloosa, 22-8, and Swartz stopping Okaloosa, 34-26.

In earlier preliminaries the Swartz girls beat Okaloosa, 21-13, the St. Paschal's girls eliminated Logtown, 11-9; the Okaloosa boys beat St. Paschal's,25-17; the St. Matthew's boys tripped Swartz, 36-15; and the Logtown boys beat Okaloosa, 39-16.

The all-tournament teams:

Boys — Tolbird, Okaloosa; Shipp, Logtown; Henderson, St. Matthew's; Lynch, Swartz; and Milletello, St. Paschal's.

Grils — Fruge and Ragland, St. Paschal's; Murray, Okaloosa; Reid and Jennings, Swartz; and Ivy, Logtown.

Continue To Register Little League Talent

Little League registration is in full swing at the Monroe Recreation Center. All boys planning on playing Little League baseball this year, who are not already on a team, are urged to register as soon as possible. Try-outs will commence in April. Boys living in West Monroe will register with Harold Hill at the City Hall in West Monroe.

West Monroe Whips Ouachita For Crown

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

About a dozen candidates for the Little Rock Travelers baseball club joined Manager Steve Souchock in their first spring workout here yesterday evening at Legion Memorial Stadium. After little over an hour of throwing, running, and some batting practice, Manager Souchock ended the opening drill in the face of threatening weather.

"Most of these boys have come out of a cold climate, and, after warming up in practice, I didn't want to take a chance on their developing colds by keeping them out in a rain," the Travs' pilot explained. It was threatening rain at the time with "sprinkling" already in progress.

The Southern Association Travelers get their second session, beginning at 11 o'clock this morning with more players due in. "I expect the full roster to be on hand by Monday for a full week of hard work," Souchock said.

Tip your hats to the girls, boys! They've really put basketball on the map in the Monroe area with champions and near-champions all over the place.

West Monroe, Ouachita, and Neville have heard the cheers of hometown fans this year as never before. The state triple-A girls championship was being decided last night between Ouachita and West Monroe (unplayed at this writing) after they had brushed aside all other contenders to reach the finals. West Monroe's coach, Mrs. Natalie May (nee Wall), is a former Ouachita all-state player, and Mary Lea George, Ouachita coach, formerly was student manager for the team back when Mrs. Elizabeth Manheim was turning out her titled teams at Ouachita.

Ouachita and West Monroe could well provide the entire all-state triple-A team with the Rebel girls offering John Ann Painich, Shirley Cotton, Patsy Rawls, Ruth Gilbert, Mildred White, and Martha Aulds, and O.P.H.S. nominating Peggy Long, Betty Lee, Virginia Rogers, Shirley Cooper, Mary Welch, and Donna Holdeman. But we must not forget Bastrop's Audrey Cockrell.

Miss Noona Kennard made a big splash in her first year as coach at Neville. Her girls, district champions, toppled two state contenders, Minden and Eunice, in the title race before bowing out in a state semi-final to Jena's torrid Lady Giants here Friday. Coach Jolly Pigett's Jena girls look like they should go all the way.

Neighboring girls have done just as well. Central, Baskin, and Mangham really hauled in the glory for adjoining Franklin parish, and up in Union parish, the Farmerville girls are bidding to keep the Class A title in this section since Winnsboro has bowed out. Central of near Delhi ended as runner-up to Negreet for the Class C championship, and Coach "Bo" Russell's girls still landed five on the 12-player all-state team — Florice Pepper, Clarice Dickson, Shirley Longino, Ester Sutton, and Audrey Goodman.

Coach Janelle Brashier's Mangham girls kept the Class B title in Franklin parish but ended an eight-year reign for "Tiny" Tarbutton's Baskin sextet. Kathleen Arrant, Patsy King, Betty June Ross, Rosalyn Thames, Hazel Templeton, and Carolyn Walters brought Mangham its first team state championship of any kind.

Peggy Bridges, Sharon Holloway, and Laverle Allen led Farmerville's girls past Gonzales to the state "A" finals Friday night, and they get their big test this week. Farmerville has shown strong girls' teams in recent years, stacking up well against such rival powers as Oak Grove and Winnsboro, but the latter two are out of the running now and it's up to Farmerville to carry the colors for the northeast area.

But the boys of this area weren't entirely squeezed out of the title picture. Of course, the triple-A couldn't get past bi-district, but Ruston, with one of the area's most talked about players in Bobby James, and the Jena Giants are matched for the state double-A final; Coach Orville Elkins sends his Winnsboro quintet against Denham Springs at Winnsboro Tuesday night in the Class A final; and Hico has already finished as runner-up to Belmont for the boys' Class C title.

The Louisiana Sports Writers Association is trying to compile a list of leading high school basketball scorers of the state. If you are a high school coach, and one of your players has scored 500 or more points this year, how about jotting down the following information: number of games played, field goals scored, free tries scored, total points made; and mailing to Truman Stacey, sports editor, American Press, Lake Charles, La.

Bastrop Sophs In Star Roles In Bengal Scrap

BATON ROUGE, March 10 (AP) — Sub quarterback Win Turner raced 50 yards with an intercepted pass to set up the winning touchdown tonight as the Purples downed the Golds 21-14 in the annual Louisiana State University intrasquad football game.

Turner, a regular in 1954 but scholastically ineligible last year, sneaked over from the one-yard line for the score with four minutes remaining. Center Durwood Graham kicked his third extra point.

Turner shared the spotlight with a pair of sophomore halfbacks from Bastrop, J. W. Brodnax of the Purple team and Ronnie Johnston of the Gold squad.

Broadnax set up the second Purple score on a 34-yard pass from Turner and was a breakaway threat every time he carried the ball.

Johnston ripped 38 yards off tackle for the second Gold touchdown and converted twice.

The Gold took the lead early in the first quarter when M. C. Reynolds, regular quarterback last fall, tossed a 23-yard scoring pass to end John Wood.

The Purple team drove 74 yards from the kickoff to tie the score on the first play of the second quarter. Sophomore halfback Don Kozan scored on a one-yard plunge.

Johnston put the Gold ahead again with his 39-yard run, and his team led 14-7 at the half.

The Gold tied the score midway in the third quarter with Turner's 34-yard pass to Brodnax moving the ball to the Gold 10, three plays moved it to the three, and on a crucial fourth down Brodnax bucked for a first down on the one foot line. Turner sneaked over on the next play.

Rebel Girls Cop Triple-A Throne In 61-47 Contest

BY LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

The West Monroe High School girls basketball team last night became state AAA champions by dropping the Ouachita Parish High girls, 61-47, in the O.P.H.S. gym. This was the second time that the W.M. sextet crushed the Lionettes in their march to the title. The Rebil six defeated Ouachita to win the north Louisiana triple-A crown.

In the first half of the battle the two teams fought wildly for every point with neither club being able to total a sufficient lead to relieve the hot pursuit of the opposition. In the first quarter the lead changed hands three times and when the horn sounded to end the period, the Lionesses were ahead 9-8.

In the second eight minutes the lead changed to the follower five times with the organizations exchanging point for point. When the half-time curtain fell, West Monroe was on tip, 24-22.

Rebel shooting improved in the final half with John Ann Painich sparkplugging her team on to a 46-33 third quarter lead and a victory for the state throne.

After beating the Parish high girls here some weeks ago, Coach Natalie May carried her Rebel cagers over the Terrebonne Tigers to qualify for the finals. The Lion lasses stepped over both Jennings and Istrouma of Baton Rouge to win the right to play for the championship.

Painich was leading scorer for the W.M.H.S. machine with 22 points. Following closely was Shirley Cotton with 21.

Fortier Crowned Champs Of Boys' Triple-A Cagers

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP) — Fortier won its first Louisiana prep basketball championship tonight, pulling away from De La Salle after an early battle to score a 66-52 victory in the all-New Orleans triple-A playoff finals.

The teams battled on even terms until late in the second period. Fortier broke a 23-23 tie and took a 35-24 halftime lead on the shooting of ace David Corson. Corson got 12 of his team's 22 points in the second period.

De La Salle cut the margin to five points early in the third quarter, but Fortier bounced back and made it 47-35 going into the final period.

Corson took scoring honors with 23 points. High for De La Salle was Jimmy Harwell with 20.

It was Fortier's fifth victory of the season over De La Salle.

Despite Fortier's four earlier victories over De La Salle, 5,000 fans were on hand to see the game at the Tulane gym. It was a hard fight, with three players from De La Salle and Corson fouling out.

Fortier, beaten only by Bolton this season, went to the finals of the playoff last year, losing to Lake Charles.

The victory was the 34th off the season for the new state champions.

Miss Rawls Nabs Two-Stroke Lead In Titleholders

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 10—UP—Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C., twice a runnerup but never a winner, moved into the lead at the three - quarter mark of the Women's Titleholders golf championship Saturday with a par 72 which put her two strokes ahead of Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga.

Miss Rawls, who set a tournament record for nine holes Friday with a four-under-par 32 but blew up on the back nine, had her putting game down pat as she came home with a total of 226 for 54 holes.

Miss Suggs, who led by a stroke Friday, fell back into second place with 228 after a 75 Saturday. She was followed by defending champion Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., with a 73—229, and Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., who had a 77 for 231.

Others still in the running were Peggy Kirk Bell and Mickey Wright at 233; Beverly Hanson at 234; Mary Lena Faulk at 234; Marlene Bauer Hagge, Vonnie Colby, Dorothy Kirby, Betty Dodd and Ann Quast at 237, and Fay Crocker at 238.

Still a major threat was the durable Patty Berg who has steadily lowered her score in this 17th annual Titleholders which she has won a record six times. Patty used only 34 putts and canned a 25-footer on the 10th.

A public showing of the 1955 World Series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees will be shown at the Monroe Recreation Center tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. The film shows the controversial play at home plate when Jackie Robinson stole home. The public is invited to attend this showing at no admission charges, said director Jack Hesketh.

NEW ORLEANS, March 10—UP—The favorite, Reaping Right, opened ground in the stretch here Saturday and fought off a fast-closing challenger to take home the big pot in the $40,000-added Louisiana Derby at Fair Grounds.

The big colt, owned by T. A. Grissom of Detroit, came from fourth in a classy field of 11 three-year-olds, moved up swiftly to a four-length lead in the stretch and finished one and one-quarter lengths in front of Gus Burkhardt's Mr. Bob W.

The big son of Reaping Reward paid $5.00, $3.60, $3.20 for the victory in the mile and one-eighth "run for the orchids" which closes out the season for the historic Fair Grounds in its 82rd meeting.

Mr. Bob W paid $4.40, $3.80, and Frosty Mr., the long shot, finished with $11.60 for show money.

Reaping Right, with the track's leading jockey, Robert Lee Baird, crossed the wire in the slow time of 1:51, far off the track record for the mile and a furlong distance and some two seconds slower than last year's winner, Roman Patrol.

But for less than two minutes of work, the handsome colt, an early betting favorite, takes home $35,525 out of a gross purse of over $50,000.

Mark's Rickey, an import from the fast Florida tracks owned by Angilio Cilio, led the field on a perfect break from the gates. But he soon gave way to Joe W. Brown's I Dare on the back stretch. Reaping Right made his move at the back turn and stepped out fast to take a commanding lead in the stretch.

A record-breaking crowd of 18,252 horse lovers poured $138,115 across the mutuel windows to topple all previous wagering on the Derby, the curtain call for the big track.

Neville Quintet, Transylvania Six Win Junior Meet

TRANSYLVANIA, La., March 10 (Special)—The Neville boys of Monroe and the Transylvania girls marched to championships in the annual Transylvania Junior Basketball Tournament here tonight with the Neville quint stopping Transylvania, 49-45, in their final after Transylvania's girls had clinched their crown at the expense of Pioneer, 60-29.

Haddad and McNabb led Neville with 14 points apiece, while Sanders, Transylvania, was high scorer of the game with 17. Johnson sparked Transylvania's girls with 34 points, while Ross led Pioneer with 15.

Fairfield Sweeps Into Pensacola Lead

Harney, Mayer 2nd as Wininger, Bigham Hit Skids

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 10—UP—Young Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., a comer in professional golfing ranks, banged out a sizzling seven-under - par 65 Saturday to push two strokes in front in the $12,500 Pensacola Open golf tournament.

Fairfield reached the three-quarter mark with a total of 206 but had to share low-man honors of the day with Paul Harney, Bolton, Mass., and Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., who also posted 65s.

Harney was tied with veteran Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., for second with a 208. Mayer toured the Pensacola Country Club course in 67.

Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, Friday's leader with George Bigham, Kansas City, came in with a 70 for 209 while Don Jamary, Abilene, Tex., was next with a 69-211. Bunched at 212 were Lionel Hebert, Buck White, Greenwood, Miss., and Ernie Vosseler of Fort Worth.

Fairfield collected one eagle, six birdies and a bogey in his sub-par round and parred the other 10 holes but saved his best shot for the 18th when most of the 2,500 spectators looked on. He hammered his tee shot 275 yards into the rough to the left of the green. But Fairfield drove his next shot 125 yards to within three feet of the cup and dropped it in for a birdie three.

Bigham dropped out of the top 20 when he soared to 77 Saturday for a total of 216 while another early leader, Jerry Kesselring, Toronto, Canada, who topped the first round, was almost out of sight after a 78 which gave him a 54-hole 222.

The leaders:

Italy Bans Baseball Player For Overstay

ROME, March 10 (AP) — An Italian baseball star who worked out with the Washington Senators last spring was barred from Italian baseball for life today because he overstayed his American welcome.

The action was taken against Angelo Rizzo, 25-year-old mechanic and a catcher.

The Italian Baseball Federation said Rizzo violated U.S. immigration laws by continuing in the United States after the two-month trip was up.

It added that, as a result, he caused "serious moral damage" to the Italian Federation because since then the U. S. state department has extended no further invitations to Italian ball players.

Preservation of six vanishing American species is the theme of National Wildlife Week March 18-24, yet ironically three of these still can be killed in season and one can even be destroyed as a pest.

That one is the grizzly bear, protected by a closed season only in Idaho, of the four states which still have more or less token numbers of the beast that walks like a man.

Others on the vanishing list of the National Wildlife Federation, sponsor of wildlife week, are the whooping cranes, the Everglades kite, the Great Lakes sturgeon, the Montana grayling and the key deer.

Three of these species are down to what game managers call remnants, and the chances that they'll ever be brought back to game status are mighty slim.

The little Florida key deer were the object of a major campaign that probably saved them from immediate extinction several years ago. At best, they may hold on as a wildlife curiosity.

The same probably is true of whooping cranes, the continent's biggest bird, although the enormous white fellow with the clarion voice has roused a mighty throng of supporters from the arctic fringes where he summers to Aransas, on the Texas Gulf Coast where the 28 or 29 surviving birds spend their winters.

The Everglades kite, a highly specialized hawk, now is down to about 60 individuals found in the Lake Okeechobee area in Florida, where development of the Loxahatchee refuge may help the survivors hold their own, although their food habits restrict them to the neighborhood.

A quick look at the march of the other three species toward oblivion, if that's where they're headed, provides at least a study in some of the many contrasts that plague wildlife management.

The grizzly bear, of course, has virtually gone as far as the U.S. is concerned. Only a few of the 88 sub species still are found, and many of them are clustered around in Montana and Wyoming park areas, learning bad habits from the tourists. Colorado has only about a score of wild grizzlies.

And even though individual grizzlies still can be destroyed as pests, as stock killers or as game outside the park areas, this may no longer be a tremendous factor in their departure from the scene. Like some of five species of mammals which have vanished in the last 200 years from U.S. sight, the bears' requirements in wilderness area and habitat conflicted with man's, with an inevitable result.

However, the two fish in the vanishing list for wildlife week are another matter.

The Montana grayling is a game fish over which purists can wax reverent. Average fish weigh less than a pound, and their numbers never were very great. Early taxonomists found only two varieties of grayling in the U.S. — the Michigan grayling, now gone forever, and the Montana grayling which originally was found mostly in the Missouri rive above Great Falls. Careful management by Montana has now extended its range somewhat, but the fish's requirements for only the coldest, purest water runs it right into the same inexorable dead-end as the grizzly bear.

With the exception, though, that as long as waters suitable for it can be maintained, there can be Montana grayling and Montana grayling fishing of the harvestable surplus.

Something like that is the sturgeon situation, too. The major remaining fishery for the old-timer which wears its skeleton on the outside of its body and lives for a hundred years or so now is in Wisconsin's Lake Winnebago system.

Those waters gave up 1,236 fish — ranging up to 140 pounds — last month in a season for spearing through the ice. That's about the only way to take big sturgeon, whose food habits tend toward toward little red worms and other incongruously small mud dwellers on lake bottoms. The Winnebago sturgeon are harvested under careful supervision of aquatic biologists, who say the big fish might as well be taken, since there's no place for a surplus to go.

Vincent Gains Finals Of French Net Event

BEAULIEU, France, March 10 (AP)—Tony Vincent, Miami, Fla., and Antonio Maggi, Italy, today won their way into the finals of the men's singles in the Beaulieu Tennis Tournament.

Vincent defeated Andres Hammersley, Chile, 6-4, 1-6, 8-6. This gave Vincent revenge for the victory which Hammersley scored last Sunday in the finals of the Menton Tournament. Maggi defeated Wladislaw Skonecki, exiled Pole, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. Skonecki was playing with a painful boil on his thigh but did not want to default since he was the defending champion.

AIMS FOR 7TH SEASON

PITTSBURGH, March 10 (AP)—Tackle Ernie Stautner today mailed his signed 1956 contract to the National Football League Pittsburgh Steelers. This will be Stautner's seventh season with the Steelers. He operates a drive-in theater at Saranac Lake, N.Y., in the off season.

Tech's Spikemen Face Ten Battles In Coming Weeks

RUSTON, La., March 10 (Special)—Beginning with the Southwestern Recreation Meet at Ft. Worth, Tex., March 17, the Louisiana Tech track team will have ten meets on tap for this spring.

Jim Mize, Bulldog track coach, reports that several members of the Canine squad will be entered in the college and the freshman junior college divisions of the Ft. Worth meet which attracts spikemen from the entire southwest area.

The following week the Tech thinclads will open home competition when they will be host to Arkansas State Teachers College, defending champion of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

Tech track fans will have an opportunity to see four meets in Tech Stadium this season. Two are scheduled for day and two are to be night events.

Mar. 17 —Southwestern Recreation Meet at Ft. Worth, Tex.

Mar. 24 —Arkansas State Teachers at Ruston.

Mar. 28 —McNeese State at Ruston.

Apr. 6, 7 - Texas Relays at Austin, Tex.

Apr. 14 —Southwestern La. College Relays at Lafayette.

Apr. 19 —Louisiana College, Northeast State, Northwestern State, and Tech at Pineville.

Apr. 25 —Northeast, S.L.I., and Tech at Ruston (night).

May 5 —McNeese, S.L.I., and Tech at Lake Charles (night).

May 12 —Northwestern, Miss. Southern, Northeast, and Tech at Ruston (night)

Mal 19 — Gulf States Conference meet at Lake Charles.

Milleux Returns $67.80 For Upset Appleton Victory

MIAMI, Fla., March 10 (AP) — Milleux, extreme outsider in the betting at $32.90 to $1, got a heady ride from jockey Walter Blum today and won the $18,335 Appleton Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Mielleux, 4-year-old chestnut colt who previsiously won two out of four starts this year, was third out of the gate and quickly moved to second to chase B. W. Landy's Two Fisted most of the way in the mile and a furlong race.

Blum gave his mount the whip coming down the stretch and the son of Platter out of Miel by Jamestown just got up to whip Two Fisted by a head before a crowd of 20,727 spectators.

Two lengths back came High Tide stable's Fabulist, the 7 to 5 favorite, and L. Santore's Helfast was fourth in the field of eight.

Milleux ran the race in 1:49 2-5 over a fast track and paid $67.80, $22.20 and $6.60 in the $2 mutuels. Two Fisted returned $10.30 and $4.70 while show price on Fabulist was $2.90.

Mielleux, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Markus, Cleveland, O., earned $11,150 to add to the $5,175 he earned in January and the $7,380 in 16 starts last year.

Frank C. Rand Jr.'s Prine Morvi, the Australian horse, was fifth, followed by C. L. Dupuy's Galdar, Greentree stable's Illusionist and Prince Noor, in that order.

Sanchez Topples Janssen In Final Of Florida Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 10 (AP) — Wanda Sanchez, tournament medalist from Baton Rouge, La., won a 4 and 3 victory over Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., today in the final of the Florida east coast women's amateur golf tournament.

Miss Sanches, who dropped softball for golf two years ago, ended the scheduled 18-hole match on the 15th. She was 3 up at the end of the first nine, taking 39 strokes, two over par, for the distance. Miss Janssen had 42.

The Louisiana player extended her margin to four on the 11th but Miss Janssen cut it back by winning the 13th. On the 14th Miss Sanchez went four up again and the play was over when they halved the next hole.

The difference was in Miss Sanches' steady play with her iron shots and putting. Miss Janssen was longer off the tee but erratic around the greens.

The victory was Miss Sanches' first in the winter circuit and she said she plans to enter the North-South tournament at Pinehurst, N.C.

Grace Demoss of St. Augustine, last year's victor here, was upset in the opening round.

RETURNS TO BOMBERS

WINNIPEG, March 10 (AP) — End Bud Grant signed today for his fourth season with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. The 29-year-old Grant came to the Bombers from the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Kentucky, St. Louis Accept Bids To Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP) —The Sugar Bowl announced today Kentucky and St. Louis Universities have accepted invitations to play in the 1956 basketball tournament Dec. 28-29.

Claude Simons, chairman of the basketball committee, said he expects to name the two other teams next week.

The teams have met in previous Sugar Bowl tournaments and St. Louis holds a 3-0 edge on Coach Adlph Rupp's Wildcats.

St. Louis won 42-40 in 1948, 43-42 in 1950, and 61-60 in 1951.

It will be Kentucky's ninth Sugar Bowl appearance, and St. Louis' eighth. The Wildcats have a 7-5 record while St. Louis won six and lost two.

Kentucky will represent the Southeastern Conference in the N.C.A.A. Tournament, and St. Louis will play in the National Invitational Tournament.

Landy Stops For Fallen Runner, Still Wins Race

MELBOURNE, March 10 (AP) — John Landy, world mile record holder, earned a special spot in Australian sport today — by passing up the chance of another record and jeopardizing his Olympic team berth to help a fallen teammate.

The Australian star was on his way to another under-four-minute mile in the Australian championships at Melbourne's Olympic Park arena. But a fellow runner tripped and fell 580 yards from the finish. Landy stopped, turned to help but was urged on by the prone runner, Ron Clarke: "Get going, John. See you later. Don't worry about me."

And Landy got going. He made up the 30 yards he had lost, overtook the leaders and won in 4 minutes, 4.2 seconds. The stop cost him the chance of bettering his own time of 3.58.

Franz Stampfl, the Austrian coach who trained Roger Bannister to the world's first 4-minute mile, said "It was the most gallent action I have seen in a lifetime of athletics.

"Landy is the sort of man who would do that. An olympic game berth was at stake but that did not matter to Landy. All that worried him was the man on the ground."

And the 20,000 fans in the stadium openly agreed with Stampfl. They roared their appreciation as Landy stepped on to the winner's rostrum after taking the championship by 15 yards from his nearest rival, Alec Henderson of New South Wales. Merve Lincoln of Victoria came in third.

The 30 yards that Landy lost by stopping to help Clarke probably cost him five or six seconds.

N. S. C. '56 Link Slate Announced By Demon Chief

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 10 (Special) — Coach Lorane V. Brittain has announced the spring schedule for the Northwestern State College golf team. Northwestern will open the season on March 17, by meeting Louisiana Tech at Natchitoches. On March 24, the Demons will journey to Ruston for a return match with Tech.

Centenary will host the Demons in Shreveport on April 9. A return meet with Centenary on April 17 will be held in Natchitoches.

On May 19 the N.S.C. team will take part in the Gulf States Conference meet to be held at McNeese State College in Lake Charles. At present, Louisiana Tech and Northwestern are the only colleges who have announced that they will field a golf team at the G.S.C. meet.

Roslyn Cagers Claim Worldwide AF Berth

ROSLYN, N. Y., March 10 (AP) — The Roslyn Air Force Base defeated the Andrews Air Force team of Washington, D.C., 80-76, today for the right to compete in the Worldwide Air Force tourney in Peru, Ind., next week. Andrews was the winner of the Worldwide title last year.

Don Moran, player-coach of the Roslyn team and former Maryland star, pumped in 35 points for the winner. Cliff Hagen, former Kentucky ace, had 23 for the losers. Play became so heated in the third period that MPs had to be used to help the referees.

Plan Retirement For Nashua After Topping Citation

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 10 (AP)—Nashua, the million dollar turf star may be retired after next Saturday's $100,000 Gulfstream Handicap.

The Louisville Courier - Journal in its Sunday editions says next Saturday's race may be the finals of the great thoroughbred star should he win.

A win will shoot him ahead of Citation as the world's greatest money - winning horse. Citation won $1,085,760; Nashua has returned his owners $1,038,015.

One of the owners of the Nasrullah sired horse, Leslie Combs II, of Lexington, who headed the syndicate which purchased Nashua for $1,251,200 from the estate of the late William Woodward, would not confirm or deny the retirement report.

Combs readily admitted, the Courier Journal says in a story by turf editor Jerry McNerney, that the group purchased Nashua for breeding instead of racing.

Their only interest, the story says is to see Nashua leave the track as the world's money king.

Should Nashua retire this spring he could fill a half season, or at least a part at stud.

Going to stud this spring will give Nashua a whole year's jump on proving himself a sire, McNerney wrote.

Swaps, conqueror of Nashua in last year's Kentucky Derby, is enroute to Gulfstream, but Rex Ellsworth, the owner, has indicated that he doesn't plan to start Swaps in Saturday's Gulfstream Handicap. Nashua defeated Swaps in a match race.

Pettit Spearheads Hawks In 105-97 Defeat Of Lakers

ST. LOUIS, March 10 (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks virtually clinched a playoff berth today as big Bob Pettit's 34 points led the way to a 105-97 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in a National Basketball Association game.

The win means the worst the Hawks could do is tie for third with Rochester and one more victory will mathematically clinch a playoff spot.

The Hawks trailed through most of the first half but Pettit's 18 points in the first two quarters kept them in the game. Clyde Lovellettee pumped in 16 during the first half for the Lakers but wound up with a total of 20 for the game.

St. Louis took the lead early in the third quarter on a string of nine straight points by Bob Harrison, Jack Coleman and Jack Stephens. They held on doggedly as George Mikan led the Lakers through the fourth quarter in a desparate bid for the victory.

Mikan hit 17 points during the game which was nationally televised.

Pettit, who collected five fouls, set out most of the last part of the fourth quarter but his mates held onto the lead. Stephens made the last four points on foul shots as Minneapolis fought for the ball.

OCLIROCK SCORES

LINCOLN, R.I., March 10—UP—Peter Fuller's Oclirock, the 7 to 10 favorite, romped to his fourth victory of the year Saturday, defeating Arts Boy by more than two lengths in the $5,000 West Springfield purse at Lincoln Downs before a crowd of 22,169.

Delta State Withdrawn From NAIA Tournament

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 10—UP—Delta State Teachers College, Cleveland, Miss., was withdrawn Saturday from the NAIA tournament starting here Monday because of "tense conditions" in the Mississippi-Alabama district.

A statement by the NAIA executive committee announced the withdrawal.

It stated that "conditions in that district were so tense that an incident might occur in the national tournament which would be regretted."

There are two all-Negro teams entered in the week-long event, Texas Southern of Houston and Tennessee A&I of Nashville, and several teams have some Negro players.

"It was felt," the statement said, "that participation in this tournament might further increase the tension in the Alabama-Mississippi area."

Wheaton, Ill., College, the top-rated team of the 78 outfits which competed in the 31 district playoffs but failed to qualify, was chosen by the committee to replace the Mississippi entry in the tourney.

Eight games will be played Monday with another eight on Tuesday to complete the first round. Eight games will be staged Wednesday to pare the 32-team field to the quarter-finals Thursday with the semi-finals Friday and the finals Saturday.

Monday's Schedule

11 a. m. Stephen F. Austin vs. Coe College.

12:30 p. m. Gustavus-Adolphus vs. Eastern Tennessee.

Bobby Brocato Easily Captures Capistrano Run

ARCADIA, Calif., March 10—UP—Bobby Brocato, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap two weeks ago, scored Santa Anita's golden double Saturday by taking the $115,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap at a mile and three-quarters over the grass.

Only Noor in 1950 had previously been able to capture the golden double. By his victory Saturday Bobby Brocato stamped himself as one of the nation's outstanding stakes horses. A filly, Manotick, was second and Honeys Alibi was third. The favored Social Outcast was fourth in the field of 13 starters.

Although Bobby Brocato was ridden by George Taniguchi instead of Johnny Longden as he was two weeks ago, he ran the same kind of race. He went out in front and let the others draw close but never catch him.

The winner was only a slightly longer price than Social Outcast and returned $7.80, $3.60 and $2.70 across the board. Manotick paid $12.70 and $7.40, and Honeys Alibi paid $4.20.

The victory was worth $68,900 to Oklahoma oilman Travis M. Kerr, who bought Bobby Brocato last summer for $150,000 in a consignment from New Orleans sportsman Joe W. Brown. The winner's purse sent Bobby Brocato's earnings to $211,125 for the meeting as he equalled Mioland's record of four stakes wins at a single Santa Anita meeting.

Clem Is Head Winner Of Governor's Sprint

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 10—UP—Frank Rand's two-year-old chestnut colt, Clem, with Pete Anderson up, won the featured Governor's Handicap by a head in the fifth annual running of the Palmetto trials Saturday before 2,500 fans.

In the half-mile race for three year olds, King Ranch's Cursory and Mrs. Frank Rand's King's Charger finished in a dead heat for first.

Harney, Mayer 2nd as Wininger, Bigham Hit Skids

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 10—UP—Young Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., a comer in professional golfing ranks, banged out a sizzling seven-under - par 65 Saturday to push two strokes in front in the $12,500 Pensacola Open golf tournament.

Fairfield reached the three-quarter mark with a total of 206 but had to share low-man honors of the day with Paul Harney, Bolton, Mass., and Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., who also posted 65s.

Harney was tied with veteran Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., for second with a 208. Mayer toured the Pensacola Country Club course in 67.

Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, Friday's leader with George Bigham, Kansas City, came in with a 70 for 209 while Don January, Abilene, Tex., was next with a 69-211. Bunched at 212 were Lionel Hebert, Buck White, Greenwood, Miss., and Ernie Vosseler of Fort Worth.

Fairfield collected one eagle, six birdies and a bogey in his sub-par round and parred the other 10 holes but saved his best shot for the 18th when most of the 2,500 spectators looked on. He hammered his tee shot 275 yards into the rough to the left of the green. But Fairfield drove his next shot 125 yards to within three feet of the cup and dropped it in for a birdie three.

Bigham dropped out of the top 20 when he soared to 77 Saturday for a total of 216 while another early leader, Jerry Kesselring, Toronto, Canada, who topped the first round, was almost out of sight after a 78 which gave him a 54-hole 222.

The leaders:

Don Fairfield	72-69-65—206
Paul Harney	76-67-65—208
Dick Mayer	71-70-67—208

Italy Bans Baseball Player For Overstay

ROME, March 10 (AP) — An Italian baseball star who worked out with the Washington Senators last spring was barred from Italian baseball for life today because he overstayed his American welcome.

The action was taken against Angelo Rizzo, 25-year-old mechanic and a catcher.

The Italian Baseball Federation said Rizzo violated U.S. immigration laws by continuing in the United States after the two-month trip was up.

It added that, as a result, he caused "serious moral damage" to the Italian Federation because since then the U. S. state department has extended no further invitations to Italian ball players.

Preservation of six vanishing American species is the theme of National Wildlife Week March 18-24, yet ironically three of these still can be killed in season and one can even be destroyed as a pest.

That one is the grizzly bear, protected by a closed season only in Idaho, of the four states which still have more or less token numbers of the beast that walks like a man.

Others on the vanishing list of the National Wildlife Federation, sponsor of wildlife week, are the whooping cranes, the Everglades kite, the Great Lakes sturgeon, the Montana grayling and the key deer.

Three of these species are down to what game managers call remnants, and the chances that they'll ever be brought back to game status are mighty slim.

The little Florida key deer were the object of a major campaign that probably saved them from immediate extinction several years ago. At best, they may hold on as a wildlife curiosity.

The same probably is true of whooping cranes, the continent's biggest bird, although the enormous white fellow with the clarion voice has roused a mighty throng of supporters from the arctic fringes where he summers to Aransas, on the Texas Gulf Coast where the 28 or 29 surviving birds spend their winters.

The Everglades kite, a highly specialized hawk, now is down to about 60 individuals found in the Lake Okeechobee area in Florida, where development of the Loxahatchee refuge may help the survivors hold their own, although their food habits restrict them to the neighborhood.

A quick look at the march of the other three species toward oblivion, if that's where they're headed, provides at least a study in some of the many contrasts that plague wildlife management.

The grizzly bear, of course, has virtually gone as far as the U.S. is concerned. Only a few of the 88 sub species still are found, and many of them are clustered around in Montana and Wyoming park areas, learning bad habits from the tourists. Colorado has only about a score of wild grizzlies.

And even though individual grizzlies still can be destroyed as pests, as stock killers or as game outside the park areas, this may no longer be a tremendous factor in their departure from the scene. Like some of five species of mammals which have vanished in the last 200 years from U.S. sight, the bears' requirements in wilderness area and habitat conflicted with man's, with an inevitable result.

However, the two fish in the vanishing list for wildlife week are another matter.

The Montana grayling is a game fish over which purists can wax reverent. Average fish weigh less than a pound, and their numbers never were very great. Early taxonomists found only two varieties of grayling in the U.S. — the Michigan grayling, now gone forever, and the Montana grayling which originally was found mostly in the Missouri rive above Great Falls. Careful management by Montana has now extended its range somewhat, but the fish's requirements for only the coldest, purest water runs it right into the same inexorable dead-end as the grizzly bear.

With the exception, though, that as long as waters suitable for it can be maintained, there can be Montana grayling and Montana grayling fishing of the harvestable surplus.

Something like that is the sturgeon situation, too. The major remaining fishery for the old-timer which wears its skeleton on the outside of its body and lives for a hundred years or so now is in Wisconsin's Lake Winnebago system.

Those waters gave up 1,236 fish — ranging up to 140 pounds — last month in a season for spearing through the ice. That's about the only way to take big sturgeon, whose food habits tend toward little red worms and other incongruously small mud dwellers on lake bottoms. The Winnebago sturgeon are harvested under careful supervision of aquatic biologists, who say the big fish might as well be taken, since there's no place for a surplus to go.

Vincent Gains Finals Of French Net Event

BEAULIEU, France, March 10 (AP)—Tony Vincent, Miami, Fla., and Antonio Maggi, Italy, today won their way into the finals of the men's singles in the Beaulieu Tennic Tournament.

Vincent defeated Andres Hammersley, Chile, 6-4, 1-6, 8-6. This gave Vincent revenge for the victory which Hammersley scored last Sunday in the finals of the Menton Tournament. Maggi defeated Wladislaw Skonecki, exiled Pole, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. Skonecki was playing with a painful boil on his thigh but did not want to default since he was the defending champion.

PITTSBURGH, March 10 (AP)—Tackle Ernie Stautner today mailed his signed 1956 contract to the National Football League Pittsburgh Steelers. This will be Stautner's seventh season with the Steelers. He operates a drive-in theater at Saranac Lake, N.Y., in the off season.

Tech's Spikemen Face Ten Battles In Coming Weeks

RUSTON, La., March 10 (Special)—Beginning with the Southwestern Recreation Meet at Ft. Worth, Tex., March 17, the Louisiana Tech track team will have ten meets on tap for this spring.

Jim Mize, Bulldog track coach, reports that several members of the Canine squad will be entered in the college and the freshman junior college divisions of the Ft. Worth meet which attracts spikemen from the entire southwest area.

The following week the Tech thinclads will open home competition when they will be host to Arkansas State Teachers College, defending champion of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

Tech track fans will have an opportunity to see four meets in Tech Stadium this season. Two are scheduled for day and two are to be night events.

Tech's complete track schedule, as announced by athletic director Joe Aillet, is shown below.

Mar. 17 —Southwestern Recreation Meet at Ft. Worth, Tex.

Mar. 24 —Arkansas State Teachers at Ruston.

Mar. 28 —McNeese State at Ruston.

Apr. 6, 7 - Texas Relays at Austin, Tex.

Apr. 14 —Southwestern La. College Relays at Lafayette.

Apr. 19 —Louisiana College, Northeast State, Northwestern State, and Tech at Pineville.

Apr. 25 —Northeast, S.L.I., and Tech at Ruston (night).

May 5 —McNeese, S.L.I., and Tech at Lake Charles (night).

May 12 —Northwestern, Miss. Southern, Northeast, and Tech at Ruston (night).

Mal 19 — Gulf States Conference meet at Lake Charles.

Milleux Returns $67.80 For Upset Appleton Victory

MIAMI, Fla., March 10 (AP) — Milleux, extreme outsider in the betting at $32.90 to $1, got a heady ride from jockey Walter Blum today and won the $18,335 Appleton Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Mielleux, 4-year-old chestnut colt who previsiously won two out of four starts this year, was third out of the gate and quickly moved to second to chase B. W. Landy's Two Fisted most of the way in the mile and a furlong race.

Blum gave his mount the whip coming down the stretch and the son of Platter out of Miel by Jamestown just got up to whip Two Fisted by a head before a crowd of 20,727 spectators.

Two lengths back came High Tide stable's Fabulist, the 7 to 5 favorite, and L. Santore's Helfast was fourth in the field of eight.

Milleux ran the race in 1:49 2-5 over a fast track and paid $67.80, $22.20 and $6.60 in the $2 mutuels. Two Fisted returned $10.30 and $4.70 while show price on Fabulist was $2.90.

Mielleux, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Markus, Cleveland, O., earned $11,150 to add to the $5,175 he earned in January and the $7,380 in 16 starts last year.

Frank C. Rand Jr.'s Prine Morvi, the Australian horse, was fifth, followed by C. L. Dupuy's Galdar, Greentree stable's Illusionist and Prince Noor, in that order.

Sanchez Topples Janssen In Final Of Florida Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 10 (AP) — Wanda Sanchez, tournament medalist from Baton Rouge, La., won a 4 and 3 victory over Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., today in the final of the Florida east coast women's amateur golf tournament.

Miss Sanches, who dropped softball for golf two years ago, ended the scheduled 18-hole match on the 15th. She was 3 up at the end of the first nine,t aking 39 strokes, two over par, for the distance. Miss Janssen had 42.

The Louisiana player extended her margin to four on the 11th but Miss Janssen cut it back by winning the 13th. On the 14th Miss Sanchez went four up again and the play was over when they halved the next hole.

The difference was in Miss Sanches' steady play with her iron shots and putting. Miss Janssen was longer off the tee but erratic around the greens.

The victory was Miss Sanches' first in the winter circuit and she said she plans to enter the North-South tournament at Pinehurst, N.C.

Grace Demoss of St. Augustine, last year's victor here, was upset in the opening round.

RETURNS TO BOMBERS

WINNIPEG, March 10 (AP) — End Bud Grant signed today for his fourth season with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. The 29-year-old Grant came to the Bombers from the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Kentucky, St. Louis Accept Bids To Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP) —The Sugar Bowl announced today Kentucky and St. Louis Universities have accepted invitations to play in the 1956 basketball tournament Dec. 28-29.

Claude Simons, chairman of the basketball committee, said he expects to name the two other teams next week.

The teams have met in previous Sugar Bowl tournaments and St. Louis holds a 3-0 edge on Coach Adlph Rupp's Wildcats.

St. Louis won 42-40 in 1948, 43-42 in 1950, and 61-60 in 1951.

It will be Kentucky's ninth Sugar Bowl appearance, and St. Louis' eighth. The Wildcats have a 7-5 record while St. Louis won six and lost two.

Kentucky will represent the Southeastern Conference in the N.C.A.A. Tournament, and St. Louis will play in the National Invitational Tournament.

Landy Stops For Fallen Runner, Still Wins Race

MELBOURNE, March 10 (AP) — John Landy, world mile record holder, earned a special spot in Australian sport today — by passing up the chance of another record and jeopardizing his Olympic team berth to help a fallen teammate.

The Australian star was on his way to another under-four-minute mile in the Australian championships at Melbourne's Olympic Park arena. But a fellow runner tripped and fell 580 yards from the finish. Landy stopped, turned to help but was urged on by the prone runner, Ron Clarke: "Get going, John. See you later. Don't worry about me."

And Landy got going. He made up the 30 yards he had lost, overtook the leaders and won in 4 minutes, 4.2 seconds. The stop cost him the chance of bettering his own time of 3:58.

Franz Stampfl, the Austrian coach who trained Roger Bannister to the world's first 4-minute mile, said "It was the most gallent action I have seen in a lifetime of athletics.

"Landy is the sort of man who would do that. An olympic game berth was at stake but that did not matter to Landy. All that worried him was the man on the ground."

And the 20,000 fans in the stadium openly agreed with Stampfl. They roared their appreciation as Landy stepped on to the winner's rostrum after taking the championship by 15 yards from his nearest rival. Alec Henderson of New South Wales. Merve Lincoln of Victoria came in third.

The 30 yards that Landy lost by stopping to help Clarke probably cost him five or six seconds.

N. S. C. '56 Link Slate Announced By Demon Chief

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 10 (Special) — Coach Lorane V. Brittain has announced the spring schedule for the Northwestern State College golf team. Northwestern will open the season on March 17, by meeting Louisiana Tech at Natchitoches. On March 24, the Demons will journey to Ruston for a return match with Tech.

Centenary will host the Demons in Shreveport on April 9. A return meet with Centenary on April 17 will be held in Natchitoches.

On May 19 the N.S.C. team will take part in the Gulf States Conference meet to be held at McNeese State College in Lake Charles. At present, Louisiana Tech and Northwestern are the only colleges who have announced that they will field a golf team at the G.S.C. meet.

Roslyn Cagers Claim Worldwide AF Berth

ROSLYN, N. Y., March 10 (AP) — The Roslyn Air Force Base defeated the Andrews Air Force team of Washington, D.C., 80-76, today for the right to compete in the Worldwide Air Force tourney in Peru, Ind., next week. Andrews was the winner of the Worldwide title last year.

Don Moran, player-coach of the Roslyn team and former Maryland star, pumped in 35 points for the winner. Cliff Hagen, former Kentucky ace, had 23 for the losers. Play became so heated in the third period that MPs had to be used to help the referees.

Plan Retirement For Nashua After Topping Citation

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 10 (AP)—Nashua, the million dollar turf star may be retired after next Saturday's $100,000 Gulfstream Handicap.

The Louisville Courier - Journal in its Sunday editions says next Saturday's race may be the finals of the great thoroughbred star should he win.

A win will shoot him ahead of Citation as the world's greatest money - winning horse. Citation won $1,085,760; Nashua has returned his owners $1,038,015.

One of the owners of the Nasrullah sired horse, Leslie Combs II, of Lexington, who headed the syndicate which purchased Nashua for $1,251,200 from the estate of the late William Woodward, would not confirm or deny the retirement report.

Combs readily admitted, the Courier Journal says in a story by turf editor Jerry McNerney, that the group purchased Nashua for breeding instead of racing.

Their only interest, the story says is to see Nashua leave the track as the world's money king.

Should Nashua retire this spring he could fill a half season, or at least a part at stud.

Going to stud this spring will give Nashua a whole year's jump on proving himself a sire, McNerney wrote.

Swaps, conqueror of Nashua in last year's Kentucky Derby, is enroute to Gulfstream, but Rex Ellsworth, the owner, has indicated that he doesn't plan to start Swaps in Saturday's Gulfstream Handicap. Nashua defeated Swaps in a match race.

Pettit Spearheads Hawks In 105-97 Defeat Of Lakers

ST. LOUIS, March 10 (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks virtually clinched a playoff berth today as big Bob Pettit's 34 points led the way to a 105-97 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in a National Basketball Association game.

The win means the worst the Hawks could do is tie for third with Rochester and one more victory will mathematically clinch a playoff spot.

The Hawks trailed through most of the first half but Pettit's 18 points in the first two quarters kept them in the game. Clyde Lovellettee pumped in 16 during the first half for the Lakers but wound up with a total of 20 for the game.

St. Louis took the lead early in the third quarter on a string of nine straight points by Bob Harrison, Jack Coleman and Jack Stephens. They held on doggedly as George Mikan led the Lakers through the fourth quarter in a desparate bid for the victory.

Mikan hit 17 points during the game which was nationally televised.

Pettit, who collected five fouls, set out most of the last part of the fourth quarter but his mates held onto the lead. Stephens made the last four points on foul shots as Minneapolis fought for the ball.

OCLIROCK SCORES

LINCOLN, R.I., March 10—UP—Peter Fuller's Oclirock, the 7 to 10 favorite, romped to his fourth victory of the year Saturday, defeating Arts Boy by more than two lengths in the $5,000 West Springfield purse at Lincoln Downs before a crowd of 22,169.

Delta State Withdrawn From NAIA Tournament

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 10—UP—Delta State Teachers College, Cleveland, Miss., was withdrawn Saturday from the NAIA tournament starting here Monday because of "tense conditions" in the Mississippi-Alabama district.

A statement by the NAIA executive committee announced the withdrawal.

It stated that "conditions in that district were so tense that an incident might occur in the national tournament which would be regretted."

There are two all-Negro teams entered in the week-long event, Texas Southern of Houston and Tennessee A&I of Nashville, and several teams have some Negro players.

"It was felt," the statement said, "that participation in this tournament might further increase the tension in the Alabama-Mississippi area."

Wheaton, Ill., College, the top-rated team of the 78 outfits which competed in the 31 district playoffs but failed to qualify, was chosen by the committee to replace the Mississippi entry in the tourney.

Eight games will be played Monday with another eight on Tuesday to complete the first round. Eight games will be staged Wednesday to pare the 32-team field to the quarter-finals Thursday with the semi-finals Friday and the finals Saturday.

The winner was only a slightly longer price than Social Outcast and returned $7.80, $3.60 and $2.70 across the board. Manotick paid $12.70 and $7.40, and Honeys Alibi paid $4.20.

The victory was worth $68,900 to Oklahoma oilman Travis M. Kerr, who bought Bobby Brocato last summer for $150,000 in a consignment from New Orleans sportsman Joe W. Brown. The winner's purse sent Bobby Brocato's earnings to $211,125 for the meeting as he equalled Mioland's record of four stakes wins at a single Santa Anita meeting.

Cupit Forges 7-Stroke Margin In Twin City Open

Bill Jones Runs 2nd While Four Others Hold 3rd

Only a complete blow-up apparently could keep Buster Cupit, Ruston professional, from sweeping top money in the fifth annual Twin City Open Golf Tournament as he marched into a second round seven-stroke lead with the final 18 holes of the 54-hole tournament coming up today over the McGuire Park Golf Club's course in West Monroe.

Cupit, former McGuire pro who was transplanted to Louisiana from Longview, Tex., shot a two-under-par 70 yesterday to go with his first round 69 for a 36-hole total of 139.

Bill Jones, Monroe amateur, held second place last night with a 146, one stroke better than four other contenders, Oran Whittington, and Tommy Morrow, Shreveport, and Leonard Warren, and Johnny Myers, Bastrop, all with 147s.

And, as Jones summed it up:

"Don't worry about Buster. Anybody with a seven-stroke lead is in. From now on the real battle is for second, third, fourth, and fifth place and so on."

There were five withdrawals yesterday from the 32-contender championship field leaving 27 still in the lineup for action today, with Cupit, Morrow, and Jones taking the course in the featured threesome for their final round at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Alone at 148 in seventh place is Clyde Nash, Monroe amateur. His nearest pursuer was two strokes away, Cotton Hill, Shreveport pro, with 151.

Today's threesomes and starting times:

Championship — T. O. Bancroft Jr., Bill Carpenter, and Eddie Adair, 11 a.m.; T. L. Morris, Jimmy Simmons and Ed Watkins, 12 noon; Hal McClendon, Loy Heard and J. L. Set New Betting, Attendance Marks For Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP)—Betting and attendance records toppled today as the Fair Grounds closed its 83rd winter racing season.

The 18,531 who saw Reaping Right win the $50,350 Louisiana Derby on closing day pushed the season's total to 761,273 fans. The old record of 703,449 was set last year.

The season's betting totaled $37,531,541, a big jump from the old record of $35,103,919 set last year.

Today's $138,155 bet on the derby was the biggest wagered on a single race and made the day's total $927,455, another record. The old marks were $131,276 bet on last year's derby and $808,276 bet on Derby Day last year.

The $75,568 bet on the daily double today also was a record, but Fair Grounds officials said they did not have the exact figure or date for the old record.

Martinez Gets April 4 Date Against Diaz

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Vince Martinez, fourth-ranking welterweight title contender from Paterson, N.J., and Miguel Diaz, 21 - year - old Havana detective were signed today for a 10-round television fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium April 4.

Daiz recently defeated Chico Varona in a 12-rounder in Havana billed as a fight for the Cuban welterweight title.

Starr, Harman Will Play Tag With Scarr, Galento

CHALLENGES VILLAINS —Bobby Starr, 22-year-old wrestler, joins Johnny Harman in a tag match against Mario Galento and Red Scarr in the wrestling main at Kallio's here Tuesday night.

Mario Galento and Red Scarr, current villains at Gus Kallio's arena, take on another young pair in a tag team scramble here Tuesday night when they match wits with Johnny Harman and Bobby Scarr.

Galento and Scarr two weeks ago polished off Jack Welch and Billy Scherbert with the latter, a 22-year-old, taking an unmerciful beating in the deciding fall.

Said Scarr after that match: "We're eliminating the boys from the wrestling game. This sport is for men."

Young Starr, himself a 22-year-old, informed Promoter Kallio it's time to show Galento and Scarr "They're getting too old for the game."

"I've heard how they treated Billy, and I don't believe they can pull the same stuff on me—not with Harmon backing me up."

The relay scramble, moving the wrestlers back after a boxing date last week, will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. A pair of one-fall scraps open the show at 8:15 o'clock.

Independent Girls Of Crowville Win In Hawsey Event

OGDEN, La., March 10 (Special) —The Crowville Independent girls, Central High's undergraduate girls, and the Enterprise undergraduate boys won championships in their divisions of the annual Charles Hawsey Memorial Basketball Tournament here tonight. The independent boys' final was still in progress at a late hour with Goober Ridge of Ruston leading Redmen of Monroe, 44-42, at the half.

Crowville's independent girls shaded the' All - Staters of Winnsboro, 42-41, in their final. Central's undergraduate sextet plastered Crowville, 53-31, and the Enterprise undergrad quint stopped Ogden, 53-37, in their final.

In semi-final games today the Redmen beat Ogden Independents, 92-49; Goober Ridge beat the Pee Wees of Monroe, 67-60; Ogden undergraduate boys beat Central, 48-45, and the Enterprise undergraduate boys stopped Baskin, 59-41.

11 Cage Players Letter For Year At Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 10 (Special)—Co-captains George McConathy and Dick Brown topped the list of Northwestern State College basketball lettermen for the 1955-56 season in much the same fashion that they have paced the freshman - loaded Demons throughout the campaign, it was announced today.

NSC Coach Charles "Red" Thomas stated that McConathy, a 6'3½" senior forward from Bryceland, will receive his fourth numeral and Brown, 5'10" junior guard from Converse, will get his third letter award.

Second - year lettermen on the list were 6'10" junior center "Loopy" Langston, Pollock, and 5'10" sophomore guard Ronnie Lebo, Winamac, Ind.

Receiving their first monograms were senior forward James Enloe, Alexandria, sophomore center - forward Mickey Crnkovic, Zwolle, and freshmen Jimmie "Red" Leach, Florien guard, Pete Walpole, Bossier City guard, Bobby Wicker, Baton Rouge forward, and Larry Fontenot, DeQuincy forward.

Winnsboro Gets Denham Springs In Final Scrap

WINNSBORO, La., March 10 (Special)—The Winnsboro High School quintet makes a final bid for the state Class A basketball championship here Tuesday night against Denham Springs.

Coach Orville Elkins' Wildcats made the grade to the title game by beating out Lake Providence for the district 2-A championship, stopping Many in bi-district, whipping DeQuincy in the regional playoff, and shading LaSalle of Olla here last night in a state semi-final while Denham Springs was toppling Newman of New Orleans in the other semi-windup battle.

Game time Tuesday night in Winnsboro gymnasium is 7:30 o'clock.

Winnsboro placed three players on the all-district team, Jackie Carpenter, six-foot-three forward; Jesse Walker, six-foot-six center, and Jerry Bankston, five-foot-eight guard. Also on the all-district are Max Fuglar and Guy Hill, Ferriday, and Earle and Fairchild of Lake Providence.

The Wildcats have rolled up a season record of 24 victories against eight losses. They have won 14 of their last 15 games in the march to the finals.

Walker is the high scorer of the Wildcats machine with 672 points for the season, averaging 21 points per game.

UP Gives Reigel Slot On Honorable Mention Listings

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 10 (Special)—McNeese State's fabulous Bill Reigel, the nation's leading basketball scorer, was awarded an honorable mention berth in the 1956 United Press All - America selections.

Reigel's 1,062 points in 31 games this year, is the second highest total ever recorded in a single-season. Bevo Francis of Rio Grande College fame holds the record with his 1954 total of 1,255.

The prolific scoring of the McNeese ace is rated tops in the nation this year by both the N.A.I.A. and N.C.A.A., and his per-game average of 34.3 points is also the highest in the U.S.

Reigel scored approximately 50 per cent of his team's points, and paced McNeese to its first Gulf States conference championship and the college's first berth in the N.A.I.A. small college tournament to be held in Kansas City, March 13-17.

In conference play, he has cracked all existing individual scoring records.

11 Lettermen Returning For Tech Baseball Team

RUSTON, La., March 10 (Special) —With the baseball season opener only a little more than a week away, the Louisiana Tech diamond crew has been taking advantage of every opportunity to get on the practice field the past few days.

Coach Berry Hinton's Bulldogs have a tough opening assignment as they'll tangle with the Shreveport Sports of the Texas League in an exhibition affair at Ruston March 20. First collegiate competition for the Canine baseballers will be March 23 and 24 when the Techmen will be host to the Arkansas State nine for two tussles on the Tech diamond.

During the past week some 40 to 45 fellows have been trying out for the Bulldog squad. Indications are there will be considerable competition for a number of positions due to the loss of seven important lettermen from last year's crew.

Eleven returning lettermen from last season are: pitchers Milford Andrews, Delhi, Doyle Kile, Westlake, Jesse Mercer, Mangham; catcher Curtis Allen, Farmerville; first baseman Doug Robertson, Shreveport; second baseman Eddie Joyce, Ruston, outfielders Bobby Shores, Vivian, J. F. White, Shreveport, Melvin Colvin, Dubach, Roger Galatas, Benton, and Kenneth Brown, Jonesboro.

Promising prospects for the Tech squad include:

Pitchers: Ronnie Coil, Vivian, Ben Alexander, Simsboro, Dudley Trig, Shreveport, Joe White, Calhoun, George Cunningham, Shreveport, and Jerry Waldron, Haynesville.

Catchers: J. B. Boyette, Sarepta, Clyde Hunt, Dubach, and Jack Wilson, Ringgold.

First base: Max Stracener, DeRidder, Seth Tatum, Dubach.

Second base: Al Cox, New Orleans, John Storment, Bastrop.

Third base: Ralph Cross, Shreveport, Wade Scott, Shreveport, Billy Pearson, Bernice.

Outfielders: Jim Knotts, Doyline, Jack McKinney, Plain Dealing, Ken Miles, Camden, Ark., Terry Futch, Spearsville, Dave Davis, Shreveport, Perry Burress, Shreveport.

Shell Of Norco In Tie Game With S'Eastern Lions

NORCO, La., March 10 (AP) — Southeastern Louisiana College and the Shell Oilers played to a 2-2 14-inning tie today with neithr team able to score after the fifth inning.

Right fielder Joe Segers' single in the fourth inning with the bases loaded drove in both Southeastern runs. Singles by Ted Ridgdell and Don Moffat and an error had filled the bases.

Fred Babineaux's single in the fifth accounted for both Shell runs. Runners were on second and third when Babineaux singled.

Each team got seven hits.

Southeastern used four pitchers and Shell three. Ronnie Harvey pitched the last five innings for Southeastern and gave up only one hit. Ted Andrus worked the last eight innings for Shell.

"Style begins at Fashion Park"

CRAZY MIXED UP SILKWORMS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE WORLD'S MOST UNIQUE FABRIC

The nub in the silk fabric in Fashion Park's suits are not misweaves but a characteristic of the fabric itself denoting pure Douppioni silk. This nubby silk is the result of two "mixed-up" silk worms spinning one cocoon. This prevents the delicate filaments of silk from being evenly reeled from the cocoons. Thus a nubby or knotted yarn is obtained, thicker than average . . . Douppioni (from the Italian word doppio meaning double). From this heavy slubbed silk with the soft sheen are tailored 100% pure silk suits. They drape and tailor as gently as the finest wool yet they are of whisker weight —oh so cool on the hottest summer days.

Cupit Forges 7-Stroke Margin In Twin City Open

Bill Jones Runs 2nd While Four Others Hold 3rd

Only a complete blow-up apparently could keep Buster Cupit, Ruston professional, from sweeping top money in the fifth annual Twin City Open Golf Tournament as he marched into a second round seven-stroke lead with the final 18 holes of the 54-hole tournament coming up today over the McGuire Park Golf Club's course in West Monroe.

Cupit, former McGuire pro who was transplanted to Louisiana from Longview, Tex., shot a two-under-par 70 yesterday to go with his first round 69 for a 36-hole total of 139.

Bill Jones, Monroe amateur, held second place last night with a 146, one stroke better than four other contenders, Oran Whittington, and Tommy Morrow, Shreveport, and Leonard Warren, and Johnny Myers, Bastrop, all with 147s.

And, as Jones summed it up:

"Don't worry about Buster. Anybody with a seven-stroke lead is in. From now on the real battle is for second, third, fourth, and fifth place and so on."

There were five withdrawals yesterday from the 32-contender championship field leaving 27 still in the lineup for action today, with Cupit, Morrow, and Jones taking the course in the featured threesome for their final round at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Set New Betting, Attendance Marks For Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS, March 10 (AP)—Betting and attendance records toppled today as the Fair Grounds closed its 83rd winter racing season.

The 18,531 who saw Reaping Right win the $50,350 Louisiana Derby on closing day pushed the season's total to 761,273 fans. The old record of 703,449 was set last year.

The season's betting totaled $37,531,541, a big jump from the old record of $35,103,919 set last year.

Today's $138,155 bet on the derby was the biggest wagered on a single race and made the day's total $927,455, another record. The old marks were $131,276 bet on last year's derby and $808,276 bet on Derby Day last year.

The $75,568 bet on the daily double today also was a record, but Fair Grounds officials said they did not have the exact figure or date for the old record.

Starr, Harman Will Play Tag With Scarr, Galento

CHALLENGES VILLAINS —Bobby Starr, 22-year-old wrestler, joins Johnny Harman in a tag match against Mario Galento and Red Scarr in the wrestling main at Kallio's here Tuesday night.

Mario Galento and Red Scarr, current villains at Gus Kallio's arena, take on another young pair in a tag team scramble here Tuesday night when they match wits with Johnny Harman and Bobby Scarr.

Galento and Scarr two weeks ago polished off Jack Welch and Billy Scherbert with the latter, a 22-year-old, taking an unmerciful beating in the deciding fall.

Said Scarr after that match: "We're eliminating the boys from the wrestling game. This sport is for men."

Young Starr, himself a 22-year-old, informed Promoter Kallio it's time to show Galento and Scarr "They're getting too old for the game."

'I've heard how they treated Billy, and I don't believe they can pull the same stuff on me—not with Harmon backing me up."

The relay scramble, moving the wrestlers back after a boxing date last week, will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. A pair of one-fall scraps open the show at 8:15 o'clock.

Winnsboro Gets Denham Springs In Final Scrap

WINNSBORO, La., March 10 (Special)—The Winnsboro High School quintet makes a final bid for the state Class A basketball championship here Tuesday night against Denham Springs.

Coach Orville Elkins' Wildcats made the grade to the title game by beating out Lake Providence for the district 2-A championship, stopping Many in bi-district, whipping DeQuincy in the regional playoff, and shading LaSalle of Olla here last night in a state semi-final while Denham Springs was toppling Newman of New Orleans in the other semi-windup battle.

Game time Tuesday night in Winnsboro gymnasium is 7:30 o'clock.

Winnsboro placed three players on the all-district team, Jackie Carpenter, six-foot-three forward; Jesse Walker, six-foot-six center, and Jerry Bankston, five-foot-eight guard. Also on the all-district are Max Fuglar and Guy Hill, Ferriday, and Earle and Fairchild of Lake Providence.

The Wildcats have rolled up a season record of 24 victories against eight losses. They have won 14 of their last 15 games in the march to the finals.

Walker is the high scorer of the Wildcats machine with 672 points for the season, averaging 21 points per game.

UP Gives Reigel Slot On Honorable Mention Listings

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 10 (Special)—McNeese State's fabulous Bill Reigel, the nation's leading basketball scorer, was awarded an honorable mention berth in the 1956 United Press All - America selections.

Reigel's 1,062 points in 31 games this year, is the second highest total ever recorded in a single-season. Bevo Francis of Rio Grande College fame holds the record with his 1954 total of 1,255.

The prolific scoring of the McNeese ace is rated tops in the nation this year by both the N.A.I.A. and N.C.A.A., and his per-game average of 34.3 points is also the highest in the U.S.

Reigel scored approximately 50 per cent of his team's points, and paced McNeese to its first Gulf States conference championship and the college's first berth in the N.A.I.A. small college tournament to be held in Kansas City, March 13-17.

RUSTON, La., March 10 (Special)—Louisiana Tech's golf team, champion of the Gulf States Conference the past four seasons, will have nine events on the 1956 schedule.

Joe Aillet, Bulldog athletic director and golf coach, reports the Techmen will open competition March 17 in a match with Northwestern State at Natchitoches.

The complete schedule:

March 17 — Northwestern State at Natchitoches.
March 24 — Northwestern State at Ruston.
March 26 — Illinois State Normal University at Ruston.
April 7 — Tulane at Ruston.
April 13 — L.S.U. at Baton Rouge.
April 21 — Centenary at Ruston.
April 28 — Centenary at Shreveport.
May 3, 4, 5 — Southern Intercollegiate Tournament at Athens, Ga.
May 18, 19 — Gulf States Conference Meet at Lake Charles.

11 Lettermen Returning For Tech Baseball Team

RUSTON, La., March 10 (Special) —With the baseball season opener only a little more than a week away, the Louisiana Tech diamond crew has been taking advantage of every opportunity to get on the practice field the past few days.

Coach Berry Hinton's Bulldogs have a tough opening assignment as they'll tangle with the Shreveport Sports of the Texas League in an exhibition affair at Ruston March 20. First collegiate competition for the Canine baseballers will be March 23 and 24 when the Techmen will be host to the Arkansas State nine for two tussles on the Tech diamond.

During the past week some 40 to 45 fellows have been trying out for the Bulldog squad. Indications are there will be considerable competition for a number of positions due to the loss of seven important lettermen from last year's crew.

Eleven returning lettermen from last season are: pitchers Milford Andrews, Delhi, Doyle Kile, Westlake, Jesse Mercer, Mangham; catcher Curtis Allen, Farmerville; first baseman Doug Robertson, Shreveport; second baseman Eddie Joyce, Ruston, outfielders Bobby Shores, Vivian, J. F. White, Shreveport, Melvin Colvin, Dubach, Roger Galatas, Benton, and Kenneth Brown, Jonesboro.

Promising prospects for the Tech squad include:

Pitchers: Ronnie Coil, Vivian, Ben Alexander, Simsboro, Dudley Trig, Shreveport, Joe White, Calhoun, George Cunningham, Shreveport, and Jerry Waldron, Haynesville.

Catchers: J. B. Boyette, Sarepta, Clyde Hunt, Dubach, and Jack Wilson, Ringgold.

First base: Max Stracener, DeRidder, Seth Tatum, Dubach.

Second base: Al Cox, New Orleans, John Storment, Bastrop.

Third base: Ralph Cross, Shreveport, Wade Scott, Shreveport, Billy Pearson, Bernice.

Outfielders: Jim Knotts, Doyline, Jack McKinney, Plain Dealing, Ken Miles, Camden, Ark., Terry Futch, Spearsville, Dave Davis, Shreveport, Perry Burress, Shreveport.

Shell Of Norco In Tie Game With S'Eastern Lions

NORCO, La., March 10 (AP) — Southeastern Louisiana College and the Shell Oilers played to a 2-2 14-inning tie today with neithr team able to score after the fifth inning.

Right fielder Joe Segers' single in the fourth inning with the bases loaded drove in both Southeastern runs. Singles by Ted Ridgdell and Don Moffat and an error had filled the bases.

Fred Babineaux's single in the fifth accounted for both Shell runs. Runners were on second and third when Babineaux singled.

Each team got seven hits.

Southeastern used four pitchers and Shell three. Ronnie Harvey pitched the last five innings for Southeastern and gave up only one hit. Ted Andrus worked the last eight innings for Shell.

"Style begins at Fashion Park"

CRAZY MIXED UP SILKWORMS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE WORLD'S MOST UNIQUE FABRIC

The nub in the silk fabric in Fashion Park's suits are not misweaves but a characteristic of the fabric itself denoting pure Douppioni silk. This nubby silk is the result of two "mixed-up" silk worms spinning one cocoon. This prevents the delicate filaments of silk from being evenly reeled from the cocoons. Thus a nubby or knotted yarn is obtained, thicker than average . . . Douppioni (from the Italian word doppio meaning double). From this heavy slubbed silk with the soft sheen are tailored 100% pure silk suits. They drape and tailor as gently as the finest wool yet they are of whisker weight —oh so cool on the hottest summer days.

West Monroe Students Prepare Exhibits For Science Fair On Friday

The West Monroe High School science fair will be held Friday, beginning at 8:25 a.m., it was announced yesterday.

Scientific exhibits, all made by individual students, will remain open to visitors until 4:30 p.m. for the benefit of those who cannot attend the fair earlier.

Winners of the local fair will go to the regional science fair at Northeast State college to be held March 24. Regional winners will be in line for the state fair at New Orleans in May, and the national science fair to be held during the summer.

Each of the exhibits is created from ideas originating with the students who receive limited assistance and advice from their instructors.

Exhibits are classified by junior and senior divisions in three categories: physical science, biological science and social science.

So far, 25 entries have been made in the West Monroe fair. Science instructors pointed out however, that exhibits will be accepted until the "last minute."

Students who have entered their exhibits include:

Junior division—Mary Ellen Maza, filter bed Richard Johnson, reflectorscope; Patsy Flint, by-products of natural gas; Gregory Brown, barometer; Cecil Aswell, two-way telephone; Joe Ray Kelly, products of Louisiana; Louis Whitlock, radio; Jeff Walters, airplane and motor; Tommy Wilhite, crystal radio; Pat Johnson, water thermometer; Donald Ballard, sulphur and how it is mined; and Louis Naron, wood carving.

Senior division — Larry Green and Jery Doerner, crude oil from the ground to the product; Rosemary White, geology collection; Harry Byrd and Garland Webb, skeletons; James McMillan, five basic laws of electricity; Bobby Nordan, refrigeration; Carolyn Knight, indentification of fabrics; Mike Wallace, lie detector, magic light; Gene Brown, "At Home, 2006 A.D.;" Johnny Marzula, truck farming in Ouachita parish; Lynn Wilhite, balanced aquarium; Jaroy Weber, artificial lung; Robert Hattaway, drilling for oil; and Mary Nell Averett, adaptations of plants and animals, and heart attack (coronary thrombosis).

Students are not required to enter exhibits, but are encouraged to do so.

Winners from West Monroe High school in the 1955 science fair were Gene Brown, with his alcohol circulation in the body exhibit; and Pat Lynch, who exhibited an arc light micro projector.

Purposes of the annual science fair are:

To stimulate students to take a more active interest in the study of science.

To encourage students who show some interest in science.

To give students and teachers an opportunity to see what others are doing in science.

To encourage educators in their guidance of science students.

To provide a proper means of recognition of young scientists.

To arouse the interest of the public in the scientific ability of young people.

And to provide a scientific atmosphere whereby creative abilities and imaginations can be nurtured and explored.

Students who exhibit quality projects in their school and who have high scholastic records will be considered for scholarships to Northeast State college.

The West Monroe High school science faculty is composed of these instructors: Donald Logan, Harold Allbritton, Mrs. Lavone Oglesbee, Mrs. Lee Buatt, E. H. Williamson and Frank Fragala.

HEART DEPICTS IKE'S TROUBLES — This model heart will be used as part of a sophomore student's exhibit at the West Monroe High school's second annual science fair to be held Friday. The exhibit, created by Mary Nell Averett, will depict the heart troubles experienced by President Eisenhower.

Two Are Injured Slightly Here In 2 Auto Collision

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday in a two car collision at the intersection of North Fifth and Pine streets about 10:30 a.m.

The injured, identified by Monroe police, were: Maggie Johnson Smith, 33, 415 Pearl street, Rayville, suffering from a head and left leg injury and Floyd T. O'Neal 33, of 1624 South fifth street, Monroe. Police said O'Neal had a laceration on the forehead.

Both of the injured were taken to private physicians, according to police.

The Smith woman told officers she stopped at a stop sign on Pine street and did not see the other vehicle which was approaching south on North Fifth street.

The two collided as she pulled out into the path of O'Neal's vehicle. The Smith woman was charged with reckless driving, according to police.

Estimated damage to both cars was about $650.

Aged Monroe Woman Is Injured In Fall

A 95-year-old Monroe woman sufferen a severe laceration of the forehead as she slipped and fell to the floor of her son's home on Lee Avenue early last night.

The woman was identified as Mrs. B.F.C. Brooks. Her son is A. B. Brooks, 2504 Lee Avenue.

A lot of "spunk" was displayed by the elderly woman as nurses comforted her awaiting arrival of the doctor.

The laceration required about 10 stitches, it was reported.

Change Of Venue Motion Is Denied In Sheffield Case

WINNSBORO, March 10 (Special) —Judge J. Vernon Sims denied a motion for a change of venue for Joseph Sheffield at 3:55 p.m. Saturday after a two-day hearing in which 49 witnesses were questioned.

The defense called 18 witnesses and the state 31.

Judge Sims said that as two and one-half years had elapsed since the first trial and there were no demonstrations at that time and that feeling had subsided considerably as of this date, According to the evidence give at this hearing a fair and impartial jury could be secured in Franklin parish, he said. Also he said, Sheffield could receive a fair and impartial trial in Franklin parish for the slaying of deputy Sheriff John L. Waller, June 14, 1953.

The judge said, "The motion for change of venue is hereby overruled."

Court appointed attorneys for Sheffield immediately objected to the overruling of the motion for change of venue and reserved a bill of exception.

Trial for Sheffield was reset to start at 9:30 a.m. March 19 at Winnsboro.

At one time during the hearing today there were only six spectators. There were a few more at other times, but not many persons attended the hearing.

In an earlier trial, Sheffield was convicted and sentenced to die for the slaying of the deputy sheriff. However, this conviction and sentence were upset by the U.S. District Court.

Arabs, Israel

tian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, King Saud of Saudi Arabia and Syrian President Shukri El-Kuwatli had failed to woo Jordan away from Britain with promises of financial aid and military assistance.

The Arab chiefs of state sent Syrian premier Said El Ghazzi to Amman Friday to deliver the offers to young King Hussein. Hussein fired British Lt. Gen. Sir John Glubb as commander of the Arab Legion last week—a move interpreted by the Arabs as a "slap" at Britain.

But the Amman reports said Hussein rejected the offer and told El Ghazzi he would not fly to Cairo for a conference with the "big three," reported seeking to convoke a meeting of all the Arab states.

Cairo sources said the three Arab states offered to match Britain's annual subsidy of nearly $25 million to Jordan in addition to promising the military support to check any Israeli attack.

Rigid Supports

don't believe the House will give up."

Gore questioned Nixon's right to cast the tie-breaking vote last night after there made an error in tabulating the Friday result. The wrong count was 46-45 against rigid wheat supports, when the actual vote was 47-45.

On Thursday the Senate eliminated rigid supports for cotton, corn and peanuts from the omnibus bill by a 54-41 margin.

Still technically in the bill are a special two-price system for rice and a proposed boost in the support levels for milk and dairy products.

These and a score of other controversial items, including several special cotton and tobacco provisions will be fought out starting Monday.

Meeting Scheduled On Deepening Of Ouachita Channel

All persons along the Ouachita river who are interested in a nine-foot channel for the river are invited to attend an afternoon and night meeting, on Monday, March 26, in the Virginia Hotel Cameo Room, J. E. Wheeler, chairman of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce river and water committee, said Saturday.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m.

Wheeler said it will be a joint meeting with the Ouachita River Valley Association of Camden, Ark. of which H. K. Thatcher is executive vice president.

The meeting will be for the purpose of discussing ways and means of advancing the reasons for a deepened channel in the Ouachita, Wheeler said.

He added, that it is believed an increase in navigation will stimulate trade generally in all cities up and down the river and allow for less expensive transportation rates on many commodities.

He said that an effort is being made to have guest speakers from Washington who know river transportation at the meeting.

A survey of the Ouachita river to determine its traffic potentialities was recently made by the U. S. Engineers. Results of the survey are not available as yet, but there is good reason to believe they are favorable to a nine foot channel instead of only six feet as it is now, Wheeler said.

Long Sees Threat

doesn't continue to come in as it did under Gov. Robert Kennon, the state is taking a chance that more taxes will be needed."

The governor-elect said he was opposed to amendment No. 1 which will require action by two-thirds of the members of the House and Senate before a tax can be levied. Presently only a simple majority is needed to add existing taxes or create new ones.

"I don't plan on any new taxes or increasing any," Long said. "I just don't think that is a good law. It would tie the hand of any governor should a major pinch develop."

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said backers of No. 1 apparently wanted to make sure legislators gave a tax measure lots of consideration.

Long made no comment on the other three, saying they were local issues.

They are:

No. 2 which would exempt the International house in New Orleans from property taxation. The measure was designed to help non-profit organizations promote Louisiana trade, travel and commerce.

No. 3 which would permit Orleans Levee District to levy a five mill tax annually. It will authorize also a three-mill levy for constructing and maintaining levees and drainage.

No. 5, if approved, would authorize the City of Monroe to issue bonds and incur debt for public school purposes the same as other parish-wide school districts do at the present time.

The amendments, particularly the two dealing with the highway program and the tax one, will provide most of the excitement in the election where a smattering of races of parish offices and legislative seats have developed between Republicans and Democrats.

The race for lieutenant governor is the only state office being contested by the Republicans.

Republican Harry R. Hill of Metairie will contest the lieutenant governor's seat with Lether Frazar, Long's running mate.

Hill received 830 votes in the Jan. 17 primary compared with 337,679 for Frazar.

Republican strength is slowly growing in Orleans parish which will have four legislative seats contested, all presently in the Democratic fold.

In the second senatorial district, Sen. Charles E. Deichmann will be opposed by Republican Edward J. Sellen.

In the eighth, Sen. Robert Ainsworth is opposed by Thomas F. Jordan.

For Representative, Joseph R. Bossetta, Democrat, will run against William H. Grisold in ward 4; ward 13, Rep. Peter Murtes against Paul H. Ramos; and ward 14, Rep. George Tessier versus Carroll Montet.

In the 10th senatorial district, Sen. Alvin Stumpf of Gretna will run against Charles F. Fuller, Republican.

In Jefferson parish Rep. John R. Rau Jr. will meet Miss Bertha H. Morere, Republican.

Republicans have entered candidates in the race for police jurors in Iberia, Lafayette, Ouachita, Pointe Coupee, St. James and St. Tammany parishes.

terests of the city are eager to proceed, A. O. Evans, chairman and H. A. McDonald, co-chairman, announced that the following groups will solicit membership. The chairmen in each case only is named and will be as follows:

Kelly Thompson, J. W. Roberson, Dickie Touchstone, Charles P. Chisholm, H. B. Cannon and H. A. McDonald,

Memberships cost $25 for the year but in case of large business interests a number of memberships should be purchased for persons in the employ of such concerns.

We are mighty pleased to see that William G. (Billy) Haynes, Jr. is to become manager of the West Monroe branch of the Central Savings Bank and Trust com-,any, succeeding Carl K. White who has retired as has Mrs. W. D. Golson. Both have served for many years and have been highly efficient. Mrs. Golson has been assistant manager.

Mr. Haynes, native of West Monroe, has been connected with this fine bank since 1930, and is at this time one of the vice-presidents of this expanding banking company. He has shown much skill in handling his past duties and is regarded as excellent material for the management in West Monroe.

The official organ of the D.A.R. gives a news item that disturbs us for it concerns communistic propaganda entering New Orleans schools. It is as follows: "One million pieces of unlabled Communist propaganda has been entering New Orleans every month, filtered into schools, libraries and labor groups. A customs official testified in a recent hearing in Washington that not a piece was labelled as required by law.

"This is only one city in the nation. How many more cities are affected?"

We think this should be investigated at once.

Rev. H. L. Driskell, pastor of Oak Grove Baptist church, widely known theologian of this area, has been elected moderator of the Trenton Baptist Ass'n, replacing Rev. W. D. Baker, who is moving to Shreveport as a pastor there.

Reverend Driskell has degrees of A.B. and LLB from Mercer university and pursued studies at Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville. He served as army chaplain in the war and was organizer of the church that is today the First Baptist church in West Monroe. He is a fine deeply consecrated theologian and will make an excellent Moderator.

The Greek Orthodox church known as S. S. Constantine and Helene, 2005 Forsythe avenue, has a new pastor direct from New York. In that city he was pastor of the Annunciation Greek church, one of the largest there. He is the Rev. James N. Leon, a native of Greece where he was educated for the ministry.

He, his wife and small son Paul, are pleased with Monroe and are making many friends.

Kenneth F. Hewins, of the Journalism department at Louisiana Tech, recently found something of interest in an aged cemetery. He wrote it the other day as an "exclusive story" to the Shreveport Journal. Here is the inscription on a tombstone:

"James H. Mays, Born in Lincoln County, Ga. Nov. 17, 1821. Died in Ruston, La. Aug. 9, 1911. Born Spiritually Oct. 13, 1839, Under No Eyes Save the Lord's and My Horse's. Joined the Methodist Church Sept. 1, 1839, and Feel An Unworthy Member Since, but Hope to Join the Redeemed Above in the First Resurrection."

Northeast State Literary Magazine Is Established

Manuscripts are in order for Northeast State's literary magazine, Profile, which made its initial appearance last year on the campus, under sponsorship of the Writers Club.

Entries may include short stories, poems of any type, feature stories, character sketches, book reviews, themes, historical sketches, and other kinds of literary works, according to Sammy R. Danna, Profile's editor.

All manuscripts should be somewhat brief because of the limited space which the magazine offers, Danna explained. This situation rules out longer entries such as novel-type works and similar creative materials.

Any student who is regularly enrolled at Northeast is eligible to enter as many manuscripts as desired. He is requested to do so at an early date, however.

All manuscripts should be typed and double spaced. They may be left in the offices of Dr. Willa Claire Cox or Dr. Marvin McKneely in the library building or given to Danna.

The deadline for entries has not been announced, but faculty sponsors and officers of the Writers Club are urging students to submit manuscripts within the next three weeks.

Profile's current edition will be somewhat larger than the first issue which made its debut last spring. The magazine was considered a step in the expansion of Northeast publications.

College Invited To Form Chapter For ACE Group

Northeast State will form a chapter of the Association for Childhood Education in response to an invitation from the international organization.

The organizational meeting is scheduled Monday at 9:50 a.m. in the recreation lounge of the infirmary on the campus.

Purpose of the ACE unit is to provide opportunity for professional study of childhood education, Dean William M. Smith, head of Teacher Education at Northeast State, explained.

Sponsoring the chapter will be Dean Smith, Mrs. Evelyn Otts, director of teacher training; Dr. Gladys Jones, reading specialist of the Special Education Clinic; and Mrs. Ruby Crawford, assistant professor of education and adviser to elementary teachers.

Invitation to join the organization has been extended to several students who are considered outstanding elementary education majors.

Those who have been invited to charter membership include: Juniors— Pat Emanuel, Joyce Killen, Wilma Ann Adcock, Lynda Gaar, Dorothy Hudson, Louise McLawchlin, Patricia Ann Patterson, Connie Pickering, Emma Joe Watts, Mary Alice Kilpatrick, Jo Ann Miller.

Sophomores —Barbara Ann Bradley, Ann Douciere, Emma Jean Hall, Barbara Hale, Merilyn Magnon, Betty Reppond, Robbie Lee Littleton, Flora Lee Wilkins.

B'Nai B'Rith Raps Arab Diplomacy

WASHINGTON, March 10 —UP — The anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith said Saturday that Arab diplomats in this country are trying to stir up anti-semitism "to thwart American sympathy and aid for Israel."

The league also charged that religious bigotry had figured in administration of the federal loyalty program. It said specifically that Jewish employes were dismissed from the Army Signal Corps center at Fort Monmouth, N. J., simply because of their faith.

B'nai B'rith is a Jewish service organization.

Services Scheduled For James Rodgers

SICILY ISLAND, March 10 (Special)—Funeral services for James E. Rodgers, 81, of Sicily Island, who died Friday enroute to a Winsner Hospital, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Leeland Pentecostal Church.

Rev. Jack Jones will officiate assisted by Rev. Polk. Interment will follow in the Pine Hill Cemetery under the direction of First National Funeral Home of Winnsboro.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Ella B. West Monroe Students Prepare Exhibits For Science Fair On Friday

The West Monroe High School science fair will be held Friday, beginning at 8:25 a.m., it was announced yesterday.

Scientific exhibits, all made by individual students, will remain open to visitors until 4:30 p.m. for the benefit of those who cannot attend the fair earlier.

Winners of the local fair will go to the regional science fair at Northeast State college to be held March 24. Regional winners will be in line for the state fair at New Orleans in May, and the national science fair to be held during the summer.

Each of the exhibits is created from ideas originating with the students who receive limited assistance and advice from their instructors.

Exhibits are classified by junior and senior divisions in three categories: physical science, biological science and social science.

So far, 25 entries have been made in the West Monroe fair. Science instructors pointed out however, that exhibits will be accepted until the "last minute."

Students who have entered their exhibits include:

Junior division—Mary Ellen Maza, filter bed Richard Johnson, reflectorscope; Patsy Flint, by-products of natural gas; Gregory Brown, barometer; Cecil Aswell, two-way telephone; Joe Ray Kelly, products of Louisiana; Louis Whitlock, radio; Jeff Walters, airplane and motor; Tommy Wilhite, crystal radio; Pat Johnson, water thermometer; Donald Ballard, sulphur and how it is mined; and Louis Naron, wood carving.

Senior division — Larry Green and Jery Doerner, crude oil from the ground to the product; Rosemary White, geology collection; Harry Byrd and Garland Webb, skeletons; James McMillan, five basic laws of electricity; Bobby Nordan, refrigeration; Carolyn Knight, indentification of fabrics; Mike Wallace, lie detector, magic light; Gene Brown, "At Home, 2006 A.D.;" Johnny Marzula, truck farming in Ouachita parish; Lynn Wilhite, balanced aquarium; Jaroy Weber, artificial lung; Robert Hattaway, drilling for oil; and Mary Nell Averett, adaptations of plants and animals, and heart attack (coronary thrombosis).

Students are not required to enter exhibits, but are encouraged to do so.

Winners from West Monroe High school in the 1955 science fair were Gene Brown, with his alcohol circulation in the body exhibit; and Pat Lynch, who exhibited an arc light micro projector.

Purposes of the annual science fair are:

To stimulate students to take a more active interest in the study of science.

To encourage students who show some interest in science.

To give students and teachers an opportunity to see what others are doing in science.

To encourage educators in their guidance of science students.

To provide a proper means of recognition of young scientists.

To arouse the interest of the public in the scientific ability of young people.

And to provide a scientific atmosphere whereby creative abilities and imaginations can be nurtured and explored.

Students who exhibit quality projects in their school and who have high scholastic records will be considered for scholarships to Northeast State college.

The West Monroe High school science faculty is composed of these instructors: Donald Logan, Harold Allbritton, Mrs. Lavone Oglesbee, Mrs. Lee Buatt, E. H. Williamson and Frank Fragala.

HEART DEPICTS IKE'S TROUBLES — This model heart will be used as part of a sophomore student's exhibit at the West Monroe High school's second annual science fair to be held Friday. The exhibit, created by Mary Nell Averett, will depict the heart troubles experienced by President Eisenhower.

Two Are Injured Slightly Here In 2 Auto Collision

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday in a two car collision at the intersection of North Fifth and Pine streets about 10:30 a.m.

The injured, identified by Monroe police, were: Maggie Johnson Smith, 33, 415 Pearl street, Rayville, suffering from a head and left leg injury and Floyd T. O'Neal 33, of 1624 South fifth street, Monroe. Police said O'Neal had a laceration on the forehead.

Both of the injured were taken to private physicians, according to police.

The Smith woman told officers she stopped at a stop sign on Pine street and did not see the other vehicle which was approaching south on North Fifth street.

The two collided as she pulled out into the path of O'Neal's vehicle. The Smith woman was charged with reckless driving, according to police.

Estimated damage to both cars was about $650.

Aged Monroe Woman Is Injured In Fall

A 95-year-old Monroe woman suffered a severe laceration of the forehead as she slipped and fell to the floor of her son's home on Lee Avenue early last night.

The woman was identified as Mrs. B.F.C. Brooks. Her son is A. B. Brooks, 2604 Lee Avenue.

A lot of "spunk" was displayed by the elderly woman as nurses comforted her awaiting arrival of the doctor.

The laceration required about 10 stitches, it was reported.

Change Of Venue Motion Is Denied In Sheffield Case

WINNSBORO, March 10 (Special) —Judge J. Vernon Sims denied a motion for a change of venue for Joseph Sheffield at 3:55 p.m. Saturday after a two-day hearing in which 49 witnesses were questioned.

The defense called 18 witnesses and the state 31.

Judge Sims said that as two and one-half years had elapsed since the first trial and there were no demonstrations at that time and that feeling had subsided considerably as of this date, According to the evidence give at this hearing a fair and impartial jury could be secured in Franklin parish, he said. Also he said, Sheffield could receive a fair and impartial trial in Franklin parish for the slaying of deputy Sheriff John L. Waller, June 14, 1953.

The judge said, "The motion for change of venue is hereby overruled."

Court appointed attorneys for Sheffield immediately objected to the overruling of the motion for change of venue and reserved a bill of exception.

Trial for Sheffield was reset to start at 9:30 a.m. March 19 at Winnsboro.

At one time during the hearing today there were only six spectators. There were a few more at other times, but not many persons attended the hearing.

In an earlier trial, Sheffield was convicted and sentenced to die for the slaying of the deputy sheriff. However, this conviction and sentence were upset by the U.S. District Court.

Arabs, Israel

tian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, King Saud of Saudi Arabia and Syrian President Shukri El-Kuwatli had failed to woo Jordan away from Britain with promises of financial aid and military assistance.

The Arab chiefs of state sent Syrian premier Said El Ghazzi to Amman Friday to deliver the offers to young King Hussein. Hussein fired British Lt. Gen. Sir John Glubb as commander of the Arab Legion last week—a move interpreted by the Arabs as a "slap" at Britain.

But the Amman reports said Hussein rejected the offer and told El Ghazzi he would not fly to Cairo for a conference with the "big three," reported seeking to convoke a meeting of all the Arab states.

Cairo sources said the three Arab states offered to match Britain's annual subsidy of nearly $25 million to Jordan in addition to promising the military support to check any Israeli attack.

Rigid Supports

don't believe the House will give up."

Gore questioned Nixon's right to cast the tie-breaking vote last night after clerks made an error in tabulating the Friday result. The wrong count was 46-45 against rigid wheat supports, when the actual vote was 45-45.

On Thursday the Senate eliminated rigid supports for cotton, corn and peanuts from the omnibus bill by a 54-41 margin.

Still technically in the bill are a special two-price system for rice and a proposed boost in the support levels for milk and dairy products.

These and a score of other controversial items, including several special cotton and tobacco provisions, will be fought out starting Monday.

Meeting Scheduled On Deepening Of Ouachita Channel

All persons along the Ouachita river who are interested in a nine-foot channel for the river are invited to attend an afternoon and night meeting, on Monday, March 26, in the Virginia Hotel Cameo Room, J. E. Wheeler, chairman of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce river and water committee, said Saturday.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. Wheeler said it will be a joint meeting with the Ouachita River Valley Association of Camden, Ark. of which H. K. Thatcher is executive vice president.

The meeting will be for the purpose of discussing ways and means of advancing the reasons for a deepened channel in the Ouachita, Wheeler said.

He added, that it is believed an increase in navigation will stimulate trade generally in all cities up and down the river and allow for less expensive transportation rates on many commodities.

He said that an effort is being made to have guest speakers from Washington who know river transportation at the meeting.

A survey of the Ouachita river to determine its traffic potentialities was recently made by the U. S. Engineers. Results of the survey are not available as yet, but there is good reason to believe they are favorable to a nine foot channel instead of only six feet as it is now, Wheeler said.

Long Sees Threat

doesn't continue to come in as it did under Gov. Robert Kennon, the state is taking a chance that more taxes will be needed."

The governor-elect said he was opposed to amendment No. 1 which will require action by two-thirds of the members of the House and Senate before a tax can be levied. Presently only a simple majority is needed to add existing taxes or create new ones.

"I don't plan on any new taxes or increasing any," Long said. "I just don't think that is a good law. It would tie the hand of any governor should a major pinch develop."

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said backers of No. 1 apparently wanted to make sure legislators gave a tax measure lots of consideration.

Long made no comment on the other three, saying they were local issues.

They are:

No. 2 which would exempt the International house in New Orleans from property taxation. The measure was designed to help nonprofit organizations promote Louisiana trade, travel and commerce.

No. 3 which would permit Orleans Levee District to levy a five mill tax annually. It will authorize also a three-mill levy for constructing and maintaining levees and drainage.

No. 5, if approved, would authorize the City of Monroe to issue bonds and incur debt for public school purposes the same as other parish-wide school districts do at the present time.

The amendments, particularly the two dealing with the highway program and the tax one, will provide most of the excitement in the election where a smattering of races of parish offices and legislative seats have developed between Republicans and Democrats.

The race for lieutenant governor is the only state office being contested by the Republicans.

Republican Harry R. Hill of Metairie will contest the lieutenant governor's seat with Lether Frazar, Long's running mate.

Hill received 830 votes in the Jan. 17 primary compared with 337,679 for Frazar.

Republican strength is slowly growing in Orleans parish which will have four legislative seats contested, all presently in the Democratic fold.

In the second senatorial district, Sen. Charles E. Deichmann will be opposed by Republican Edward J. Sellen.

In the eighth, Sen. Robert Ainsworth is opposed by Thomas F. Jordan.

For Representative, Joseph R. Bossetta, Democrat, will run against William H. Grisold in ward 4; ward 13, Rep. Peter Murtes against Paul H. Ramos; and ward 14, Rep. George Tessier versus Carroll Montet.

In the 10th senatorial district, Sen. Alvin Stumpf of Gretna will run against Charles F. Fuller, Republican.

In Jefferson parish Rep. John R. Rau Jr. will meet Miss Bertha H. Morere, Republican.

Republicans have entered candidates in the race for police jurors in Iberia, Lafayette, Ouachita, Pointe Coupee, St. James and St. Tammany parishes.

terests of the city are eager to proceed, A. O. Evans, chairman and H. A. McDonald, co-chairman, announced that the following groups will solicit membership. The chairmen in each case only is named and will be as follows:

Kelly Thompson, J. W. Roberson, Dickie Touchstone, Charles P. Chisholm, H. B. Cannon and H. A. McDonald,

Memberships cost $25 for the year but in case of large business interests a number of memberships should be purchased for persons in the employ of such concerns.

We are mighty pleased to see that William G. (Billy) Haynes, Jr. is to become manager of the West Monroe branch of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company, succeeding Carl K. White who has retired as has Mrs. W. D. Golson. Both have served for many years and have been highly efficient. Mrs. Golson has been assistant manager.

Mr. Haynes, native of West Monroe, has been connected with this fine bank since 1930, and is at this time one of the vice-presidents of this expanding banking company. He has shown much skill in handling his past duties and is regarded as excellent material for the management in West Monroe.

The official organ of the D.A.R. gives a news item that disturbs us for it concerns communistic propaganda entering New Orleans schools. It is as follows: "One million pieces of unlabled Communist propaganda has been entering New Orleans every month, filtered into schools, libraries and labor groups. A customs official testified in a recent hearing in Washington that not a piece was labelled as required by law.

"This is only one city in the nation. How many more cities are affected?"

We think this should be investigated at once.

Rev. H. L. Driskell, pastor of Oak Grove Baptist church, widely known theologian of this area, has been elected moderator of the Trenton Baptist Ass'n, replacing Rev. W. D. Baker, who is moving to Shreveport as a pastor there.

Reverend Driskell has degrees of A.B. and LLB from Mercer university and pursued studies at Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville. He served as army chaplain in the war and was organizer of the church that is today the First Baptist church in West Monroe. He is a fine deeply consecrated theologian and will make an excellent Moderator.

The Greek Orthodox church known as S. S. Constantine and Helene, 2005 Forsythe avenue, has a new pastor direct from New York. In that city he was pastor of the Annunciation Greek church, one of the largest there. He is the Rev. James N. Leon, a native of Greece where he was educated for the ministry.

He, his wife and small son Paul, are pleased with Monroe and are making many friends.

Kenneth F. Hewins, of the Journalism department at Louisiana Tech, recently found something of interest in an aged cemetery. He wrote it the other day as an "exclusive story" to the Shreveport Journal. Here is the inscription on a tombstone:

"James H. Mays, Born in Lincoln County, Ga. Nov. 17, 1821. Died in Ruston, La. Aug. 9, 1911. Born Spiritually Oct. 13, 1839, Under No Eyes Save the Lord's and My Horse's. Joined the Methodist Church Sept. 1, 1839, and Feel An Unworthy Member Since, but Hope to Join the Redeemed Above in the First Resurrection."

Northeast State Literary Magazine Is Established

Manuscripts are in order for Northeast State's literary magazine, Profile, which made its initial appearance last year on the campus, under sponsorship of the Writers Club.

Entries may include short stories, poems of any type, feature stories, character sketches, book reviews, themes, historical sketches, and other kinds of literary works, according to Sammy R. Danna, Profile's editor.

All manuscripts should be somewhat brief because of the limited space which the magazine offers, Danna explained. This situation rules out longer entries such as novel-type works and similar creative materials.

Any student who is regularly enrolled at Northeast is eligible to enter as many manuscripts as desired. He is requested to do so at an early date, however.

All manuscripts should be typed and double spaced. They may be left in the offices of Dr. Willa Claire Cox or Dr. Marvin McKneely in the library building or given to Danna.

The deadline for entries has not been announced, but faculty sponsors and officers of the Writers Club are urging students to submit manuscripts within the next three weeks.

Profile's current edition will be somewhat larger than the first issue which made its debut last spring. The magazine was considered a step in the expansion of Northeast publications.

Freshmen — Marie Caldwell, Gloria Ford, Johnnie Mae Herrington, Pauline Townsend, Shirley Tackett, Peggy Sue Brown, Elaine Margaret Hesketh, Lillian Garrett, Imogene Bryan.

B'Nai B'Rith Raps Arab Diplomacy

WASHINGTON, March 10 —UP — The anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith said Saturday that Arab diplomats in this country are trying to stir up anti-semitism "to thwart American sympathy and aid for Israel."

The league also charged that religious bigotry had figured in administration of the federal loyalty program. It said specifically that Jewish employes were dismissed from the Army Signal Corps center at Fort Monmouth, N. J., simply because of their faith.

B'nai B'rith is a Jewish service organization.

My company uses CONTINUOUS Auto Policies to reduce your cost of insurance . . .

IT'S COSTLY TO REISSUE MILLIONS OF POLICIES EVERY YEAR

State Farm issues just one policy as long as you keep the same car, for a very good reason: To cut handling costs to a bare minimum. Hundreds of thousands of dollars saved in this manner are passed on to State Farm policyholders yearly.

Squire Shop To Be Opened Monday At 119 DeSiard

The Squire Shop, a complete store for men, will formally open for business at 119 DeSiard at 10 a.m. Monday, March 12th.

C. E. Slade of Monroe is president of the new organization. Morris Haas, Jr., is vice-president, treasurer and general manager. Burt W. Sperry is secretary.

The store has been completely redecorated and modernized.

A number of valuable prizes will be given away during the opening week.

Morris Haas, Jr., is well known in the Monroe area having had 10 years of retail experience here. He was employed by one of the largest clothing manufacturers in the country for four years. During World War II, he served five years in the naval air force. He worked on the sales floor of men's clothing for Marshall Field and also for M. L. Rothchild in Chicago.

Mr. Haas said, "We are going to feature quality plus style and will have one of the most fully stocked men's shoe departments in north Louisiana."

The new company will feature nationally advertised merchandise exclusively.

Abe Dreyer will be in charge of the clothing department. Mr. Dreyer has had 30 years of experience in retail stores in Monroe.

Mrs. Ted Van Landingham, with several years' experience to her credit, will have charge of furnishings and alterations.

Charles Hayden will be in charge of maintenance.

Accords Sought On Termination Of Dock Contracts

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) — Longshore labor and management representatives will be asked to sign Monday a binding agreement to establish a common termination date for labor contracts.

A House Merchant Marine Committee source said it may not be possible to get agreement on the tentatively set August 1, 1956 date, but that every effort will be made to get final acceptance of a common date for 1957.

Chairman Bonner (D-NC) called Monday's meeting, intended to bring about a common etrminal date on both coasts.

The committee office said those scheduled to attend (10 a.m. EST) are Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union; Patrick Connolly and Thomas Gleason, representing the International Longshoremen's Association, and Alexander Chopin, representing the New York Shipping Association.

Committee members were said to feel that if these four leaders agree on the program, it can be extended to the remaining ports, especially those on the lower Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico, without too much difficulty.

HORSE CRAZY

OMAHA, Neb. — UP — Irwin Chapman, 27, told police he answered his doorbell, and a man with a gun pushed inside the apartment. "I want that," the man said, pointing at a home-made rocking horse. He put it under his arm and walked out, Chapman said.

Cotton Futures Keep Prices In Narrow Range

NEW YORK, March 10 (AP)—Cotton futures prices held to a narrow range this week and closed mixed. Most of the list finished in the plus column.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed out the week at prices which ranged from $3.75 a bale lower to 65 cents higher than at the end of the week before. Only the nearby July contract finished in lower ground.

The $3.75 decline for nearby July was attributed chiefly to diminishing prospects of a tight supply situation. With repossessions from the loan continuing at a rapid rate, it now appears free cotton will be in ample supply when the season ends July 31.

Gains for the later months were held in check by a bearish interpretation of the government's new export program and by uncertainty as to pending farm legislation. The Senate's rejection of a return to rigid farm price supports had little effect marketwise, however, as this action had long been expected.

Of considerable interest to traders was the government's latest report on loan entries and repossession. Repossession for the week ended March 2 totaled 111,000 bales. Entries, after allowance for rejections, came to only 4,000 bales. The net result was an increase of 64,000 bales in the free supply of the state.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 36,000 bales, compared with 12,000 bales the previous week and 69,000 in the like week of 1955. This brought the season's total through Tuesday to 1,004,000 bales, vs. 2,343,000 bales at the same time last year.

Bodies Of Two Negroes Found; 'Killing, Suicide'

STARKVILLE, Miss., March 10 (AP)—The bodies of a Negro man and woman were found 200 yards apart today and a coroner's inquest ruled it murder and suicide.

Sheriff Walter W. Scales identified the dead as Ann V. Mobley and Percy Rives Jr.

The woman's body was found in the house where the couple lived about five miles south of Starkville. She had been shot in the head, Scales said.

Rives' body was found about 200 yards from the house. The officer said Rives apparently had placed a shotgun under his chin and fired.

Scales said a neighbor called him after one of the couple's children told of the shooting.

The sheriff said he knew of no motive.

New York Leads With Population Of Veterans

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) — New York continues to lead all states with 2,230,000 war veterans as of last Dec. 31.

Veterans administration figures showed today the New York roster was more than 10 per cent of the total of 22,131,000 American veterans.

California ranked second with 1,839,000. Pennsylvania was third with 1,626,000.

Nevada had the fewest veterans, only 28,000.

The veteran population at the end of 1955 for the other states included:

Alabama 363,000, Arkansas 218,000, Louisiana 331,000; Mississippi 226,000, Tennessee 427,000 and Texas 1,119,000.

LIZ GOES YACHTING

AJACCIO, Corsica, March 10 — UP — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh steamed off on a weeklong cruise of the Mediterranean Saturday aboard the royal yacht "Brittania." The Duke arrived at this French possession aboard the yacht Saturday morning. The queen and Princess Alexandra of Kent flew to Ajaccio from London aboard a Viking transport.

Opera Club Meets With Mrs. Hodges

The regular meeting of The Opera Club was held at the home of Mrs. Lee Hodges with Mrs. W. A. Cotton co-hostess.

Spring flowers were placed at vantage points in the reception rooms.

Presiding at the coffee table which had as a centerpiece an arrangement of mixed pastel colored spring blossoms was Mrs. R. W. Cretney.

Mrs. R. O. Ware opened the meeting with the reading of the club collect by the members.

After a short business session the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. C. W. Caraway and the following program presented.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon gave a talk on "American Light Opera and Operettas."

She explained that much criticism about American music has now become rare and that public interest in our native music has grown by leaps and bounds. People who never before gave it a thought are beginning to wonder what American music really is.

Square dance tunes, folk songs, Hollywood tunes, theatre ballads, musical comedy, symphonic works, opera works are all a part of our exacting past and the present coming age in the musical world, she pointed out.

For a long time we borrowed our standards of art - music wholesale from Europe but today we are discovering our roots in the present and past and we turn eagerly toward the future of our own American music, she said.

Miss Jane Blanchard accompanied by Mr. Bob Oldenburg, sang "Kiss Me Again" from Mlle. Modiste by Victor Herbert; "Sweethearts" from Maytime by Sigmund Romberg; "Auf Weidersehn" from Blue Paradise by Sigmund Romberg.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon accompanied by Mrs. P. A. Poag sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" from Carousel by Rodgers and Hammerstein

Mrs. Paul Newman accompanied by Mrs. P. A. Poag sang "Song of Love" from Blossom Time by Sigmund Romberg.

Piano selections from American Light Music by Mrs. P. A. Poag.

Members present were Mrs. C. W. Caraway, Mrs. P. A. Poag. Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. Merl Padgett, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan M. Smith, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. E. C. Gibson. Guests were Miss Jane Blanchard and Mr. Bob Oldenburg.

Miss Sara Ritter Becomes Bride Of Neil Traylor

Miss Sara Clare Ritter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Ritter, became the bride, last Sunday at 2:30 in the afternoon of Neil Brown Traylor, of Baton Rouge. Mr. Traylor is the son of Mrs. Neil B. Traylor of Lake Charles.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Ben Oliphint, in the home of the bride's parents on College avenue, before members of the two families and a few close friends of the young couple. Mrs. Florence Albritton and E. M. Wooten furnished the nuptial music.

Decorating the room, where the ceremony was performed, were fan shaped arrangements of pale pink gladioli.

Miss Ritter, given in marriage by her father, wore a two piece suit of beige lace with biege fox trim. Her small hat was of the same shade in satin and she carried an orchid with lace background.

The only attendant to the bride, was her sister, Mrs. John E. Reardon, of Birmingham, Ala. Her two piece suit was of navy blue and her accessories were biege. She wore a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

William B. Traylor, of Houston, Texas, was his brother's best man.

A reception was held in the family room of the home, immediately following the cremony. Yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums were used about the room. The bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake surrounded by yellow roses and acacia in Venetian glass vases. The punch bowl, on a smaller table, was surrounded by bridal wreath and camellias.

Later in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Traylor left for their home in Baton Rouge, where they will reside at 3328 Carlotta St. She traveled in a suit of charcoal gray with harmonizing accessories.

The bride is a graduate of St. Matthews Parochial school and Louisiana State University, where she was a member of Theta Alpha Phi, social sorority.

Mr. Traylor attended L. S. U. and his fraternity was Kappa Sigma.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Neil Traylor of Lake Charles, mother of the bridegroom Mr. and Mrs. William B. Traylor of Houston, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ritter, Houston, Texas, Mrs. John E. Reardon, Birmingham, Ala., A. J. Ritter, Jr., brothers and sister of the bride, and her uncle, Ray Forster of Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Sara Ritter Becomes Bride Of Neil Traylor

Miss Sara Clare Ritter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Ritter, became the bride, last Sunday at 2:30 in the afternoon of Neil Brown Traylor, of Baton Rouge. Mr. Traylor is the son of Mrs. Neil B. Traylor of Lake Charles.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Ben Oliphint, in the home of the bride's parents on College avenue, before members of the two families and a few close friends of the young couple. Mrs. Florence Albritton and E. M. Wooten furnished the nuptial music.

Decorating the room, where the ceremony was performed, were fan shaped arrangements of pale pink gladioli.

Miss Ritter, given in marriage by her father, wore a two piece suit of beige lace with biege fox trim. Her small hat was of the same shade in satin and she carried an orchid with lace background.

The only attendant to the bride, was her sister, Mrs. John E. Reardon, of Birmingham, Ala. Her two piece suit was of navy blue and her accessories were biege. She wore a corsage of cymbidiura orchids.

William B. Traylor, of Houston, Texas, was his brother's best man.

A reception was held in the family room of the home, immediately following the cremony. Yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums were used about the room. The bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake surrounded by yellow roses and acacia in Venetian glass vases. The punch bowl, on a smaller table, was surrounded by bridal wreath and camellias.

Later in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Traylor left for their home in Baton Rouge, where they will reside at 3328 Carlotta St. She traveled in a suit of charcoal gray with harmonizing accessories.

The bride is a graduate of St. Matthews Parochial school and Louisiana State University, where she was a member of Theta Alpha Phi, social sorority.

Mr. Traylor attended L. S. U. and his fraternity was Kappa Sigma.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Neil Traylor of Lake Charles, mother of the bridegroom Mr. and Mrs. William B. Traylor of Houston, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ritter, Houston, Texas, Mrs. John E. Reardon, Birmingham, Ala., A. J. Ritter, Jr., brothers and sister of the bride, and her uncle, Ray Forster of Memphis, Tenn.

Opera Club Meets With Mrs. Hodges

The regular meeting of The Opera Club was held at the home of Mrs. Lee Hodges with Mrs. W. A. Cotton co-hostess.

Spring flowers were placed at vantage points in the reception rooms.

Presiding at the coffee table which had as a centerpiece an arrangement of mixed pastel colored spring blossoms was Mrs. R. W. Cretney.

Mrs. R. O. Ware opened the meeting with the reading of the club collect by the members.

After a short business session the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. C. W. Caraway and the following program presented.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon gave a talk on "American Light Opera and Operettas."

She explained that much criticism about American music has now become rare and that public interest in our native music has grown by leaps and bounds. People who never before gave it a thought are beginning to wonder what American music really is.

Square dance tunes, folk songs, Hollywood tunes, theatre ballads, musical comedy, symphonic works, opera works are all a part of our exacting past and the present coming age in the musical world, she pointed out.

For a long time we borrowed our standards of art - music wholesale from Europe but today we are discovering our roots in the present and past and we turn eagerly toward the future of our own American music, she said.

Miss Jane Blanchard accompanied by Mr. Bob Oldenburg, sang "Kiss Me Again" from Mlle. Modiste by Victor Herbert; "Sweethearts" from Maytime by Sigmund Romberg; "Auf Weidersehn" from Blue Paradise by Sigmund Romberg.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon accompanied by Mrs. P. A. Poag sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" from Carousel by Rodgers and Hammerstein

Mrs. Paul Newman accompanied by Mrs. P. A. Poag sang "Song of Love" from Blossom Time by Sigmund Romberg.

Piano selections from American Light Music by Mrs. P. A. Poag.

Members present were Mrs. C. W. Caraway, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. Merl Padgett, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan M. Smith, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. E. C. Gibson. Guests were Miss Jane Blanchard and Mr. Bob Oldenburg.

White-Brantley Nuptials Said In Litroe Church

Miss Dora Ann Brantley, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Joe Lee Brantley, was wed to Rene A. White of Sterlington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Carter White on Friday evening at 6:00 o'clock at the Litroe Baptist Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father who also performed the ceremony with the assistance of Rev. Julius Bradshaw.

Simplicity was noted in her waltz length gown of white faille fashioned along princess lines. The wide v-shaped neckline of the bodice and brief sleeves that capped her shoulders, were embroidered with seed pearls. A cap of matching pleated faille also embroidered with seed pearls held the filmy nylon tulle veil. She carried a white Bible topped by a corsage of pink camellias and pink satin streamers with camellia buds.

Mrs. Thomas D. Guthrie, Jr., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. J. M. Roberson, sister of the bride, and Miss Laetta Nell White, sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned in identical waltz length dresses of faille in cherry pink. The matron of honor wore a deeper shade of rose. Their matching hats were fashioned similar to the brides and they carried painted magnolia leaf clusters in cherry pink outlined by green magnolia leaf cluster.

Miss Johnnie Jo Hollis of New Orleans, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Her dress was designed of pale yellow nylon embellished with ruffles, and she carried a smaller magnolia leaf cluster.

Thomas D. Guthrie, Jr., served as best man.

James Edward Wells and Robert Aswell lighted the candles and also served as the ushers.

Nuptial music was presented by W. A. Bradshaw, pianist, who accompained Bobby Hodney, soloist. Mr. Hodnett sang "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with vine greenery and magnolia leaves. Clusters of painted magnolia leaves in cherry pink and white, were placed at vantage points in the green foliage. Multiple white tapers in seven-branched candelabra illuminated the altar.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brantley selected a navy blue suit. She also wore a white hat trimmed with pink roses, white gloves and a double red camellia corsage. Mrs. White, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a black faille dress complemented by a matching tweed jacket. Her accessories were, a black hat trimmed with pearl clamps and white gloves. She wore a single ruffled red and white camellia corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor.

Guest were welcomed by the bride and bridegroom, their parents and the bride's attendants.

The bridal table was overlaid with an imported cloth centered with an arrangement of white tapers and magnolia leaves. The wedding cake, a beautiful frothy white four tiered confection, iced with pink roses and tiny pink rosebuds, was topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom.

The cake, encircled with pleated white lace paper doilies occupied one end of the table and was served by Mrs. Hilton Heard of Monroe. Miss Gail Brasher, of Marion, served punch from a crystal punch bowl.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. White left on their wedding trip to Texarkana, Texas.

They will be at home in Sterlington.

Out of town guest for the wedding included: Mrs. Mae Modes and Mrs. Pearl Pratt of Monroe, Mrs. Clara Powell and Miss Joyce Sullivan of New Orleans.

Natchez Homes Opened To Visitors Now

NATCHEZ, Miss. — Thirty houses, each an architectural gem in its own right and each a perfect example of the Old South, will go on display during the Natchez Pilgrimage, which this year will be held March 2 through March 31.

The thirty mansions, considered the finest and best examples of the antebellum South, are opened to visitors once each year during the Pilgrimage. Many of them have been beautifully and completely restored. Many have been the scene of some of the most stirring events in American history. One and all, they are interesting and beautiful.

The month-long Natchez Pilgrimage gives to all America an opportunity to inspect first hand the houses that have made Natchez unique among Southern cities. Ten houses are visited daily with the entire Pilgrimage requiring a full three days to complete. During the years since the Pilgrimage was begun, literally thousands of visitors have poured into Natchez. And not one has been disappointed over what there is to see.

In Natchez visitors can see the spot where Aaron Burr reportedly planned for his conquest of America. They can see where Varina Howell was married to Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy. They can view the finest examples of colonial architecture existing in America today. And they can meet and chat with the families living in the houses, many of whom are descendants of the builders.

The Natchez Pilgrimage has always been unique in its scope and charm. On Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings the visitor finds in addition to the tours a Confederate Pageant, depicting Natchez in the days of long ago. And he finds opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of the Deep South.

The two Garden Clubs of Natchez sponsor the Pilgrimage, the Pilgrimage Garden Club and the Natchez Garden Club. But the entire city joins in making it a success. More detailed information may be obtained by writing The Natchez Pilgrimage, Natchez, Mississippi.

MRS. ELLIS BRATTON

Home Ceremony Unites Couple

The home of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Jones was the setting for the wedding of Miss Betty Jo Pace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Pace of Grayson, and Ellis Bratton of the U. S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bratton of Monroe.

The ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Spring flowers were used through out the home.

The Rev. Jones performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of close friends and relatives.

The bride was wearing a light blue spring suit with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She carried a white Bible.

They will make their home in San Marcos, Tex., where Mr. Bratton is stationed with the Army.

Watch those snap beans as they cook! They should be just tender, with a trace of crispness.

MISS KATHY INGRAM'S betrothal to Harvey Guillot, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Guillot, of Winnsboro, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ingram of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of April 5 at the bride's home.

News From The Public Library

This is a season of great reading and the Ouachita Parish Public Library has been very busy. We are always happy that people are using the resources of the library and are especially glad that we have new books for them to read. The additions this week are especially interesting.

Robert Tallant, who is one of our most popular Louisiana authors has a new novel called "The Voodoo Queen." This is an exciting novel based on the career of Marie Laveau, described as the last great American witch and the greatest of the voodoo queens of New Orleans. Even today some people in New Orleans think of her as the epitome of evil, while others remember her as a kind and charitable woman. Read this book and make your own decision. "The Horse Soldiers" by Harold Sinclair is a novel of the Civil War. This is the story of a group of Union men and the raid they made behind the southern lines at Vicksburg to destroy the Southern railroad. This is a daring story of a group of brave and resourceful men in the armies on both sides.

"At the Edge of the Shadow" by Elizabeth Bacon Rodewald is a story about a woman who realized that she had drifted into a dangerous situation and of the steps she took to extricate herself. It is a book which will appeal to many readers for many reasons and will be widely read and discussed.

In the field of non-fiction there are several interesting new titles. "The Boy in the Model T" by Stephen Longstreet is the true story of a trip which he, his mother and grandfather took across the United States in 1919 in a Model T. Ford. It is very well done and for those old enough to remember the period, fraught with a heart-warming nostalgia. "The Autobiography of Peter Cartwright" is a book which gives a fascinating picture of our country in the years between 1803 and 1853. It is the diary of one of the most famous early Methodist preachers and anyone interested in religious history or American history will enjoy reading it.

Men will enjoy a book called "Elephants and Ivory" by John Alfred Jordan which is composed of true tales of hunting and adventure. This is an account of a white hunter in Africa and makes exciting reading.

This week seems to be especially prolific in Civil War novels. Another one is called "Jubilee" and was written by John Brick. This is the story of Sherman's army, the sacking of Atlanta and the march to the sea. If you want a new mystery story try "Whose Body" by Dorothy L. Sayers.

There are books to appeal to every taste at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. If you have not explored our resources, we invite you to do so at your first opportunity.

Mrs. T. J. Sandridge Hosts Meeting Of Literary Guild

Mrs. T. J. Sandridge was hostess to the Literary Guild at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club on Wednesday.

The meeting was held in the private dining room which was decorated with camellias and other spring flowers.

Mrs. E. D. Holloway, vice-president presided over the meeting with thirteen members present.

The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. P. L. Perot and Mrs. DeWitt Milam, substituting for Mrs. N. G. Gaston.

Mrs. Perot reviewed the play "Bad Seed" by Maxwell Anderson. This play is a perceptive drama that is equally interested in the frightful tragedy of a mother who takes the responsibility of her daughter's guilt, continues to love her daughter and tries desperately and selflessly to administer justice to everyone. It is a sock melodrama and an absorbing study in crime written with reserve and skill, explained Mrs. Perot.

Mrs. Milam read the review of "Tender Trap" by Max Shulman and Robert Paul Smith. The review was prepared by Mrs. Gaston. This play which has been made into a movie is a spicy and clean comedy. It is a combination of farce and sex, portraying the life of an attractive young bachelor of New York, she said.

After the program a dessert course was served to the following members: Mrs. Herbert Breard, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. J. G. Durrett, Mrs. Richard Hale, Mrs. E. D. Holloway, Mrs. Clifford U. Johnson, Mrs. Robert Layton, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. H. K. Touchstone, Mrs. A. Dent Tisdale and the hostess, Mrs. Sandridge.

CHURCH DAY—Pictured just after lighting the Girl Scout birthday cake, celebrating 44 years of Scouting in the United States, are Senior Scout Sandra Lee, of Troop 14, at Neville High School; Intermediate Scout Joyce Mullins, of Troop 26, at Sherrouse School; and Brownie Scout Sandra Youngblood, of Troop 11, at Plum Street School. These girls represent the more than 700 Girl Scouts in Ouachita parish; the nearly three million in the United States.

Girl Scout News

Today's the big day in Girl Scouting, the beginning of Girl Scout Week, when our own membership of 900 girls and adults joins with almost three million others in observing the 44th birthday of Girl Scouting in the U. S. A.

Every Brownie and older Scout knows that on March 12, 1912, Juliette Low, of Savannah, Ga., started the first troop in her home town. It was patterned after the English Girl Guides, of which Mrs. Low had been a leader while living in Scotland.

The seven service days of Girl Scout Week are observed annually in our country to show the public what Scouting is all about. Sunday, church day, will see many troops attending church in a body. Some whose plans we've heard are Troop 25 at Memorial Methodist, Troop 18, College Place Baptist, Troop 36 at Grace Episcopal, Troop 34 at Covenant Presbyterian, and Troop 38 at the Church of Latter Day Saints, which furnishes them a meeting place. Monday is Homemaking Day; Tuesday, Citizenship; Wednesday, Health and Safety; Thursday, International Friendship; Friday, Arts and Crafts; and Saturday, out of doors day in Girl Scout Week.

This afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at Ouachita Parish High School auditorium local troops will hold their birthday program. Families and friends are invited. The program will open with a color ceremony in charge of Troop 36, with Veronica Wilds, Charlotte Ford, Teddy Dixon, Harriet Murray, and Sidney Greenblatt taking part. Ann McCarty of Senior Scout Troop 14 will coordinate the program, while Marie Nelson, also of Troop 14, will lead the singing.

A dramatization of the Girl Scout Laws will be given by Troop 34, with Joan Williams as narrator, and Billie Sue Dixon, Beth Fink, Marilyn Hewitt, Helen Jackson, Linda Keller, Judy Neal, Nancy Clare Noland, Mary Jo Strausser, Rita Van Fossen, Tommie Sue Whitfield, Mary Jane Young, Dixie Williams, Gretchen Guelzow, and Karen Kirste taking part. Senior Scout Nancy Breard has helped with the skit.

As the main part of the program the Brownie Scouts will be massed on stage and come forward troop by troop to present their offerings to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund and to light the candles on the birthday cake. The Intermediate and Senior Scouts will do the same. Troops have been collecting pennies for the fund for the past several weeks, most girls bringing a penny for each year of their age. Some troops choose another method of deciding; Troop 36 thinks it has one this year that no one else has chosen.

Watch for newspaper pictures and articles, radio and television programs, both local and national, during Girl Scout Week. Come and bring the family to the birthday program at 3:00 this afternoon at Ouachita Parish High School auditorium. The program will be short and worthwhile. See you there.

Add a tablespoon of cream for each egg when you are cooking scrambled eggs.

MR. AND MRS. DOYLE SHEFFIELD were married on March 3, at 8:45 p.m., with the Rev. Connie Ward hearing their marriage vows. The ceremony was held in the home of Mrs. Eleanor Sheffield in West Monroe, mother of the bridegroom. Mrs. Sheffield is the former Ann Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hicks of Point.

RAYON LANDMARK TO GO

BUFFALO, N. Y. — UP — E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. Inc., has decided to raze the building in which the first rayon staple produced in this country was manufactured back in the 1920's. The structure carried a $675,000 price tag, but du Pont said no suitable buyer made an offer. Rayon manufacturing in the plant was discontinued in May, 1955.

Homogenized milk can be stored in a freezer, but quality will deteriorate if this is done for long periods.

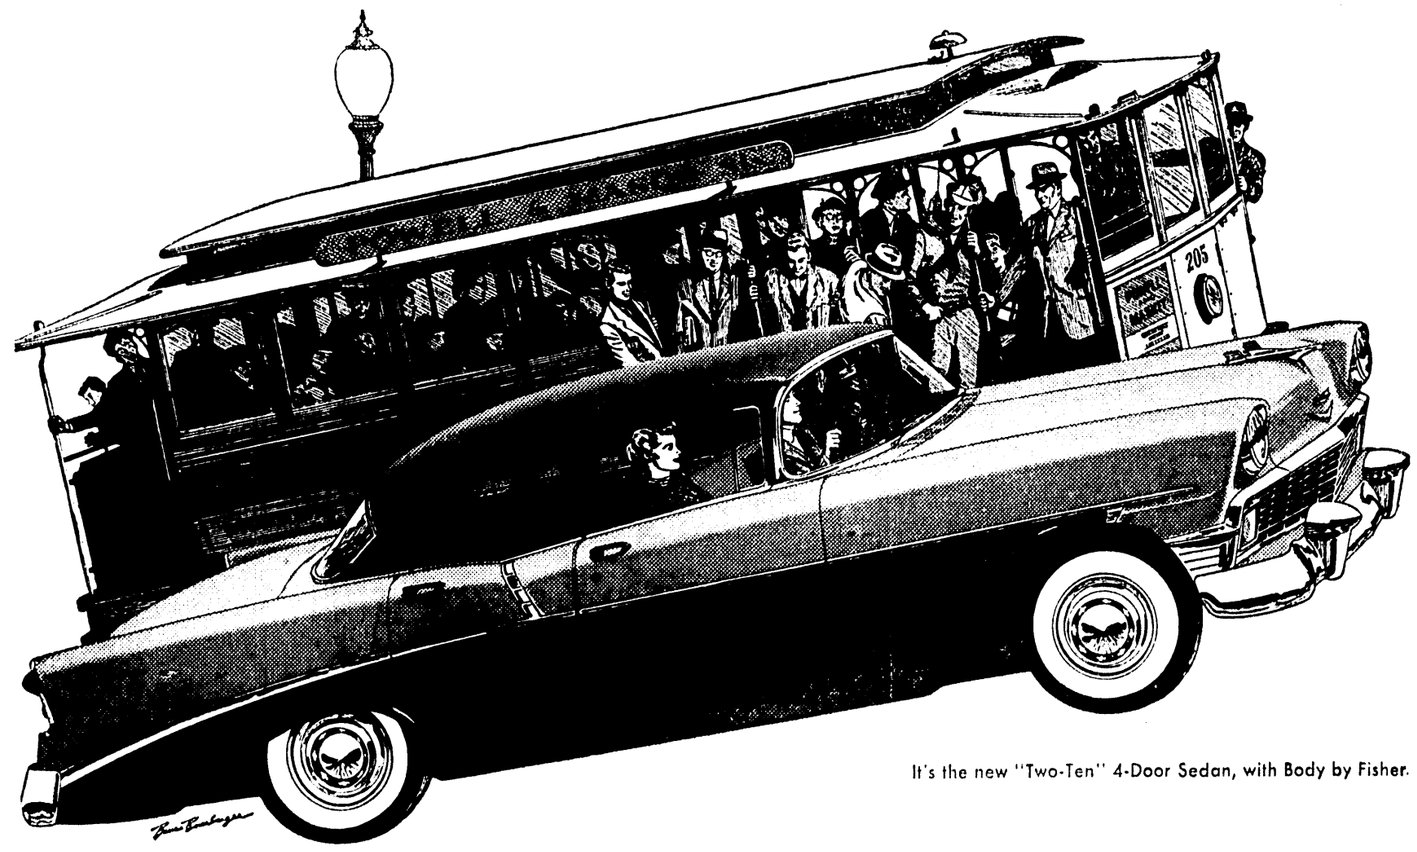
Nobody "spared the horses" in the '56 Chevrolet!



It's the new "Two-Ten" 4-Door Sedan, with Body by Fisher.

This new beauty's got power. Big, deep-breathing power that's panther-quick and silk-smooth. Power that puts new kick in your driving and makes passing far safer.

Feather-touch the gas pedal—and you find out right quick that nobody spared the horses here!

A flick of your toe is all it takes to unleash a hoodful of power. Power that makes passing far safer by saving seconds when they really count! Power that's smooth as silk—and as full of action as a string of firecrackers! Big, deep-breathing power that ranges clear up to 225 h.p.!

But power's just one of the things that make for safer, happier driving in a Chevy. For instance, you get safety door latches and directional signals in all models.

Come on in and see how the hot one handles. Why not make it soon?

Air conditioning—temperatures made to order—at new low cost. Let us demonstrate!

CHURCH DAY—Pictured just after lighting the Girl Scout birthday cake, celebrating 44 years of Scouting in the United States, are Senior Scout Sandra Lee, of Troop 14, at Neville High School; Intermediate Scout Joyce Mullins, of Troop 26, at Sherrouse School; and Brownie Scout Sandra Youngblood, of Troop 11, at Plum Street School. These girls represent the more than 700 Girl Scouts in Ouachita parish; the nearly three million in the United States.

Girl Scout News

Today's the big day in Girl Scouting, the beginning of Girl Scout Week, when our own membership of 900 girls and adults joins with almost three million others in observing the 44th birthday of Girl Scouting in the U. S. A.

Music Clubs To Hold Convention In Shreveport

The 28th annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs will take place March 22-24 at Shreveport, according to Mrs. Frank A. Vought of Paincourtville, state president.

Mrs. R. E. Wendland of Temple, Texas, chairman of the National Council of District and State Presidents, National Federation of Music Clubs, will be guest speaker. She will speak at a luncheon on March 23.

The convention will comprise business sessions, an opera dinner at the Florentine club, presentation of an opera program by the Shreveport Civic Opera Workshop on Thursday, March 22.

On March 23, in addition to Mrs. Wendland's talk, a musical program will be offered by the Shreveport Choral Ensemble, presidents of music clubs throughout the state will make reports and Mrs. Wendland and state officers will be honored at a reception prior to a presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the Shreveport Civic Chorus and Oratoria Society.

Election of officers is scheduled for March 24 and members of junior clubs will meet on that day also. The convention will close with a noon luncheon.

Clark School Slates To Stage Two Plays

In a second appearance recently, the Clark Dramatic guild of the J. S. Clark Elementary school will stage two plays on Monday night at the school auditorium.

The plays are both directed by Harold Dunnings and are packed with interest and suspense. They are entitled "Concert in the Dark" and "Minor Miracle."

The battle of man against the sea, in "Minor Miracle" is suited to strengthen the faith of the weary.

The patrons of this school and other friends are cordially invited to attend. The plays start at 7:30 p.m.

Be sure to make a round of your baking-powder biscuit dough before kneading it. Helps in shaping biscuits neatly!

Jury Receives No Criminal Matters

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 10 —(Special)— The report from the Grand Jury to the Hon. Jesse C. McGee, acting Judge of the Sixth Judicial District Court, stated that no criminal matters had been presented by the District Attorney's office.

Giving the report was J. E. Bowles, who served as Foreman of the Jury. Other jury members were Kelso McClendon, King Trieschmann, John C. Terral, John Thomas Gist, Arthur I. Guenard, Howard Giffinger, C. O. Beck, Lee Johnson, Winifred Jones and Henry McPherson.

Other matters covered in the report included a note of commendation to Sheriff Gilbert and his personnel for the excellent condition of the courthouse, jail and surrounding grounds. The report on the inspection of the East Carroll Parish Prison Farm was equally complimentary and Superintendent Kiley Mangum was especially commended for the excellent manner in which the farm is being managed.

EMPIRE-SHEATH ENSEMBLE

PATTERN M235
by Ginny Stutzlen

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Charming interpretation of the biggest news in fashion—taking the form of a lovely two-part ensemble. Ginny Stutzlen, talented American Designer, sees this slimmer-than-ever sheath as the silhouette for summer, "because it's so wonderfully becoming to a woman's figure," she declares. Pattern M235 is deliberately designed on starkly simple lines—to further emphasize the exquisite flattery of a bodice in Empire silhouette. Add the short jacket for cover-up its brief length is fashion news too! Miss Stutzlen suggests you make the ensemble in shantung, fine linen, polished cotton—bodice of pretty organdy or chiffon. Sewing? Very, very simple!

Pattern M235 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 dress requires 3⅛ yards 39-inch fabric; jacket requires 1½ yards.

Send fifty cents (in coins) for Pattern M235 to Morning World Station, New York 11, N. Y. Please print plainly your name, address with zone, style number and size.

Important Dates To Remember

Council Meeting

Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council will meet March 17th at the Agricultural Building at 10:00 a.m. Besides the business meeting, we will have a lecture and picture show on, "Care of Roses and Camellias."

Reed Work

All those having turned in an order for material to make a tray or basket of reed, be sure to make plans to attend the workshop on March 23rd. The workshop will begin at 9:00 a.m. and continue until work is completed. (Better bring a sandwich.)

Clothing Leaders Training

A clothing leaders' training meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, March 27th in the Agricultural Auditorium. The clothing leaders may bring one other person with her. Miss Margaret Brumby, Clothing Specialist of L.S.U. Extension Serivce, will be in charge of the instructions. Let's have a 100 per cent attendance. This training will help you with your construction work in making the casual dress for the State Contest.

Insects on Azaleas

Several azalea growers have brought in branches of azaleas to find out what is causing a sooty mold and discoloration of foliage. This condition is caused by the mealy bug. The sooty mold is not a parasite but lives on honey dew excreted by the mealy bug. The best control measure for the azalea mealy bug is to spray with malathion at the rate of 1½ teaspoons of 50 per cent material in a gallon of water. The best time to apply the spray is when the mealy bugs are in the crawler stage. The definite time for this spraying is hard to determine as it depends on the weather conditions, but in Louisiana it is usually in May or June and again in September or early October. The condition you see now is the result of last years mealy bug attack.

On the sprays of azaleas brought to the office, we found rust and red spiders in abundance. These may be controlled, also, with the malathion spray — applied now. Keep in mind to control these insects, the spray must contact the insect which means the spray must be applied to under side of leaves and to the stems.

Camellia

The camellias have been wonderful this year and many new ones planted. LSU Agronomists tell us a well drained soil with rich organic matter is essential in growing camellias.

Late February and early March is time to fertilize camellias. A good rule for fertilizing is to use one-fourth pound of fertilizer per square yard of area covered by the plant spread. The agronomist warns us not to use too much fertilizer. They can also be fertilized in late June which will give time for new growth to harden before cold weather.

It is, also, time to mulch—which should be two or three inches deep. Some plants drop bloom buds if heavy mulch is used. Sorry we can't offer bulletin, but supply is out.

Simple Sewing

All interested in simple sewing workshops are asked to attend the planning meeting at the Agricultural Building on March 16th, 9:30 a.m. (Bring tape measure.)

Save Yourself

Save yourself with good kitchen arrangement. Work in the kitchen usually has something to do with food. There are basically three different kinds of things you do with food — and you do each of these at a different place in the kitchen. You cook at the stove; you wash or prepare foods and wash dishes at the sink; and you mix, cut, and blend foods at the mixing center near the refrigerator. You make many trips between these places, so they should be close together as possible. Of course, you won't be able to put them right together, because you'll need space for counters and storage. If you draw a line connecting these three forming a triangle, the lengths of the sides of this triangle shouldn't total more than 22 feet. One half of all the trips you make around the kitchen is to the sink, so it makes sense to have things arranged so that the sink is as centrally located as possible.

Use a teaspoon of cinnamon to three tablespoons of sugar when you are making cinnamon toast.

MIGHTIER THAN THE GUN

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — UP — Deer hunters managed to bag just one deer in Monroe County during the hunting season. During the same month, eight deer were killed by cars.

WRONG CALL

BIG RAPIDS, Mich. — UP — Lou Turco and Dick Young figure they were out - foxed when they bought a new fox call. The two sportsmen went to the woods to test the call but managed only to lure two tomcats to the scene.

GMC brings you the most impressive improvements of all 1956 trucks

Now we can show you these great new GMC's that are further than ever ahead of all others. Their advances not only clinch power supremacy—but reach into fields still unexplored by other truck-makers.

For example, GMC's Road Shock Damper Suspension* —plus a unique new stabilizer—produces in half-ton models a ride comparable to the finest passenger car.

An optional new fast-ratio cruising axle in light-duty GMC's gives you an overdrive's pace and economy without its cost.

Sharply increased engine displacement in both sixes and V8's gives you a power family unsurpassed in the light-duty field. Specifically, we offer 14.4% GREATER displacement on 6-cylinder models, 16.2% on V8's than our nearest competitors. And GMC V8's, mind you, match the shortest stroke ratios in the truck industry.

Styling is well into the future—panoramic windshield to sand-tight tail gate. Tubeless tires, of course. And a 12-volt electrical system is standard.

These are some of the strides presented in new 1956 Blue Chip trucks we now have on view. The values are even more notable. Come in and get the facts!

*Standard on Suburban; optional at slight extra cost on other ½-ton models

Jury Receives No Criminal Matters

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 10—(Special)— The report from the Grand Jury to the Hon. Jesse C. McGee, acting Judge of the Sixth Judicial District Court, stated that no criminal matters had been presented by the District Attorney's office.

Giving the report was J. E. Bowles, who served as Foreman of the Jury. Other jury members were Kelso McClendon, King Trieschmann, John C. Terral, John Thomas Gist, Arthur I. Guenard, Howard Gittinger, C. O. Beck, Lee Johnson, Winifred Jones and Henry McPherson.

Other matters covered in the report included a note of commendation to Sheriff Gilbert and his personnel for the excellent condition of the courthouse, jail and surrounding grounds. The report on the inspection of the East Carroll Parish Prison Farm was equally complimentary and Superintendent Kiley Mangum was especially commended for the excellent manner in which the farm is being managed.

EMPIRE-SHEATH ENSEMBLE

PATTERN M235
by Ginny Stutzlen

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Charming interpretation of the biggest news in fashion—taking the form of a lovely two-part ensemble. Ginny Stutzlen, talented American Designer, sees this slimmer-than-ever sheath as the silhouette for summer, "because it's so wonderfully becoming to a woman's figure," she declares. Pattern M235 is deliberately designed on starkly simple lines—to further emphasize the exquisite flattery of a bodice in Empire silhouette. Add the short jacket for cover-up its brief length is fashion news too! Miss Stutzlen suggests you make the ensemble in shantung, fine linen, polished cotton—bodice of pretty organdy or chiffon. Sewing? Very, very simple!

Pattern M235 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 dress requires 3⅛ yards 39-inch fabric; jacket requires 1½ yards.

'Relators' Week' Will Be Observed Here This Week

Members of the Monroe-West Monroe Real Estate Board today will begin the observance of "Realtors' Week," a national effort to present to the public "the high aims and obligations of realtors."

The local realtors will join hundreds of similar boards across the country during the coming week in recognition of an "established code of ethics" among realtors.

Events scheduled here during next week will include an address by an executive of the National Association of Real Estate Boards who will speak next Thursday night. Individuals connected with the real estate industry will be welcomed to attend the meeting.

Monday the local realtors will release a proclamation, jointly signed by Monroe and West Monroe mayors, in recognition of the significance of the observance.

In stating the aim of the Realtors Association, Porter declared that "standards of the realtors code are higher than those set forth in state license laws, and the local board is empowered to see to it that its members live up to its provisions. Those cited for violation of the code's terms face loss of membership," Porter said.

Porter said further: "The term 'Realtor' has come to connote competence, fair dealings, and high integrity resulting from adherence to a lofty ideal of moral conduct in business relations. No inducement of profit and no instructions from clients ever can justify departure from this ideal, or from the injunctions of this code.

"To qualify for membership in the local and national organizations, the broker must have proven competence. And in joining he pledges himself to maintain and improve his knowledge of real estate for the benefit of his clients and the community."

Another mark of the observance of "Realtors Week" will be the sponsorship of each local realtor of a "house of the week" among his listings.

Blue eyes tend to tire more quickly than eyes of darker colors.

C. B. DeMoss, Sr., Farm Loan Director

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 10 —(Special)— C. B. DeMoss, Sr. has been elected director of the North-East National Farm Loan Association of Lake Providence, according to an announcement by James S. Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the association.

DeMoss attended a two-day conference in New Orleans last week for new NFLA directors. The conference was sponsored by the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans to acquaint the new directors with their duties and responsibilities as directors of their local national farm loan association.

TIP TO MOTHERS

SALT LAKE CITY — UP — Judge Phil L. Hensen ordered Mrs. Irma S. Turner to pay $5 or spend a day in jail for driving the wrong way on a one-way street. She chose jail, but insisted on bringing along one of her five children. The sentence was hastily reduced to two and a half hours.

USED CAR DEPT.

SYDNEY, Australia — UP — In 1940, Marjorie Johnstone reported a 1937 Ford stolen. It was 16 years later that detectives located the vehicle. They said the car had changed hands 12 times since the theft. It then took them three days to locate Miss Johnstone.

WORKS SEEMING MIRACLE—Here's an egg being fried on a cold wooden stove which Dr. Irwin Moon shows in his sequence of science films. This is "Facts of Faith" and a newspaper is placed under the frying pan but the egg goes on cooking. It is fried by an electric current passing through the board without hearing it. This demonstration is set for Central Baptist Church March 16 at 7:30 p.m. The public is cordiay invited to attend.

Magnify Church Membership Will Be Week's Topic

Central Baptist Church will observe "Magnify Church Membership Week" beginning tonight, March 11 and continues Monday night through Friday night.

Four books will be considered during the week. "My Church and I" will be taught to the Juniors by Mr. Charles Wood. "Now You Belong" will be taught to the Intermediates by Miss Mary Linda Wells, Youth Director of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe. "The Challenge of Church Membership" will be taught to the Young Peiple by Jack Dean, B.S. U. Director at Northeast State College, Mrs. C. Roger Johnson will teach "Joy in Church Membership" to the adults.

On Tuesday night there will be no classes in view of the District Musical Festival to be held at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

On Friday night at 7:30 p.m. these will be the special showing of a Science film produced by the Moody Bible Institute of Science. It is entitled "The Facts of Faith" and is a beautiful 45 minute colored film. The public is cordially invited.

Annual School Of Missions To Be Held Here

The First Methodist Church of Monroe announces it's annual School of Missions to be held on March 18-19-20 at 7:30 p.m. each evening in the Church Sanctuary. The study will concern the mission program of the Metodist Church in India and Pakistan. 1956 marks 100 years of Methodism in these two countries.

Speakers for this school of missions will be Mr. and Mrs. Hanumanth Sanumanth of Lucknow, India. Mr. Sanumanth received his Bachelor of Science degree at the Lucknow Christian College and was employed as a teacher in the college before coming to the United States. Two years ago he came to this country as a Crusade Scholar to work toward his Masters Degree in Biology. He has been studying at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texxas where he will receive his Masters Degree in May.

Mrs. Sanumanth joined her husband in this country last spring, and since her arrival in the states she has taken courses in advanced nursing at the Baylor School of Medicine. They will return to India in May where he will resume his studies at Lucknow Christian College and she will continue her duties in the field of nursing at the Lucknow Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Sanumanth have spoken extensively in the churches of the Dallas, Fort Worth area during the time they have been in this country. We feel that they will make an important contribution to the program of our mission school.

The text book for this study will be "South of the Himalayas" by Dr. James K. Mathews. The studies will be lead by Rev. G. W. Pomeroy, Pastor of the First Methodist Church. In addition to the speakers and the scheduled study course films have been selected for each night. The film for Sunday and Monday nights will feature life in India as it has been observed by Dr. Jim Pomeroy who is a Thoracic Surgeon at the Clara Swain Hospital in Bareilly, India. The film for Tuesday night will be "India — Crucible of Freedom". This film has been produced to help commemorate the centenial of Methodism in India.

On Tuesday night, Miss Ola Mae Pennington, who has recently returned from a visit to India, will have an exhibit set up in the Educational Building with various items of interest which she brought back with her, and many other items which other members of the church have loaned us for this study. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in Christian Missions to attend this school.

Revival Opens Today At First Baptist Church

The Monroe First Baptist Church will begin a series of revival services today at the eleven o'clock hour, according to announcement of the pastor, Dr. James T. Horton.

The visiting evangelist is Dr. John Wright, who for the past eleven years has served as pastor of First Baptist Church, Port Arthur, Texas. Dr. Wright is a native of Texas, receiving his A.B. and D.D. degrees from Baylor, and his Th. M. degree from Southwestern Seminary. At present, he is a member of the Board of trustees at Baylor and South Texas Baptist Hospital; chairman of the appropriation committee of the Baptist General convention of Texas, of which he is also vice president.

He has traveled extensively, having toured Europe and Alaska. Wayne Miley, Denham Springs, will be in charge of the music for the revival. He completed high school at Denham Springs, and later, entered Louisiana College, where he is a senior at this time. After serving for three years as minister of Music at Cheneyville, he has accepted a call to serve in the same capacity at Baptist Temple, Alexandria.

With these outstanding men of God to bring the messages in sermon and in song, and with preparations made through prayer services and visitation by members, pastor and educational director, it is felt the meeting will prove a blessing to all who attend. Morning services will be held at seven o'clock, and 7:30 p.m.

Friends are given a cordial invitation to attend all the services.

Christianity is the religion for living the abundant life and for overcoming death. Too many people think of Christianity as just a religion for death. That is wrong. It is a religion primarily for living and if we live by it and in it then the problem of death and the future dissolves itself. Jesus Christ is sufficient for our every need, both here and hereafter. As we approach another Easter, let us recommit ourselves to Him.
6:00 p.m. Seniors and Pioneers.
Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. Mid-week service.
A nursery is provided for each service.

Churches Will Make Plea For Overseas Aid

Protestant churches in the Twin Cities observing "One Great Hour of Sharing" will join with tens of thousands of others throughout the United States tomorrow March 11, in emphasis on the overseas relief and reconstruction programs of the churches, with special offerings being made to support this ministry to those in need abroad.

In the 1956 United Appeal, of which "One Great Hour of Sharing" is a highlight observance, major Protestant denominations are working together for the eighth consecutive year through the central Department of Church World Service of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., in their appeal for funds with which to carry on world-wide work of relief among the millions of homeless, hungry and destitute in overseas areas of distress.

Thirty-five major denominations and communions cooperate through Church World Service in programs to aid the needy abroad. Such individual

Magnify Church Membership Will Be Week's Topic

Central Baptist Church will observe "Magnify Church Membership Week" beginning tonight, March 11 and continues Monday night through Friday night.

Four books will be considered during the week. "My Church and I" will be taught to the Juniors by Mr. Charles Wood. "Now You Belong" will be taught to the Intermediates by Miss Mary Linda Wells, Youth Director of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe, "The Challenge of Church Membership" will be taught to the Young Peiple by Jack Dean, B.S. U. Director at Northeast State College, Mrs. C. Roger Johnson will teach "Joy in Church Membership" to the adults.

On Tuesday night there will be no classes in view of the District Musical Festival to be held at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

On Friday night at 7:30 p.m. these will be the special showing of a Science film produced by the Moody Bible Institute of Science. It is entitled "The Facts of Faith" and is a beautiful 45 minute colored film. The public is cordially invited.

Annual School Of Missions To Be Held Here

The First Methodist Church of Monroe announces it's annual School of Missions to be held on March 18-19-20 at 7:30 p.m. each evening in the Church Sanctuary. The study will concern the mission program of the Metodist Church in India and Pakistan. 1956 marks 100 years of Methodism in these two countries.

Speakers for this school of missions will be Mr. and Mrs. Hanumanth Sanumanth of Lucknow, India. Mr. Sanumanth received his Bachelor of Science degree at the Lucknow Christian College and was employed as a teacher in the college before coming to the United States. Two years ago he came to this country as a Crusade Scholar to work toward his Masters Degree in Biology. He has been studying at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texxas where he will receive his Masters Degree in May.

Mrs. Sanumanth joined her husband in this country last spring, and since her arrival in the states she has taken courses in advanced nursing at the Baylor School of Medicine. They will return to India in May where he will resume his studies at Lucknow Christian College and she will continue her duties in the field of nursing at the Lucknow Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Sanumanth have spoken extensively in the churches of the Dallas, Fort Worth area during the time they have been in this country. We feel that they will make an important contribution to the program of our mission school.

The text book for this study will be "South of the Himalayas" by Dr. James K. Mathews. The studies will be lead by Rev. G. W. Pomeroy, Pastor of the First Methodist Church. In addition to the speakers and the scheduled study course films have been selected for each night. The film for Sunday and Monday nights will feature life in India as it has been observed by Dr. Jim Pomeroy who is a Thoracic Surgeon at the Clara Swain Hospital in Bareilly, India. The film for Tuesday night will be "India — Crucible of Freedom". This film has been produced to help commemorate the centenial of Methodism in India.

On Tuesday night, Miss Ola Mae Pennington, who has recently returned from a visit to India, will have an exhibit set up in the Educational Building with various items of interest which she brought back with her, and many other items which other members of the church have loaned us for this study. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in Christian Missions to attend this school.

Revival Opens Today At First Baptist Church

The Monroe First Baptist Church will begin a series of revival services today at the eleven o'clock hour, according to announcement of the pastor, Dr. James T. Horton.

The visiting evangelist is Dr. John Wright, who for the past eleven years has served as pastor of First Baptist Church, Port Arthur, Texas. Dr. Wright is a native of Texas, receiving his A.B. and D.D. degrees from Baylor, and his Th. M. degree from Southwestern Seminary. At present, he is a member of the Board of trustees at Baylor and South Texas Baptist Hospital; chairman of the appropriation committee of the Baptist General convention of Texas, of which he is also vice president.

He has traveled extensively, having toured Europe and Alaska. Wayne Miley, Denham Springs, will be in charge of the music for the revival. He completed high school at Denham Springs, and later, entered Louisiana College, where he is a senior at this time. After serving for three years as minister of Music at Cheneyville, he has accepted a call to serve in the same capacity at Baptist Temple, Alexandria.

With these outstanding men of God to bring the messages in sermon and in song, and with preparations made through prayer services and visitation by members, pastor and educational director, it is felt the meeting will prove a blessing to all who attend. Morning services will be held at seven o'clock, and 7:30 p.m.

Friends are given a cordial invitation to attend all the services.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0.	Prov. 17:16.	Why should a fool have a price in his hand to buy wisdom, when he has no mind.
1.	I Sam. 12:24.	Consider what great things he has done for you.
2.	II Sam. 7:25.	Do as thou hast spoken.
3.	I Kings 5:4.	God has given rest on every side; there is neither adversary nor misfortune.
4.	Prov. 17:17.	A friend loves at all times, and a brother is born for adversity.

11:00 a.m. Morning worship service. Sermon: "A Religion For Life and For Death.'
Christianity is the religion for living the abundant life and for overcoming death. Too many people think of Christianity as just a religion for death. That is wrong. It is a religion primarily for living and if we live by it and in it then the problem of death and the future dissolves itself. Jesus Christ is sufficient for our every need, both here and hereafter. As we approach another Easter, let us recommit ourselves to Him.
6:00 p.m. Seniors and Pioneers.
Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. Mid-week service.
A nursery is provided for each service.

Churches Will Make Plea For Overseas Aid

Protestant churches in the Twin Cities observing "One Great Hour of Sharing" will join with tens of thousands of others throughout the United States tomorrow March 11, in emphasis on the overseas relief and reconstruction programs of the churches, with special offerings being made to support this ministry to those in need abroad.

In the 1956 United Appeal, of which "One Great Hour of Sharing" is a highlight observance, major Protestant denominations are working together for the eighth consecutive year through the central Department of Church World Service of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., in their appeal for funds with which to carry on world-wide work of relief among the millions of homeless, hungry and destitute in overseas areas of distress.

Thirty-five major denominations and communions cooperate through Church World Service in programs to aid the needy abroad. Such individual and joint efforts of the churches as projected for 1956 will require nearly $11,000,000 in cash, in addition to many million pounds of U.S. surplus commodities and other contributed food, clothing, medicines, etc.

Father Curran To Give Course On Spiritual Study

Father D. A. Curran will give a short course of spiritual instructions, meditations and prayers, followed by Benediction, Sunday March 18 from 1:45 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. at Our Lady of Fatima Church.

Invitations are extended to St. Matthews parish and locality and is not confined to Catholic ladies. Non-Catholics are invited to attend. Those of the Catholic faith who have been fortunate enough to attend a retreat will not compare this to one, however, those who were unable to attend a retreat will be grateful for a Day of Recollection.

Father Curran is well known throughout the South, having done a considerable amount of missionary work. He was Retreat Master at Maryhill and instructor in religion.

He is a deeply consecrated speaker.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE
First Church of Christ, Scientist
No. 2nd at Auburn

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, March 11, 1956.
The golden text is: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Heb. 11:1).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson - sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations" (Ps. (145:13).
The lesson - sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infinite God. Things spiritual and eternal are substantial."
Listen to a 15-minute radio broadcast Sunday at 7:45 a.m. over radio station KNOE. See television program each Sunday at 12:45 p.m. Station KNOE, TV, Channel 8. Sunday school at 9:40 a.m., Sunday service at 11:00 a.m. Wednesday service at 8:00 p.m. Reading Room at 135 North Second street open daily from 10:00 to 5:00 except Sundays and national holidays.

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

New Pots Fertilize And Are Planted

Ouachita Parish is beautiful now. Today the wisteria and crabapples should be in full bloom and the two are so lovely together (weather permitting). The lavender and pink seem to enhance each other. You know, too, that there's a white crabapple, baccata. A touch of white is always pretty with colors.

Proof of the pudding is in the eating. Last year I cut my pop corn spirea within twelve inches of the ground and fertilized the plants in January and again in June. They have never bloomed so profusely as this year. Looks like a bank of snow. The pink flowering almond is lovely with this white spirea. You know, too, that there's a white flowering almond. I don't know if the nurseries have this in stock. It makes nice spike material in flower arrangements.

There's a new container on the market for seedlings. You know how you often run into trouble when you're ready to set petunias (or other seedlings) in their permanent location. Commercial growers have tried to solve this shock of transplanting by planting the seed in clay pots. Still some of the soil falls away when you take the seedling from the pot. This new pot is made of compressed peat moss that has been given substance by the addition of a small amount of wood cellulose to make it rigid. To this composition has been added nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, the three principal elements of plant food. So, in addition to being a container that holds soil and a plant, the pot is also a fertilizer. Being made of peat moss it's also a humus material. These Jiffy Pots as they are called, are planted, pot, plant and all, so no roots are disturbed. The roots are able to penetrate through the pot walls and the pot itself soon disintegrates in the soil. Paper containers, when planted with the seedling tend to tie up the nitrogen in the soil. These new pots should be in use in the nurseries soon.

There's also a lot being said about a new lawn fertilizer that does not burn (so you wouldn't have to water it down). The nitrogen in this fertilizer is released slowly so does not leach out as fast as other types. The fertilizer comes in powder form and is not water soluble and is intended only for slow feeding. You'll be hearing more about this.

Don't be afraid to cut back your nandinas. So many of you have told me you cut back severely last year and result — very beautiful plants, nice shape. You can cut one-third of the old wood all the way to the ground, shorten the other wood if the plant has grown too tall.

Well — we have some mighty fine gardeners around this area. Mrs. Earl Colton, 3203 Lee Avenue says she has sweet peas blooming. That should be your answer to the question of — is it too late to plant sweet peas? They're not a hot weather plant, so unless planted in late fall, you don't get your dimes worth of blooms.

The azaleas can be pruned while they're blooming. If you have a plant that has two or three long, bare woody branches with a top knot of leaves and blossoms at the end, cut off those limbs, way back where they join the main trunk. You'll be proud of the new growth, later on.

Cut the oldest canes out of the flowering quince. Prune pop corn spirea and baby's breath spirea just as they quit blooming. Cut the oldest wood, right down close to the ground. Finish pruning crepe Myrtles and get every thing fertilized this month if you haven't already done this.

There is no monotony in fish meals during Lent, with the fresh, frozen and canned in the markets. Easy does it when cooking fish, because by nature it is tender. Keep fish that way by quick cooking at low heat. This easily cooked food is ready to serve when the flesh flakes easily and it has lost it's transparent appearance. Lean fish will need basting when you bake or broil them to prevent dryness.

A serving of fish furnishes a good supply of proteins along with small amounts of iron and B vitamins. Fat fish are a good source of vitamins A and D. Salt water fish rate high billing as an important source of iodine needed for the proper functioning of the thyroid gland. Green leafy vegetables served with a fish dinner will increase the amount of iron in the diet.

Your "Open House" shows for this next week are as follows: Monday, Dorothy Dillon from Catahoula Parish will give "Community Organization and Recreation;" Tuesday, Maxine Reeves from LaSalle will show you how to frame pictures; Wednesday, Serena Lewis will bring you the three flower arrangements from the Fifth District Garden Center and we'll do some gardening; Thursday, we'll continue the work on the wool coat; Friday is marketing Day with Mildred and Mammy.

I've had a number of calls asking me if I know anybody who will make quilts — which includes making and hand quilting. Please call me if you would like a little pin money and can do this kind of work.

St. Frances Hospital Auxiliary will conduct a garden tour and silver tea on Sunday, March 18. The tour begins at 3:00, ends at 5:00. The first home to be visited is Dr. A. G. McHenry, 1810 Riverside. From there you'll go to the Mrs. Harold Woods home, 518 Hilton. Next you'll be privileged to see the Slade Brown's garden on the old Country Club Road. You will drive from there to the Travis Olivers, 2010 Island Drive. Tea will be served at the S. J. Rogers home at 1212 Island Drive. The public is cordially invited and a special invitation is extended to our out of town friends. This is an opportunity to see some of Monroe's loveliest gardens.

See you next Sunday.

Fort Miro

FORT MIRO—An arrangement by the Monroe Garden Club from Mrs. C. E. McKenzie and Mrs. John Lewis was included in the top winners at the State Flower Show in Ruston held last week end. Palmetto, pine flowers and foliage were used in the arrangement.

Old Wire Road

OLD WIRE ROAD—An arrangement by the Suburban Garden Club of Ruston and designed by Mrs. R. L. Vining won top honors in its class. Sweet gum branches, maple flowers and daffodils made up the arrangement.

Ruston Garden Club Is High In Flower Show

The beautiful 8th State Flower Show held in Ruston last week end is now but a memory. We hope you all had an opportunity to attend for it really was a thing of beauty. Four hundred delegates from the federated garden clubs throughout the state attended the convention and three thousand visitors saw the Flower Show on Saturday afternoon and many thousands more on Sunday. The highest number of points for both arrangements and horticulture exhibits went to the Ruston Garden Club with a total of 199 points. The Community Garden Club of Arcadia ran a close second with a total of 149 points. Lakeview Botany Guild of New Orleans, third with a total of 93 points. A trophy was awarded to the Ruston Garden Club. This trophy is to be held by the club for one year. If the same club wins the trophy for three (3) years in succession, it will be awarded to them for permanent possession.

The Green Thumb Garden Club of the Twin Cities staged the flower show at the Garden Center this week. All exhibits were judged by an accredited judge. In the horticulture section blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Suzee Gorman for native yellow jasmine and English iris variety "Queen of the Blues." Mrs. Pattie Carr was awarded a ribbon for yellow calendula.

In the arrangement section, Mrs. T. E. Humphries was awarded first place blue ribbon. Mrs. Humphries created a lovely composition using a beautiful piece of gray driftwood set on a bamboo base. Ivy followed the lines of the driftwood. A line mass arrangement of yellow daffodils (Lucinus) and clipped pine completed the design. Two gaily colored ceramic birds were perched on the driftwood. A very lovely composition. Mrs. H. R. Robbins was awarded second place. A round bowl on its own base was selected for the red-violet color harmony. Red plum foliage and flowers formed the background, with purple wandering jew foliage used as transition material. The focal point was one lovely bloom of the Magnolia Soulangeana. The color harmony was perfect.

Mrs. Charles O. Hayton was awarded third place blue ribbon. For a container Mrs. Hayton chose a footed milk glass compote in which she designed a line mass arrangement of bridal wreath and white and yellow daffodils. This arrangement was most beautiful. The variety of narcissus used was Semper Avante. The perianth (petals) white and the cup of deep yellow tinged with orange.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Fall Perennials Can Be Divided

It is not to late to take up and divide many summer perennials. Summer phlox, veronicas, salvias of all kinds, plantain lilies (Hosta or Funkia) lythrum and many other kinds that form clumps can still be divided even though they have grown considerably if you will take the clumps apart in little clumps. You may lose a few small sprouts out of each clump, but the rest will be better off than left in old clumps much longer than three to five years. Of course, the early summer perennials will be set back some if divided now. Perennials that flower in July and August will be better moved than left in starving condition.

Fall perennials like chrysanthemums, Japanese anemones, asters and the eupatorium that we call perennial ageratum can be divided to good advantage now, too. If you have a few clumps — or even one — of some choice chrysanthemums, you can divide them into single plants and have a clump per plant by September.

This is definitely not the time to take up fall bulbs like the spider-lilies, sternbergias and colchicums. As long as bulbs have green leaves on them, they are busy making new bulbs under the ground and should be left entirely alone. They should not be disturbed until the leaves have turned yellow and dried up. For most kinds of fall bloomers, this is in June in the South.

This is not the time to plant larkspur, calliopsis and godetias. These annuals are called "winter annuals" because they may be planted in late fall to develop during the warm winters here in the South or to come up in late winter and early spring and grow into lusty blooming plants by springtime. Our heat here will burn up these annuals before they can ever do anything if you sow them now. Remember to plant them next fall.

This is not the best time to sow lawns or bluegrass and so-called "bluegrass mixtures". If you wish to struggle with this kind of lawn, sow it in late September. High shade from tall trees is the best place for such lawns in the South. In full sun, this is not the grass for us. As soon as real warm weather sets in for good, you can sprig or sow Bermuda grass or centipedegrass

Ouachita Parish is beautiful now. Today the wisteria and crabapples should be in full bloom and the two are so lovely together (weather permitting). The lavender and pink seem to enhance each other. You know, too, that there's a white crabapple, baccata. A touch of white is always pretty with colors.

Proof of the pudding is in the eating. Last year I cut my pop corn spirea within twelve inches of the ground and fertilized the plants in January and again in June. They have never bloomed so profusely as this year. Looks like a bank of snow. The pink flowering almond is lovely with this white spirea. You know, too, that there's a white flowering almond. I don't know if the nurseries have this in stock. It makes nice spike material in flower arrangements.

There's a new container on the market for seedlings. You know how you often run into trouble when you're ready to set petunias (or other seedlings) in their permanent location. Commercial growers have tried to solve this shock of transplanting by planting the seed in clay pots. Still some of the soil falls away when you take the seedling from the pot. This new pot is made of compressed peat moss that has been given substance by the addition of a small amount of wood cellulose to make it rigid. To this composition has been added nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, the three principal elements of plant food. So, in addition to being a container that holds soil and a plant, the pot is also a fertilizer. Being made of peat moss it's also a humus material. These Jiffy Pots as they are called, are planted, pot, plant and all, so no roots are disturbed. The roots are able to penetrate through the pot walls and the pot itself soon disintegrates in the soil. Paper containers, when planted with the seedling tend to tie up the nitrogen in the soil. These new pots should be in use in the nurseries soon.

There's also a lot being said about a new lawn fertilizer that does not burn (so you wouldn't have to water it down). The nitrogen in this fertilizer is released slowly so does not leach out as fast as other types. The fertilizer comes in powder form and is not water soluble and is intended only for slow feeding. You'll be hearing more about this.

Don't be afraid to cut back your nandinas. So many of you have told me you cut back severely last year and result — very beautiful plants, nice shape. You can cut one-third of the old wood all the way to the ground, shorten the other wood if the plant has grown too tall.

Well — we have some mighty fine gardeners around this area. Mrs. Earl Colton, 3203 Lee Avenue says she has sweet peas blooming. That should be your answer to the question of — is it too late to plant sweet peas? They're not a hot weather plant, so unless planted in late fall, you don't get your dimes worth of blooms.

The azaleas can be pruned while they're blooming. If you have a plant that has two or three long, bare woody branches with a top knot of leaves and blossoms at the end, cut off those limbs, way back where they join the main trunk. You'll be proud of the new growth, later on.

Cut the oldest canes out of the flowering quince. Prune pop corn spirea and baby's breath spirea just as they quit blooming. Cut the oldest wood, right down close to the ground. Finish pruning crepe Myrtles and get every thing fertilized this month if you haven't already done this.

There is no monotony in fish meals during Lent, with the fresh, frozen and canned in the markets. Easy does it when cooking fish, because by nature it is tender. Keep fish that way by quick cooking at low heat. This easily cooked food is ready to serve when the flesh flakes easily and it has lost it's transparent appearance. Lean fish will need basting when you bake or broil them to prevent dryness.

A serving of fish furnishes a good supply of proteins along with small amounts of iron and B vitamins. Fat fish are a good source of vitamins A and D. Salt water fish rate high billing as an important source of iodine needed for the proper functioning of the thyroid gland. Green leafy vegetables served with a fish dinner will increase the amount of iron in the diet.

Your "Open House" shows for this next week are as follows: Monday, Dorothy Dillon from Catahoula Parish will give "Community Organization and Recreation;" Tuesday, Maxine Reeves from LaSalle will show you how to frame pictures; Wednesday, Serena Lewis will bring you the three flower arrangements from the Fifth District Garden Center and we'll do some gardening; Thursday, we'll continue the work on the wool coat; Friday is marketing Day with Mildred and Mammy.

I've had a number of calls asking me if I know anybody who will make quilts — which includes making and hand quilting. Please call me if you would like a little pin money and can do this kind of work.

St. Frances Hospital Auxiliary will conduct a garden tour and silver tea on Sunday, March 18. The tour begins at 3:00, ends at 5:00. The first home to be visited is Dr. A. G. McHenry, 1810 Riverside. From there you'll go to the Mrs. Harold Woods home, 518 Hilton. Next you'll be privileged to see the Slade Brown's garden on the old Country Club Road. You will drive from there to the Travis Olivers, 2010 Island Drive. Tea will be served at the S. J. Rogers home at 1212 Island Drive. The public is cordially invited and a special invitation is extended to our out of town friends. This is an opportunity to see some of Monroe's loveliest gardens.

See you next Sunday.

Ruston Garden Club Is High In Flower Show

The beautiful 8th State Flower Show held in Ruston last week end is now but a memory. We hope you all had an opportunity to attend for it really was a thing of beauty. Four hundred delegates from the federated garden clubs throughout the state attended the convention and three thousand visitors saw the Flower Show on Saturday afternoon and many thousands more on Sunday. The highest number of points for both arrangements and horticulture exhibits went to the Ruston Garden Club with a total of 199 points. The Community Garden Club of Arcadia ran a close second with a total of 149 points. Lakeview Botany Guild of New Orleans, third with a total of 93 points. A trophy was awarded to the Ruston Garden Club. This trophy is to be held by the club for one year. If the same club wins the trophy for three (3) years in succession, it will be awarded to them for permanent possession.

The Green Thumb Garden Club of the Twin Cities staged the flower show at the Garden Center this week. All exhibits were judged by an accredited judge. In the horticulture section blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Suzee Gorman for native yellow jasmine and English iris variety "Queen of the Blues." Mrs. Pattie Carr was awarded a ribbon for yellow calendula.

In the arrangement section, Mrs. T. E. Humphries was awarded first place blue ribbon. Mrs. Humphries created a lovely composition using a beautiful piece of gray driftwood set on a bamboo base. Ivy followed the lines of the driftwood. A line mass arrangement of yellow daffodils (Lucinus) and clipped pine completed the design. Two gaily colored ceramic birds were perched on the driftwood. A very lovely composition. Mrs. H. R. Robbins was awarded second place. A round bowl on its own base was selected for the red-violet color harmony. Red plum foliage and flowers formed the background, with purple wandering jew foliage used as transition material. The focal point was one lovely bloom of the Magnolia Soulangeana. The color harmony was perfect.

Mrs. Charles O. Hayton was awarded third place blue ribbon. For a container Mrs. Hayton chose a footed milk glass compote in which she designed a line mass arrangement of bridal wreath and white and yellow daffodils. This arrangement was most beautiful. The variety of narcissus used was Semper Avante. The perianth (petals) white and the cup of deep yellow tinged with orange.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

Fall Perennials Can Be Divided

It is not to late to take up and divide many summer perennials. Summer phlox, veronicas, salvias of all kinds, plantain lilies (Hosta or Funkia) lythrum and many other kinds that form clumps can still be divided even though they have grown considerably if you will take the clumps apart in little clumps. You may lose a few small sprouts out of each clump, but the rest will be better off than left in old clumps much longer than three to five years. Of course, the early summer perennials will be set back some if divided now. Perennials that flower in July and August will be better moved than left in starving condition.

Fall perennials like chrysanthemums, Japanese anemones, asters and the eupatorium that we call perennial ageratum can be divided to good advantage now, too. If you have a few clumps — or even one — of some choice chrysanthemums, you can divide them into single plants and have a clump per plant by September.

This is definitely not the time to take up fall bulbs like the spider-lilies, sternbergias and colchicums. As long as bulbs have green leaves on them, they are busy making new bulbs under the ground and should be left entirely alone. They should not be disturbed until the leaves have turned yellow and dried up. For most kinds of fall bloomers, this is in June in the South.

This is not the time to plant larkspur, calliopsis and godetias. These annuals are called "winter annuals" because they may be planted in late fall to develop during the warm winters here in the South or to come up in late winter and early spring and grow into lusty blooming plants by springtime. Our heat here will burn up these annuals before they can ever do anything if you sow them now. Remember to plant them next fall.

This is not the best time to sow lawns or bluegrass and so-called "bluegrass mixtures". If you wish to struggle with this kind of lawn, sow it in late September. High shade from tall trees is the best place for such lawns in the South. In full sun, this is not the grass for us. As soon as real warm weather sets in for good, you can sprig or sow Bermuda grass or centipedegrass

BOOKS

JAMES LORD

No Traveler Returns. By James Lord. John Day.

On the jacket of this book a tall slim young man turns his back on an animated Paris street: a huckster with cart, a busy cafe, a mother and child, a merrymaking couple, and above it all, the white onion-top towers of Sacre Coeur.

Jacket illustrators do not often epitomize a novel with such a direct, sure stroke as this, for the hero, DeWitt Smith, is a man with figuratively, his back turned, a man who walks away from life, a man twice shy though never burned even once. He's not even a name to his friends but an initial: D.

A well-to-do American, D. is living abroad, of if you can't say living, he's being abroad. He wanders in and out of France, Switzerland, Italy and Austria, but Paris is headquarters. Most of his time he spends with Ann, wife of a one-time friend. What days and nights are not allotted to her go to Eleanor, another American. But though he comes from the New World, some sort of worn, Old World fatigue has eaten into his bones. He has no abnormal appetites — a character named Price is introduced in part to show what D. is not. His trouble is, he has no appetites at all; and as a woman cries out to him, though it's bad to be ruined by passions, "it's so much worse to be wrecked by passions that you'd only like to feel." He's a dilettante, who hangs his clothes on a hickory limb but doesn't go near the water.

Some absorbing people swing in and out of his orbit—in particular the two girls, Prince and Augusto, but D. is the key figure. He has no point or purpose, and that's the point and purpose of his story. With this first novel, Lord has done a handsome job; it is lively, fresh and different, with neatly balanced doses of sweet and sour, funny and sad, nice and naughty.

Record Reviews

NEW YORK — UP — The boy wonder of television, young George Wright, has followed up his big triumph on the "Big Surprise" quiz show with a recording of the number that won his $100,000.

RCA-Victor lost no time in putting "Me and My Shadow" on a 45 rpm starring 14-year-old George and his trio and making them the youngest male vocal combo in the industry.

George's voice is no better than that of any other 14-year-old boy who can carry a tune, but he has a fine personality that comes through on this record, and RCA-Victor probably will record a number of his specialties.

The most important part of this particular record is the startlingly faithful sound reproduction. It gives the listener who has even a cheap hi-fi set the impression that the singers are in the room.

Platter-chatter — Susan Hayward has an exceptionally good singing voice for a dramatic actress. If you haven't seen "I'll Cry Tomorrow," listen to her M-G-M recording of the title number . . . "Geronimo," by the Four Voices (Columbia), should be a best seller . . . Joni James has another potential million - record seller in "Somewhere Someone Is Lonely" (M-G-M) . . . And Guy Lombardo moves from Decca to Capitol with a smooth recording of "Our Melody," which gets more unusual treatment by Hugo and Luigi (Mercury).

For Piano Fans — Roger Williams has another good flapjack with "Song of Devotion" backed by "Beyond the Sea" (Kapp) . . . Columbia's "Villegas" album introduces one of the most versatile pianists in ages. Villegas comes from Argentina, gives jazz a classic touch.

Rock and Roll — Perry Como has an arrangement of "Juke Box Baby" that should keep the teenagers happy . . . Ditto Jerry Mercer on "Blue Suede Shoes" (Mercury) . . . And Georgia Gibbs strengthens her position in this field with "Rock Right" (Mercury).

Album of the week — "Everybody's Happy," an Epic LP musical flashback on the work of Ted Lewis. Six fast - moving numbers, inluding, "The Darktown Strutters' Ball," and six slow ones, including "Aunt Hagars Blues."

Show Time — Danny Kaye's zany songs from the movie, "The Court Jester," now are available on a Decca LP. Excellent reproduction.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Almost certainly. Quarreling is not "chit-chat." But talking constantly to each other about everyday happenings, big and little, or to the children about their little problems which seem to be so big to them, proves they all have a lot in common. This is the very core of married happiness and love. A fine help for becoming a good conversationalist is our booklet "The Art of conversation." Nonprofit, 15c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. True. In "Sociology and Social Research," educator L. D. Zeleny, sums up leader traits found by many psychologists. Typical are the following: High-school leaders, intelligence, scholarship, interest in hobbies; high-school girl leaders, loveliness, wide interests, sportsmaiship, ability to amuse, pleasant voice, and self-confidence; all leaders, "speed and finality of decision" — equally true of gang leaders and college presidents! Participation in activities, self-confidence, personal prestige, and decisiveness are highest in all studies.

Do you wish you were like someone else?

Why? Make the most of your own attractive qualities! You will live and work more happily by following rules in booklet, "Develop Your Personality." Send 15c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope (name city and state) to Dr. A. W. Wiggam c-o this newspaper.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Not in most fields, partly from lack of physicial strength. Also, as explained in "Pageant" by Elsie Thorpe, women's wrists are so joined to the forearm they cannot throw balls or swing bats or golf clubs as well as men. They do well at tennis, but most of the "greats" are men. Also the knee joint makes women clumsy at climbing. However, women surpass men in manual dexterity. They are as good natural mechanics as men, but only lack training.

TV Notes

The plum role of the temperamental female star in "Twentieth Century," the Hecht-MacArthur stage success that will be a CBS spectacular on April 7, has gone to Betty Grable. Orson Welles already had been announced to play the conniving impresario.

Dorothy Collins, one of the four singing stars on "Your Hit Parade," was born in Windsor, Ontario, on Nov. 18, 1926. Her first work was on a children's radio program originating in across-the-river Detroit, Mich.

March 25 is now the date for the premiere of the 30-minute by-product of "The $64,000 Question" on the CBS network. In the 10 p.m. slot. "The $64,000 Challenge" is the name, and winners from "Question" will be members of a panel that will match their knowledge against contestants.

"Appointment With Adventure", a half-hour dramatic series, is being dropped by CBS to make room for "The $64,000 Challenge."

Katharine Cornell, who has ignored the movies throughout her long career, will make her TV debut in April 2 in her best-known vehicle, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." On Producer's Showcase" for NBC.

Football! Well, it's only seven months away, so CBS has arranged to telecast games of the National Football League Sunday afternoons beginning Sept. 30 and through Dec. 16. The games will be covered on a regional network basis.

Behind-the-scenes at a political convention provides the material for "The Candidate," a TV original is which Ralph Bellamy will star on the "U. S. Steel Hour" over the CBS network on March 14.

Lee Tracy, who was TV's Martin Kane a few seasons back, will return in a filmed series entitled "New York Confidential" now being made in New York by Television Programs of America. He will serve as narrator.

Art In Review

JAMES J. RORIMER

"The collections come first — the objects, the paintings," declares James J. Rorimer who has been in charge of the invaluable treasures of the Metropolitan Museum of Art since last summer, when he succeeded Francis Henry Taylor as director.

"We must make these objects intelligible to the public," he says—sitting down, standing up. taking a few steps this way and a few that, and puffing on his pipe as he hunts for the words to define meseum plans and policies.

"We must make them intelligible even if that calls for a smoking room here and there in this great building covering four city blocks" . . . he gestures with his pipe to show he'd have use for a smoking room himself. "Or if it calls for a good restaurant."

"We don't want the public to think a visit to the museum is a painful ordeal," he continues.

How does a medievalist whose office walls are covered with ancient tapestries and whose office chairs are antiques feel about modern art?

"As for this office, it isn't any indication of what I'd like. The tapestries are the cheapest decorations since we have them; and the chairs are free, since we also have them and didn't need to buy new ones."

He shows a clear open-mindedness about the art of our day. "We want more modern objects, not only objects of industrial design such as we intend to exhibit in some new galleries, but also painting and sculpture. We want to find what's best or most representative of our era. We know there are artists whom younger people today find exciting. A museum can only represent what it believes to be the best thinking of those who are called artists."

America used an average of 90 gallons of water per person per day in 1920, but uses 145 gallons today.

BOOKS

JAMES LORD

No Traveler Returns. By James Lord. John Day.

On the jacket of this book a tall slim young man turns his back on an animated Paris street: a huckster with cart, a busy cafe, a mother and child, a merrymaking couple, and above it all, the white onion-top towers of Sacre Coeur.

Jacket illustrators do not often epitomize a novel with such a direct, sure stroke as this, for the hero, DeWitt Smith, is a man with figuratively, his back turned, a man who walks away from life, a man twice shy though never burned even once. He's not even a name to his friends but an initial: D.

A well-to-do American, D. is living abroad, of if you can't say living, he's being abroad. He wanders in and out of France, Switzerland, Italy and Austria, but Paris is headquarters. Most of his time he spends with Ann, wife of a one-time friend. What days and nights are not allotted to her go to Eleanor, another American. But though he comes from the New World, some sort of worn, Old World fatigue has eaten into his bones. He has no abnormal appetites — a character named Price is introduced in part to show what D. is not. His trouble is, he has no appetites at all; and as a woman cries out to him, though it's bad to be ruined by passions, "it's so much worse to be wrecked by passions that you'd only like to feel." He's a dilettante, who hangs his clothes on a hickory limb but doesn't go near the water.

Some absorbing people swing in and out of his orbit—in particular the two girls, Prince and Augusto, but D. is the key figure. He has no point or purpose, and that's the point and purpose of his story. With this first novel, Lord has done a handsome job; it is lively, fresh and different, with neatly balanced doses of sweet and sour, funny and sad, nice and naughty.

Record Reviews

NEW YORK — UP — The boy wonder of television, young George Wright, has followed up his big triumph on the "Big Surprise" quiz show with a recording of the number that won his $100,000.

RCA-Victor lost no time in putting "Me and My Shadow" on a 45 rpm starring 14-year-old George and his trio and making them the youngest male vocal combo in the industry.

George's voice is no better than that of any other 14-year-old boy who can carry a tune, but he has a fine personality that comes through on this record, and RCA-Victor probably will record a number of his specialties.

The most important part of this particular record is the startlingly faithful sound reproduction. It gives the listener who has even a cheap hi-fi set the impression that the singers are in the room.

Platter-chatter — Susan Hayward has an exceptionally good singing voice for a dramatic actress. If you haven't seen "I'll Cry Tomorrow," listen to her M-G-M recording of the title number . . . "Geronimo," by the Four Voices (Columbia), should be a best seller . . . Joni James has another potential million - record seller in "Somewhere Someone Is Lonely" (M-G-M) . . . And Guy Lombardo moves from Decca to Capitol with a smooth recording of "Our Melody," which gets more unusual treatment by Hugo and Luigi (Mercury).

For Piano Fans — Roger Williams has another good flapjack with "Song of Devotion" backed by "Beyond the Sea" (Kapp) . . . Columbia's "Villegas" album introduces one of the most versatile pianists in ages. Villegas comes from Argentina, gives jazz a classic touch.

Rock and Roll — Perry Como has an arrangement of "Juke Box Baby" that should keep the teenagers happy . . . Ditto Jerry Mercer on "Blue Suede Shoes" (Mercury) . . . And Georgia Gibbs strengthens her position in this field with "Rock Right" (Mercury).

Album of the week — "Everybody's Happy," an Epic LP musical flashback on the work of Ted Lewis. Six fast - moving numbers, inluding, "The Darktown Strutters' Ball," and six slow ones, including "Aunt Hagars Blues."

Show Time — Danny Kaye's zany songs from the movie, "The Court Jester," now are available on a Decca LP. Excellent reproduction.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Almost certainly. Quarreling is not "chit-chat." But talking constantly to each other about everyday happenings, big and little, or to the children about their little problems which seem to be so big to them, proves they all have a lot in common. This is the very core of married happiness and love. A fine help for becoming a good conversationalist is our booklet "The Art of conversation." Nonprofit, 15c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. True. In "Sociology and Social Research," educator L. D. Zeleny, sums up leader traits found by many psychologists. Typical are the following: High-school leaders, intelligence, scholarship, interest in hobbies; high-school girl leaders, loveliness, wide interests, sportsmaiship, ability to amuse, pleasant voice, and self-confidence; all leaders, "speed and finality of decision" — equally true of gang leaders and college presidents! Participation in activities, self-confidence, personal prestige, and decisiveness are highest in all studies.

Do you wish you were like someone else?

Why? Make the most of your own attractive qualities! You will live and work more happily by following rules in booklet, "Develop Your Personality." Send 15c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope (name city and state) to Dr. A. W. Wiggam c-o this newspaper.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Not in most fields, partly from lack of physicial strength. Also, as explained in "Pageant" by Elsie Thorpe, women's wrists are so joined to the forearm they cannot throw balls or swing bats or golf clubs as well as men. They do well at tennis, but most of the "greats" are men. Also the knee joint makes women clumsy at climbing. However, women surpass men in manual dexterity. They are as good natural mechanics as men, but only lack training.

TV Notes

The plum role of the temperamental female star in "Twentieth Century," the Hecht-MacArthur stage success that will be a CBS spectacular on April 7, has gone to Betty Grable. Orson Welles already had been announced to play the conniving impresario.

Dorothy Collins, one of the four singing stars on "Your Hit Parade," was born in Windsor, Ontario, on Nov. 18, 1926. Her first work was on a children's radio program originating in across-the-river Detroit, Mich.

March 25 is now the date for the premiere of the 30-minute by-product of "The $64,000 Question" on the CBS network. In the 10 p.m. slot. "The $64,000 Challenge" is the name, and winners from "Question" will be members of a panel that will match their knowledge against contestants.

"Appointment With Adventure", a half-hour dramatic series, is being dropped by CBS to make room for "The $64,000 Challenge."

Katharine Cornell, who has ignored the movies throughout her long career, will make her TV debut in April 2 in her best-known vehicle, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." On Producer's Showcase" for NBC.

Football! Well, it's only seven months away, so CBS has arranged to telecast games of the National Football League Sunday afternoons beginning Sept. 30 and through Dec. 16. The games will be covered on a regional network basis.

Behind-the-scenes at a political convention provides the material for "The Candidate," a TV original is which Ralph Bellamy will star on the "U. S. Steel Hour" over the CBS network on March 14.

Lee Tracy, who was TV's Martin Kane a few seasons back, will return in a filmed series entitled "New York Confidential" now being made in New York by Television Programs of America. He will serve as narrator.

Art In Review

JAMES J. RORIMER

"The collections come first — the objects, the paintings," declares James J. Rorimer who has been in charge of the invaluable treasures of the Metropolitan Museum of Art since last summer, when he succeeded Francis Henry Taylor as director.

"We must make these objects intelligible to the public," he says—sitting down, standing up, taking a few steps this way and a few that, and puffing on his pipe as he hunts for the words to define meseum plans and policies.

"We must make them intelligible even if that calls for a smoking room here and there in this great building covering four city blocks" . . . he gestures with his pipe to show he'd have use for a smoking room himself. "Or if it calls for a good restaurant."

"We don't want the public to think a visit to the museum is a painful ordeal," he continues.

How does a medievalist whose office walls are covered with ancient tapestries and whose office chairs are antiques feel about modern art?

"As for this office, it isn't any indication of what I'd like. The tapestries are the cheapest decorations since we have them; and the chairs are free, since we also have them and didn't need to buy new ones."

He shows a clear open-mindedness about the art of our day. "We want more modern objects, not only objects of industrial design such as we intend to exhibit in some new galleries, but also painting and sculpture. We want to find what's best or most representative of our era. We know there are artists whom younger people today find exciting. A museum can only represent what it believes to be the best thinking of those who are called artists."

America used an average of 90 gallons of water per person per day in 1920, but uses 145 gallons today.

'Man Who Never Was' In Scheduled At Paramount

Described as one of the most amazing spy stories in the annals of naval intelligence, "The Man Who Never Was," starring Clifton Webb and Gloria Grahame, is coming to the Paramount Theatre on Wednesday.

Based on Ewen Montagu's fabulous best-seller, "The Man Who Never Was," was filmed in De Luxe Color in England and Spain, at the very locations where its drama was played against the background of history. It tells the true story of the daring plan developed during World War II by Allied forces could invade the con-German troops from Sicily so that British naval intelligence to divert tinent with as little resistance as possible. Seen through the eyes of a beautiful American girl who is accidentally involved in the scheme, "The Man Who Never Was" is a thrilling story of men and women so dedicated to the success of their operation that they allow no personal feelings to interfere with doing the job.

The production of this unusual motion picture was a combined Anglo-American operation. Producer Andre Hakim selected British Director and Producer Ronald Neame to handle the directorial reins. Neame whose credits include "Oliver Twist" and "Great Expectations" was joined by the renowned British novelist Nigel Balchin who contributed an outstanding screen play.

To balance the American side of the ledger, and to head this excellent cast, Hakim chose as his stars sauve, debonnaire Clifton Webb who portrays Ewen Montagu author of both the novel "The Man Who Never Was" and the daring plan itself. Beautiful Gloria Grahame is seen as an American girl working and living in wartime Britain.

Producer Hakim added to the luster of American star names by selecting a cast of top flight English performers, many of whose names are familiar to audiences on both sides of the Atlantic. Robert Flemyng and Stephen Boyd are promising young actors and lovely Josephine Griffin is a rising actress.

Webb whose latest Twentieth Century-Fox films are "Woman's World" and "Three Coins In The Fountain" is right at home in England, having been a fabulous success on the English musical comedy stage. Miss Grahame, last seen in, "Not As a Stranger," is a native of Hollywood whose first trip to the continent was to make "The Man Who Never Was."

To give the picture the finest production possible, Producer Hakim assembled the top technical experts available in England. For his director of Photography, Hakim assigned Oswald Morris and to direct the original musical score, the brilliant Muir Mathieson was placed under contract. Among the many supporting players are Andre Morell, Laurence Naismith, Geoffrey Keen, Michael Hornden, Moultrice Kelsall, Cyril Cusack, Joan Hickson and William Russell.

"The Man Who Never Was" was producted in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color.

MUSIC

Victoria de los Angeles, Spanish soprano and a favorite at the Metropolitan Opera for five seasons, is going to skip the United States next season.

She will sing in opera in Italy, Austria, Spain, France, and England during the next 18 months, and also crowd in a three-month, 50-concert tour of Australia and New Zealand. She will be back in the United States during the 1957-58 season.

Yehudi Menuhin played two concertos, Mendelssohn's and Beethoven's, with the New York Philharmonic - Symphony March 6. It was one of the orchestra's pension fund concerts, and it was Menuhin's only New York appearance this season.

Andre Cluytens and Carl Schuricht will be the conductors when the hallowed Vienna Philharmonic makes its first American tour next fall. The orchestra is 114 years old.

Cluytens is musical director of the Paris Opera and first conductor of the Paris Conservatoire Orchestra. He has never appeared in this country. Schuricht is a German who has achieved much European renown since the war. He, too, is to make his American debut.

"The essential - man - behind-the - scenes" of the Philadelphia Orchestra came out into the open for the two Philadelphia concerts March 2 and 3. He is William R. Smith, the assistant conductor, and he shared the podium with his boss, Eugene Ormandy, conductor.

This was his first formal appearance as conductor of the great orchestra, although he took over once as a last - minute substitute for Igor Stravinsky who because of illness couldn't keep a 1953 engagement. Smith has been assistant conductor since the 1952-53 season.

At The Theatres

PARAMOUNT

Today thru Tuesday, from the small T. V. screen to the giant theatre screen comes Eve Arden as "Our Miss Brooks."

Wednesday thru Saturday, the strangest spy story in the annals of naval espionage, "The Man Who Never Was" starring Clifton Webb, Gloria Grahame in CinemaScope and color.

Late show Saturday, the nominee of eight academy awards, Tennessee Williams' "The Tattoo Rose" starring Burt Lancaster, Anna Magnani.

JIM

Sunday thru Saturday, Rock Hudson, Miss Cornell Borchers in "Never Say Goodbye."

Next Sunday, Lucille Ball, Desie Arnez in "For Ever Darling."

If present trends continue, California will have more people than New York State in 1967, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. statistics indicate.

Hollywood

What's A Square?

HOLLYWOOD, March 10 — Ladies and gentlemen, meet a converted Square. I now occupy a place among the Hipsters. The ceremony was conducted and approved by my teenaged youngsters. It started one afternoon as I was sitting in my den, trying to compose a column. The sounds coming from the rumpus room made writing impossible.

"Cut out that noise!" I ordered in my most authoritative, "father-is-busy" voice.

My son came to the door and said, "Dad, that's not noise; that's music. You're a square. You're not hep. What you heard was a George Shearing record. Man — it's the most!"

"The most what?" I wanted to know. "And what's a square?"

My daughter chimed in: "Let's face it; you just don't dig it, dad. You're not with it."

I covered the typewriter. "Who", I asked, "Is George Shearing?"

"If you knew anything about jazz," said my son, "you wouldn't have to ask. Like I said before: man! He's the most." Then they both withered me with a pitying look — and returned to the rumpus room. My wife and I came to a decision. That night we went to find out for ourselves, why we were Squares, and how to "get with it." In Hollywood, there's only one place to do that. It's right on Hollywood at Vine — Zardi's Jazzland. This place is unique in Movieland — and rather phenomenal. For it is the haven of jazz enthusiasts, and through its portals pass the most assorted collection of music-lovers the world has ever known.

When I was a kid, we went to places to hear music too — but we also danced. So I expected a big dance hall. Nothing of the sort! We walked into a nicely appointed room, well filled with tables at which were seated a great number of people raptly listening to a five-piece group playing on the bandstand. This was George Shearing and his celebrated Quintet. They were doing strange but very interesting things with "Autumn Leaves". That is it sounded like "Autumn Leaves," but it also sounded like Bach! It was beautiful. It was exciting. It was also very different from the music I knew as a teenager, like "Avalon", and "See You In My Dreams". I hate to admit this — but I liked it! The audience was absolutely still and not much different from the long-haired music lovers at any swanky concert.

Yet there was a difference, for among them I spotted casually garbed teenagers, several movie personalities and one group of young men and women dressed in work clothes. I discovered later that the last named habitually drop in to "catch" Shearing before reporting to an airplane factory for the swing shift!

Shearing joined us after the "concert", and I discovered that the resemblance to Bach in his arrangements is by no means coincidental. He is an accomplished musician of the old school, with a great talent for jazz idioms. In explaining a drum selection his group had performed, he told us it was as pure Afro-Cuban music as could be found anywhere — rendered somewhat more sophisticated by his type of treatment.

"All the kids," he said, "flip for it. This is good, because here they get a basic feeling for authentic music. There is a definite beat, it's as precise as any finger exercise — and they get it. There is a melodic theme — and they get it too. I believe that integrating classic music into a jazz form is a wonderful way to educate people musically. There is absolutely no need to isolate one form from the other."

I told him that my wife and I had come because of our children. Shearing laughed.

"I have a confession to make," he said. "I also have a thirteen-year-old daughter. She goes in a big way for rhythm and blues music — because that's the kind she can dance to. She doesn't want the other kids to think she's a square. That's how they all start — with rhythm and blues. The next step is progressive jazz. After that, they may even become imbued with a desire to find out what's in back of it all — and they begin to understand something of the three important B's — Bach, Beethoven and Brahsm!"

So you see, there is a great educational value to this jazz craze, and in its own way, Zardi's is practically a school of music! Stan Kenton, Ella Fitzgerald, Joe Loco, Sarah Vaughan, Count Basie, Dave Bruebeck, Erroll Garner, Duke Ellington — they are all on the curriculum at Zardi's.

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

When a contract appears hopeless, great optimism is called for. If only a miracle can save the day, it behooves one to have faith in the eventual occurrence of that miracle and to plan the attack accordingly. When, however, a hand appears to be "in the bag," that is the time to exercise caution. One should ask, "What quirk of fate can prevent success?" and, if possible, to protect against it.

South became declarer at a contract of six hearts. North's cue bid of three spades was somewhat drastic, but in view of South's free bid and the prospect of developing the diamond suit, it is not subject to criticism. When South showed the ace of clubs North was tempted to bid six hearts but feared to act so violently in view of his previous aggressive steps. Nevertheless, it was easy for South to bid slam himself.

The queen of spades was opened and with the spread of the dummy the hand appeared to be a cinch for seven. Declarer, giving no though to any possible mishap, drew trumps and then tried the diamonds. When they broke badly the whole hand fell in a heap. He was heard to mutter some oath anent the preachings of mathematicians. "Five cards outstanding are supposed to break 3-2," he complained.

True indeed, but in behalf of the mathematicians, it should be pointed out that their sign does not read "positively." Furthermore, probabilities should not be relied upon when certainties are available. After all, five cards occasionally break 4-1 and such distribution should not be looked upon as anything in the nature of a tidal wave.

The proper play is to cash the ace of diamonds at trick two and trump a small diamond with an honor. Dummy is reentered with a trump and another small diamond trumped with an honor. This establishes the diamonds for the discard of three clubs. Since trumps have broken, South can ruff out dummy's bad club making all 13 tricks.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By FLETA D. LATHAM

Here it is - at long last - the cast for "The Tender Trap." The feminine roles will be played by Jo Ann Ussery as Jessica Collins, Frances Whitfield as Poppy Matson, Milly Middleton as Sylvia Crewes and Joan Magruder as Julie Gillis. The role of Bachelor Charlie Reader will be portrayed by Stan Richards: Harrell Lary plays Joe McCall. Dick Troy, Jr. has been cast as Earl Lindquiest and Joe Costa will depict Sol Schwartz.

We think "The Tender Trap" has a well-chosen cast and you'll agree with us when you see this delightful comedy the early part of April.

Random notes: With imagination and descriptive help from Director Ivan Uttal, we got a visual picture of the set for "The Tender Trap" as it will look when completed. And it's going to be, as Sol Schwartz would say, the most. . .

The cold weather kept rehearsal visitors away from the playhouse the last of the week. Exceptions were Robert Wood and Jim Ray who were on hand to share in the fun. . .

New Orleans' Gallery Circle Theatre is rehearsing their forthcoming production of "Miranda" under the direction of Stocker Fontelieu. This sophisticated British comedy is probably better known by the short stories and film title "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid." If the play is as chucklesome as the stories, then New Orleans audiences can look forward to delightful entertainment when the play opens on March 16. . .

We chatted with Lallage Feazel who recently returned from New York. She had a theatrical ball in the big city. Saw eighteen plays. How 'bout that? If you're planning a trip to New York, Lallage can certainly give you pointers on which plays to see. . .

Little Theaterites Frances and Leaslis Hale, Myrtle and L. H. Carter and Julius Cahn are driving to Shreveport on Tuesday to see the stage production of "Teahouse of the August Moon". . .

Bobbie and Phil Siragusa have a wonderful memento of a very important occasion. A friend in New Orleans sent them motion pictures of their wedding. A real treasure, don't you think. . .

Little Theatre is going to need the loan of lots of items for "The Tender Trap" but the one we are most concerned with locating right now is a small, modern bar. Anyone having one we can borrow, please telephone 3-4263 or 3-1162.

Time on your hands? Spend some of it out at Little Theatre. The welcome mat is always out and we think you'll have fun. . .

Hudson, Borchers Shine In 'Never Say Goodbye

A bright new star reaches the American screen for the first time in Universal-International's Technicolor romantic drama, "Never Say Goodbye," which opened today at the Jim Theatre. She is Cornell Borchers, who co-stars with Rock Hudson and George Sanders in the excellent film.

Miss Borchers has been one of the top stars in Europe for some time, having won the British Film Academy Award as "the outstanding foreign actress of 1954," and she may well garner a flock of American awards as well for her sensitive portrayal of a Viennese chanteuse in "Never Say Goodbye." Her performance is polished, moving and virtually flawless.

Rock Hudson, as her suregon husband who is separated from her for many years, turns in one of the top performances of his career. The winner of scores of current popularity polls, Hudson is certain to please his fans in this highly-appealing role.

George Sanders in the role of Victor, an artist friend of Miss Borchers, gives the excellent portrayal that one can always count on from this accomplished actor.

Production by Albert J. Cohen is greatly enriched by beautiful Technicolor photography.

Next! "The Man Who Never Was" Clifton Webb

'Man Who Never Was' In Scheduled At Paramount

Described as one of the most amazing spy stories in the annals of naval intelligence, "The Man Who Never Was," starring Clifton Webb and Gloria Grahame, is coming to the Paramount Theatre on Wednesday.

Based on Ewen Montagu's fabulous best-seller, "The Man Who Never Was," was filmed in De Luxe Color in England and Spain, at the very locations where its drama was played against the background of history. It tells the true story of the daring plan developed during World War II by Allied forces could invade the con-German troops from Sicily so that British naval intelligence to divert tinent with as little resistance as possible. Seen through the eyes of a beautiful American girl who is accidentally involved in the scheme, "The Man Who Never Was" is a thrilling story of men and women so dedicated to the success of their operation that they allow no personal feelings to interfere with doing the job.

The production of this unusual motion picture was a combined Anglo-American operation. Producer Andre Hakim selected British Director and Producer Ronald Neame to handle the directorial reins. Neame whose credits include "Oliver Twist" and "Great Expectations" was joined by the renowned British novelist Nigel Balchin who contributed an outstanding screen play.

To balance the American side of the ledger, and to head this excellent cast, Hakim chose as his stars sauve, debonnaire Clifton Webb who portrays Ewen Montagu author of both the novel "The Man Who Never Was" and the daring plan itself. Beautiful Gloria Grahame is seen as an American girl working and living in wartime Britain.

Producer Hakim added to the luster of American star names by selecting a cast of top flight English performers, many of whose names are familiar to audiences on both sides of the Atlantic. Robert Flemyng and Stephen Boyd are promising young actors and lovely Josephine Griffin is a rising actress.

Webb whose latest Twentieth Century-Fox films are "Woman's World" and "Three Coins In The Fountain" is right at home in England, having been a fabulous success on the English musical comedy stage. Miss Grahame, last seen in, "Not As a Stranger," is a native of Hollywood whose first trip to the continent was to make "The Man Who Never Was."

To give the picture the finest production possible, Producer Hakim assembled the top technical experts available in England. For his director of Photography, Hakim assigned Oswald Morris and to direct the original musical score, the brilliant Muir Mathieson was placed under contract. Among the many supporting players are Andre Morell, Laurence Naismith, Geoffrey Keen, Michael Hornden, Moultrice Kelsall, Cyril Cusack, Joan Hickson and William Russell.

"The Man Who Never Was" was producted in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color.

What's A Square?

HOLLYWOOD, March 10 — Ladies and gentlemen, meet a converted Square. I now occupy a place among the Hipsters. The ceremony was conducted and approved by my teenaged youngsters. It started one afternoon as I was sitting in my den, trying to compose a column. The sounds coming from the rumpus room made writing impossible.

"Cut out that noise!" I ordered in my most authoritative, "father-is-busy" voice.

My son came to the door and said, "Dad, that's not noise; that's music. You're a square. You're not hep. What you heard was a George Shearing record. Man — it's the most!"

"The most what?" I wanted to know. "And what's a square?"

My daughter chimed in: "Let's face it; you just don't dig it, dad. You're not with it."

I covered the typewriter. "Who", I asked, "Is George Shearing?"

"If you knew anything about jazz," said my son, "you wouldn't have to ask. Like I said before: man! He's the most." Then they both withered me with a pitying look — and returned to the rumpus room. My wife and I came to a decision. That night we went to find out for ourselves, why we were Squares, and how to "get with it." In Hollywood, there's only one place to do that. It's right on Hollywood at Vine — Zardi's Jazzland. This place is unique in Movieland — and rather phenomenal. For it is the haven of jazz enthusiasts, and through its portals pass the most assorted collection of music-lovers the world has ever known.

When I was a kid, we went to places to hear music too — but we also danced. So I expected a big dance hall. Nothing of the sort! We walked into a nicely appointed room, well filled with tables at which were seated a great number of people raptly listening to a five-piece group playing on the bandstand. This was George Shearing and his celebrated Quintet. They were doing strange but very interesting things with "Autumn Leaves". That is it sounded like "Autumn Leaves," but it also sounded like Bach! It was beautiful. It was exciting. It was also very different from the music I knew as a teenager, like "Avalon", and "See You In My Dreams". I hate to admit this — but I liked it! The audience was absolutely still and not much different from the long-haired music lovers at any swanky concert.

Yet there was a difference, for among them I spotted casually garbed teenagers, several movie personalities and one group of young men and women dressed in work clothes. I discovered later that the last named habitually drop in to "catch" Shearing before reporting to an airplane factory for the swing shift!

Shearing joined us after the "concert", and I discovered that the resemblance to Bach in his arrangements is by no means coincidental. He is an accomplished musician of the old school, with a great talent for jazz idioms. In explaining a drum selection his group had performed, he told us it was as pure Afro-Cuban music as could be found anywhere — rendered somewhat more sophisticated by his type of treatment.

"All the kids," he said, "flip for it. This is good, because here they get a basic feeling for authentic music. There is a definite beat, it's as precise as any finger exercise — and they get it. There is a melodic theme — and they get it too. I believe that integrating classic music into a jazz form is a wonderful way to educate people musically. There is absolutely no need to isolate one form from the other."

I told him that my wife and I had come because of our children. Shearing laughed.

"I have a confession to make," he said. "I also have a thirteen-year-old daughter. She goes in a big way for rhythm and blues music — because that's the kind she can dance to. She doesn't want the other kids to think she's a square. That's how they all start — with rhythm and blues. The next step is progressive jazz. After that, they may even become imbued with a desire to find out what's in back of it all — and they begin to understand something of the three important B's — Bach, Beethoven and Brahms!"

So you see, there is a great educational value to this jazz craze, and in its own way, Zardi's is practically a school of music! Stan Kenton, Ella Fitzgerald, Joe Loco, Sarah Vaughan, Count Basie, Dave Bruebeck, Erroll Garner, Duke Ellington — they are all on the curriculum at Zardi's.

MUSIC

Victoria de los Angeles, Spanish soprano and a favorite at the Metropolitan Opera for five seasons, is going to skip the United States next season.

She will sing in opera in Italy, Austria, Spain, France, and England during the next 18 months, and also crowd in a three-month, 50-concert tour of Australia and New Zealand. She will be back in the United States during the 1957-58 season.

Yehudi Menuhin played two concertos, Mendelssohn's and Beethoven's, with the New York Philharmonic - Symphony March 6. It was one of the orchestra's pension fund concerts, and it was Menuhin's only New York appearance this season.

Andre Cluytens and Carl Schuricht will be the conductors when the hallowed Vienna Philharmonic makes its first American tour next fall. The orchestra is 114 years old.

Cluytens is musical director of the Paris Opera and first conductor of the Paris Conservatoire Orchestra. He has never appeared in this country. Schuricht is a German who has achieved much European renown since the war. He, too, is to make his American debut.

"The essential - man - behind-the - scenes" of the Philadelphia Orchestra came out into the open for the two Philadelphia concerts March 2 and 3. He is William R. Smith, the assistant conductor, and he shared the podium with his boss, Eugene Ormandy, conductor.

This was his first formal appearance as conductor of the great orchestra, although he took over once as a last - minute substitute for Igor Stravinsky who because of illness couldn't keep a 1953 engagement. Smith has been assistant conductor since the 1952-53 season.

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

When a contract appears hopeless, great optimism is called for. If only a miracle can save the day, it behooves one to have faith in the eventual occurrence of that miracle and to plan the attack accordingly. When, however, a hand appears to be "in the bag," that is the time to exercise caution. One should ask, "What quirk of fate can prevent success?" and, if possible, to protect against it.

South became declarer at a contract of six hearts. North's cue bid of three spades was somewhat drastic, but in view of South's free bid and the prospect of developing the diamond suit, it is not subject to criticism. When South showed the ace of clubs North was tempted to bid six hearts but feared to act so violently in view of his previous aggressive steps. Nevertheless, it was easy for South to bid slam himself.

The queen of spades was opened and with the spread of the dummy the hand appeared to be a cinch for seven. Declarer, giving no though to any possible mishap, drew trumps and then tried the diamonds. When they broke badly the whole hand fell in a heap. He was heard to mutter some oath anent the preachings of mathematicians. "Five cards outstanding are supposed to break 3-2," he complained.

True indeed, but in behalf of the mathematicians, it should be pointed out that their sign does not read "positively." Furthermore, probabilities should not be relied upon when certainties are available. After all, five cards occasionally break 4-1 and such distribution should not be looked upon as anything in the nature of a tidal wave.

The proper play is to cash the ace of diamonds at trick two and trump a small diamond with an honor. Dummy is reentered with a trump and another small diamond trumped with an honor. This establishes the diamonds for the discard of three clubs. Since trumps have broken, South can ruff out dummy's bad club making all 13 tricks.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By FLETA D. LATHAM

Here it is - at long last - the cast for "The Tender Trap." The feminine roles will be played by Jo Ann Ussery as Jessica Collins, Frances Whitfield as Poppy Matson, Milly Middleton as Sylvia Crewes and Joan Magruder as Julie Gillis. The role of Bachelor Charlie Reader will be portrayed by Stan Richards; Harrell Lary plays Joe McCall. Dick Troy, Jr. has been cast as Earl Lindquiest and Joe Costa will depict Sol Schwartz.

We think "The Tender Trap" has a well-chosen cast and you'll agree with us when you see this delightful comedy the early part of April.

Random notes: With imagination and descriptive help from Director Ivan Uttal, we got a visual picture of the set for "The Tender Trap" as it will look when completed. And it's going to be, as Sol Schwartz would say, the most...

The cold weather kept rehearsal visitors away from the playhouse the last of the week. Exceptions were Robert Wood and Jim Ray who were on hand to share in the fun...

New Orleans' Gallery Circle Theatre is rehearsing their forthcoming production of "Miranda" under the direction of Stocker Fontelieu. This sophisticated British comedy is probably better known by the short stories and film title "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid." If the play is as chucklesome as the stories, then New Orleans audiences can look forward to delightful entertainment when the play opens on March 16...

We chatted with Lallage Feazel who recently returned from New York. She had a theatrical ball in the big city. Saw eighteen plays. How 'bout that? If you're planning a trip to New York, Lallage can certainly give you pointers on which plays to see...

Little Theaterites Frances and Leaslis Hale, Myrtle and L. H. Carter and Julius Cahn are driving to Shreveport on Tuesday to see the stage production of "Teahouse of the August Moon"...

Bobbie and Phil Siragusa have a wonderful memento of a very important occasion. A friend in New Orleans sent them motion pictures of their wedding. A real treasure, don't you think...

Little Theatre is going to need the loan of lots of items for "The Tender Trap" but the one we are most concerned with locating right now is a small, modern bar. Anyone having one we can borrow, please telephone 3-4263 or 3-1162.

Time on your hands? Spend some of it out at Little Theatre. The welcome mat is always out and we think you'll have fun...

Hudson, Borchers Shine In 'Never Say Goodbye

A bright new star reaches the American screen for the first time in Universal-International's Technicolor romantic drama, "Never Say Goodbye," which opened today at the Jim Theatre. She is Cornell Borchers, who co-stars with Rock Hudson and George Sanders in the excellent film.

Miss Borchers has been one of the top stars in Europe for some time, having won the British Film Academy Award as "the outstanding foreign actress of 1954," and she may well garner a flock of American awards as well for her sensitive portrayal of a Viennese chanteuse in "Never Say Goodbye." Her performance is polished, moving and virtually flawless.

Rock Hudson, as her suregon husband who is separated from her for many years, turns in one of the top performances of his career. The winner of scores of current popularity polls, Hudson is certain to please his fans in this highly-appealing role.

George Sanders in the role of Victor, an artist friend of Miss Borchers, gives the excellent portrayal that one can always count on from this accomplished actor.

David Janssen, a young actor who shows excellent promise, stands out in the role of an Army buddy of Hudson's, as do Ray Collins and Shelley Fabares.

Production by Albert J. Cohen is greatly enriched by beautiful Technicolor photography.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Many of the usual physical discomforts which daily harass the average person, disappear in the experience of regular exercise which is suited to the individual.

Exercise Can Cure Many Of The Common Ailments

It is impossible for one who has not exercised regularly, or for one who has taken the wrong kind of exercise for his trouble, or for one who has exercised past his ability, to know what magic the right kind of exercise can work on the human organism and on the human spirit.

Many of the usual physical discomforts which daily harass the average person, disappear in the experience of regular e-x-e-r-c-i-s-e which is suited to the individual.

Constipation, c h r o n i c fatigue, stiff joints, low blood pressure, early aging, abdominal prolapsus and insomnia are a few of the trials to which humans are subjected which respond in a wonderful way to the right kind of exercise.

See Doctor

If your problem is low blood pressure you should talk to your doctor about this and follow his advice. However, there are certain types of low blood pressure which respond to exercise. During many years of teaching I often have had pupils who were sent to me for this reason.

When you begin a program of exercise you are certain to have some sore muscles at first, even if you start in slowly. If you give up exercising for a few days until the soreness disappears you will have to go through this unpleasant period all over again.

Therefore, the best idea is to do a few of the exercises a few times even on the days when your muscles are sore. Soon this discomfort will pass and you will begin enjoying your gymnastics. The important thing is to do your exercises day after day. They are not nearly so valuable if you are irregular in your routine.

Pocahantas - 6

In the days when the English were colonizing Virginia there lived near the Chesapeake a powerful tribal chief, Powhatan. Though he had brave sons, his pride was his pretty daughter Pocahantas.

One of the leaders of the English settlement at Jamestown was Captain John Smith. One day he was captured, brought before Powhatan for trial and sentenced to die. But just as the axe was about to fall, Pocahantas went to her father, and under ancient tribal law, claimed the life of the captive. Powhatan granted the request and the story has become an American legend.

After Smith returned to England, Pocahantas was captured by the English and later married Captain John Rolfe who took her to England.

For your Pocahantas portrait, color the picture with crayons and paste down on cereal box cardboard. Cut out the figure carefully. Then fold back the ends and it will stand. Place the cape across Pocahantas' shoulders and fold back the tabs to keep it in place.

JUNIOR EDITORS pays $10 for any reader's idea that is used. Write your suggestion to "Junior Editors" in care of this newspaper; it cannot be acknowledged or returned and in case of duplication of ideas, the first submission shall be accepted.

MONDAY: The Money Tree

STAMPS

Monaco's expected commemorative honoring the royal wedding of Prince Rainier III to U.S. actress Grace Kelly will be quiet unlike any stamp ever issued by that little principality. But then there never has been an international romance quiet like this one before, either.

Between the photographs is the wedding date—April 19, 1956. Below are the entwined letters "R" and "G".

The stamp will be sold publicly only on the day of the wedding. It will be issued in denominations of from one to 500 francs.

Although Eire is not issuing any special stamps for St. Patrick's Day, collectors of cachets can get St. Patrick's Day postmarks quite easily.

A two-color cachet of Ferrycarrig Castle for the occasion is available. The covers will be mailed in Ireland with attractive Irish stamps postmarked County Wexford where the castle is situated. This is the fifth consecutive cachet of the historical Irish castle series to be issued.

Americans desiring covers may write to Irish Cachet Covers, 947 East 32 St., Brooklyn 10, N. Y.

Australian Postmaster General C. W. Davidson said there was a possibility of issuing a special stamp, perhaps in December, 1957, illustrative of the spiritual significance of Christmas. Another possible Australian stamp is an air mail honoring the Royal Flying

21st Louisiana Speech Festival To Open March 15

NATCHITOCHES, March 10 (Special) — College and university students from at least four states will gather at Northwestern State College March 15, 16, and 17 for the 21st annual Louisiana speech tournament.

Contestants will compete for trophies in four divisions of debate; for medals and certificates in after - dinner speaking, oratory, poetry reading and extemporaneous speaking; and for a sweepstakes trophy to be given to the school amassing the highest total of points throughout the meet.

Defending their sweepstakes championship won at NSC last year will be Southern Methodist University. Fourteen other schools have given notice that they will be trying to take the trophy away from S-MU.

Entered are North Texas State, University of Houston, Memphis State, Lamar Tech, Mary Hardin-Baylor, Texas Lutheran, Louisiana College, Paris Junior College, Baylor University, Southeastern State of Oklahoma, Southeastern Louisiana, Hardin - Simmons, Tulane, Louisiana Tech and Southwestern Louisiana.

Northwestern debaters will compete in all divisions of the meet, but will not be eligible to win the sweepstakes trophy, since they are hosts, Coach Donald Graham of the NSC speech faculty announced.

If your problem is low blood pressure you should talk to your doctor about this and follow his advice. However, there are certain types of low blood pressure which respond to exercise. During many years of teaching I often have had pupils who were sent to me for this reason.

When you begin a program of exercise you are certain to have some sore muscles at first, even if you start in slowly. If you give up exercising for a few days until the soreness disappears you will have to go through this unpleasant period all over again.

Therefore, the best idea is to do a few of the exercises a few times even on the days when your muscles are sore. Soon this discomfort will pass and you will begin enjoying your gymnastics. The important thing is to do your exercises day after day. They are not nearly so valuable if you are irregular in your routine.

Pocahantas - 6

In the days when the English were colonizing Virginia there lived near the Chesapeake a powerful tribal chief, Powhatan. Though he had brave sons, his pride was his pretty daughter Pocahantas.

One of the leaders of the English settlement at Jamestown was Captain John Smith. One day he was captured, brought before Powhatan for trial and sentenced to die. But just as the ax was about to fall, Pocahantas went to her father, and under ancient tribal law, claimed the life of the captive. Powhatan granted the request and the story has become an American legend.

After Smith returned to England, Pocahantas was captured by the English and later married Captain John Rolfe who took her to England.

For your Pocahantas portrait, color the picture with crayons and paste down on cereal box cardboard. Cut out the figure carefully. Then fold back the ends and it will stand. Place the cape across Pocahantas' shoulders and fold back the tabs to keep it in place.

JUNIOR EDITORS pays $10 for any reader's idea that is used. Write your suggestion to "Junior Editors" in care of this newspaper; it cannot be acknowledged or returned and in case of duplication of ideas, the first submission shall be accepted.

STAMPS

Monaco's expected commemorative honoring the royal wedding of Prince Rainier III to U.S. actress Grace Kelly will be quiet unlike any stamp ever issued by that little principality. But then there never has been an international romance quiet like this one before, either.

Between the photographs is the wedding date—April 19, 1956. Below are the entwined letters "R" and "G".

The stamp will be sold publicly only on the day of the wedding. It will be issued in denominations of from one to 500 francs.

Although Eire is not issuing any special stamps for St. Patrick's Day, collectors of cachets can get St. Patrick's Day postmarks quite easily.

A two-color cachet of Ferrycarrig Castle for the occasion is available. The covers will be mailed in Ireland with attractive Irish stamps postmarked County Wexford where the castle is situated. This is the fifth consecutive cachet of the historical Irish castle series to be issued.

Americans desiring covers may write to Irish Cachet Covers, 947 East 32 St., Brooklyn 10, N. Y.

Australian Postmaster General C. W. Davidson said there was a possibility of issuing a special stamp, perhaps in December, 1957, illustrative of the spiritual significance of Christmas. Another possible Australian stamp is an air mail honoring the Royal Flying

21st Louisiana Speech Festival To Open March 15

NATCHITOCHES, March 10 (Special) — College and university students from at least four states will gather at Northwestern State College March 15, 16, and 17 for the 21st annual Louisiana speech tournament.

Contestants will compete for trophies in four divisions of debate; for medals and certificates in after - dinner speaking, oratory, poetry reading and extemporaneous speaking; and for a sweepstakes trophy to be given to the school amassing the highest total of points throughout the meet.

Defending their sweepstakes championship won at NSC last year will be Southern Methodist University. Fourteen other schools have given notice that they will be trying to take the trophy away from SMU.

Entered are North Texas State, University of Houston, Memphis State, Lamar Tech, Mary Hardin-Baylor, Texas Lutheran, Louisiana College, Paris Junior College, Baylor University, Southeastern State of Oklahoma, Southeastern Louisiana, Hardin - Simmons, Tulane, Louisiana Tech and Southwestern Louisiana.

Northwestern debaters will compete in all divisions of the meet, but will not be eligible to win the sweepstakes trophy, since they are hosts, Coach Donald Graham of the NSC speech faculty announced.

My baking was just average till Robin Hood made it just perfect!

—says Mrs. Dorothy E. Cayford, Skowhegan, Maine

"Ever since I won first prize in the Skowhegan Fair Baking Contest, people have been asking me what my baking secret is. I tell them it's the flour I use—Robin Hood Flour!

"I had tried many different flours, and usually my baking was just average. But one day I baked rolls with Robin Hood. When I took them out of the oven I was thrilled!

"And all the praise I got when I served those wonderful rolls! Since then I wouldn't dream of using any flour but Robin Hood. It gives me perfect results with everything I bake."

Try Rita Martin's ROBIN HOOD

Walnut Cinnamon Buns

Recipe by Rita Martin

½ cup lukewarm milk
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
4 to 4½ cups sifted ROBIN HOOD All-Purpose Flour
2 eggs
2 cakes compressed yeast or 2 pkgs. dry granular yeast*
½ cup lukewarm water*
Brown sugar, butter, cinnamon
Walnut halves

*Soak yeast in luke warm water 5 minutes.

POUR.....milk over shortening, sugar and salt.
BEAT IN....1 cup flour, softened yeast, eggs and 1 more cup flour.
COVER.....with greased waxed paper and let rise in warm place (80-85°) 15 minutes. Prepare 24 muffin cups by mixing 1 tsp. butter, 2 tsp. brown sugar and ¼ tsp. water in each. Arrange walnuts on top.
STIR IN....remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn onto floured board. Knead lightly.
DIVIDE.....dough in half. Roll out each to 9 x 12" oblong. Spread with butter, sprinkle with cinnamon, sugar. Roll dough lengthwise, jelly roll fashion, seal edge. Cut each into 12 pieces.
PLACE.....in prepared muffin cups. Cover and let rise 20 minutes.
BAKE.....in moderate hot oven (400°) 18-20 minutes.
INVERT....onto baking sheet. Serve warm. Yield: 24 buns.

TIM TYLER'S LUCK

BY LYMAN YOUNG AND TOM MAHNEY

YOU ARRIVED JUST AS FOGG SAID HE'D KILL ME IF I DIDN'T TELL WHERE YOU HID YOUR GOLD, MR. PACKER—

I HAD A HUNCH YOU WERE IN TROUBLE, TYLER!

WE WANT YOUR PARTNER NEXT, FOGG— WHERE IS HE ?

BIRCH WENT TO PACKER'S SHACK TO SEARCH IT! HE'S GONE FROM THERE BY NOW!

NOT IF HE MET UP WITH MY PAL SPUD, HE WON'T BE !

THERE'S NO SIGN OF LIFE AROUND MY SHACK, TYLER! MAYBE —

SPUD! ARE YOU THERE ? ... STAY HERE WITH FOGG, MR. PACKER, WHILE I INVESTIGATE !

I-I THOUGHT YOU'D NEVER SHOW UP! QUICK ! FETCH A ROPE !

© 1956, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

I-I HAD HIM KNOCKED OUT FOR AN HOUR WHEN HE SUDDENLY CAME TO AND STARTED FIGHTING AGAIN —AND HOW!

ONE OF US WILL HAVE TO PADDLE UP TO THE VILLAGE AND BRING BACK THE POLICE TO TAKE OVER THE CROOKS!

LOOK ! THE POLICE ARE HERE!

HOW'D YOU MEN HAPPEN TO SHOW UP HERE LIKE MAGIC ? WE WANT YOU TO ARREST THESE TWO—

POLICE CHIEF OLAKI SEND US— BRING MASSAH TYLER AND SPUD TO HEADQUARTERS—HM— BETTER WE TAKE ALL FIVE WITH US TO CHIEF! COME!

GEE! ALL MY LIFE I'VE WANTED A BIG GOLD WATCH LIKE THAT. I WONDER WHAT'S TH' BEST WAY FOR ME TO GO ABOUT GETTIN' ONE.

PRAY, I SHOULD SAY.

YOU MEAN TO SAY, IF I PRAY FOR IT, I'LL GET A BIG GOLD WATCH?

I DID, WHEN I WAS A YOUNG FELLOW.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU WHAT. YOU GIMME THAT ONE AND YOU PRAY FOR ANOTHER.

NO!

HECK! THEN I'M OUTTA LUCK. I AIN'T SAID MY PRAYERS FOR A COUPLA WEEKS AND THEY'VE PROBABLY FORGOT I EVEN EXIST UP THERE.

WELL, I GUESS I BETTER GO TO CHURCH AND START ALL OVER AGAIN.

OH-OH. LOOKS LIKE I'M A LITTLE LATE.

PLINK!

I WONDER WHY TH' PLUSHBOTTOMS DIDN'T SHOW UP.

WELL, FOR TH' LOVA MIKE!

AM I DUMB!

PSST! PARDON ME A MINUTE, MISTER.

SHHH.H

I WANT MY QUARTER BACK!

IMAGINE ME GETTIN' INTO TH' WRONG CHURCH.

Willard

SMILIN' JACK

...AND JACK— OF COURSE I WANT YOUR MOVIE TO BE A SUCCESS--- BUT IF YOU BECOME A STAR--- WELL—

LETTER FROM SABLE

STARDOM COULD DEMAND TOO MUCH OF YOUR LIFE--- IT MIGHT WRECK OUR HOME!

JACK, LOOK— THE STORY OF YOUR LIFE IS BEING SYNDICATED!

THE SMILIN' JACK STORY

YES— COLOSSAL ISN'T MISSIN' A BET TO PROMOTE TH' SMILIN' JACK MOVIE!

LATER

WHAT? I DIDN'T THINK I COULD ACT!

WE OFTEN DISCOVER HIDDEN TALENTS! YOU'RE A NATURAL!

BESIDES BEING TECHNICAL ADVISER AND DOING THE FLYING, YOU'LL STAR IN YOUR OWN MOVIE!

IT'S ANOTHER GREAT PUBLICITY ANGLE! WE'LL HAVE YOU MAKE RADIO, TV AND PUBLIC APPEARANCES GALORE!

YOU'LL BE IN DEMAND EVERY- WHERE, JACK!

MEANWHILE— A CERTAIN MAN IS READING "THE SMILIN' JACK STORY" INSTALLMENT—

HMM--- SAY— THIS MAY BE A BONANZA FOR ME!

Here's a New Bleach

Plus A SPECIAL BRIGHTENER!

AJAX THE FOAMING CLEANSER

CONTAINS BLEACH

AJAX Smells Good, Too!

New AJAX with stain-removing bleach gets bathtubs, sinks and tile gleaming clean. Removes more stains faster than even the strongest liquid bleach!

New AJAX is the only leading cleanser to give you a stain-removing bleach plus a brightener. AJAX polishes as it cleans—you can see a like-new lustre on your porcelain surfaces!

New AJAX makes work so much easier . . . no wonder it outsells all other cleansers combined! Keep a can in the bathroom, another in the kitchen.

"Foaming Action" Floats and Right Down the Drain!
